New Tropical Storm Nears Florida Coast

Picking Up Speed After Slowdown

MIAMI, Fla., Sept. 22 (AP)—A second, less menacing tropical storm picked up speed off the Florida west coast tonight, five days after the first swept out of Florida to rake the Gulf Coast of Louisiana and leave a total of 44 dead and property damage of $75,000,000.

An 8:45 p. m. (EST) the newest storm was only 60 miles west southwest of Fort Myers moving at accelerated speed after a brief slowdown. It was due to strike the coast between Fort Myers and Tampa about midnight.

Afterwards, its center was charged by the latest Weather Bureau advisory to sweep across the Florida peninsula in the opposite direction from last week's disastrous blow and hit the Atlantic Ocean in the Daytona Beach area tomorrow, perhaps with intensified fury.

The new advisory pointing it for the Atlantic at Daytona Beach instead of Jacksonville, some 90 miles to the north, took into consideration a northeasterly drift in its direction noted earlier.

Before the main blow struck with winds up to 60 miles an hour, a satellite tornado wrecked three houses at Seffner, 10 miles east of Tampa, and less seriously damaged several others. No casualties were reported.

Hopeful Report

A hopeful report came from the Weather Bureau that the storm did not appear as far advanced as indicated earlier. The center was described as "still rather poorly organized," although squalls swept out for 200 miles. Its forward movement had slowed from about 18 to 10 miles an hour, indicating, the bureau said, it might take a more northeasterly course.

The new blow caused considerable anxiety in the flooded areas of South Florida's farming districts, where hundreds of farmers, migratory workers and state convicts struggled to save 30,000 acres of rich Everglades muckland.

Every canal throughout the area was full or overflowing and crumbling small dykes, flooding thousands of acres of beans, celery beds and pastureland. The great Okeechobee levee was in no danger, but pumps were incapable of getting water off the lowlands and back behind the levee.

Refugee Train Stands By

J. D. Rogers, drainage engineer for the Pahokee area, said: "Everything depends on how much rainfall we have during the next 48 hours."

A 100-car refugee train stood by at Fort Pierce to move residents inland, should need arise.

Meanwhile, the Gulf Coast from Northwest Florida to Louisiana tabulated incredible damage and continued at least two-score dead.

There still was no acurate estimate of total damage, but it appeared likely that the cost of last week's hurricane would exceed $75,000,000 in South Florida and on the Gulf Coast.

The hurricane-beaten Mississippi coast had an immediate health problem from mounds of dead fish and animals along the beaches, and one city official at Clermont Harbor described the stench as "unbearable."

Seaman To Go On Trial For Navy Wife's Murder

LEONARDTOWN, Md., Sept 22 (AP)—Tomorrow, exactly two months after the day a Navy flight officer found the nude, strangled body of his wife in a crude weekend cabin at Tall Timbers, Joseph Daniel Brouillette, a 22-year-old seaman, will go on trial in the St. Mary's County Circuit Court on a charge that he murdered her.

The state contends the woman, Mrs. Julia Katona, 35, was killed after a penny-ante poker party in which she, Brouillette and four others played.

Brouillette will go on trial before a jury and Judges William M. Loker, Charles Marbury and John D. Gray, of the Second Judicial Circuit.

Truman Plans Statement On World Food Problem

TRIAL DELAYED — With a smile on her face, Dancer Patricia Schmidt gestures playfully in court in Havana, Cuba, after learning that her trial has been postponed. Known professionally as Satira, she is charged with the murder of John Lester Mee, Chicago attorney and ex-Navy officer, who was shot aboard his boat while it was anchored off Havana.

President Confers With Cabinet Aides

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22. (AP)—President Truman, faced with pleas for emergency aid for Europe and with soaring prices at home, will make a statement on world food problems "in a few days," the White House disclosed today.

The announcement was made by Eben Ayers, a White House press secretary, after a Cabinet Food Committee gave the President its recommendations on what to do about helping the hungry abroad.

The recommendations were kept secret for the time being. Ayers said the President will study them and then make his decision.

Secretary of Agriculture Anderson, talking to reporters after the food committee saw Mr. Truman, said there was no discussion during that conference of calling a special session of Congress to act on emergency needs of Western Europe.

Meetings Follow Fast Pace

However, there remained the possibility that the subject came up in other conferences Mr. Truman held today, notably with Secretary of State Marshall.

Anderson declined to "get into" the question of whether voluntary food rationing by the American people, in order to ship more abroad, had been discussed.

Today's schedule of meetings followed an unusually fast pace.

At stake was the issue of whether to call a special session of Congress to provide emergency aid for Western European countries as a barrier against the spread of Communism. Also involved was the cost of living for Americans already restive over high prices.

The chronology went like this:

Marshall, Secretary of War Royall and Anderson held a morning meeting in Anderson's office. A little less than two hours later Anderson reported the three, who make up the Cabinet Food Committee, had agreed on food export recommendations they will make to Mr. Truman.

Cabinet Lunches At White House

Marshall, accompanied by Undersecretary of State Robert Lovett, went to the White House after the meeting in Anderson's office.

Mr. Truman summoned his whole cabinet to a luncheon meeting at Cabinet to a luncheon meeting at the White House, to which he returned only Saturday from a three-week trip to South America.

Then, at 2 p. m. Eastern Standard Time, the Cabinet Food Committee took their recommendations to Mr. Truman formally. Another mid-afternoon meeting brought together the President, Marshall, Anderson, Harriman and Presidential Assistant John R. Steelman.

16 Nations Seek $19,300,000,000 In Aid From U. S.

European Countries Warn Of Revolution

PARIS, Tuesday, Sept. 23 (AP)—A British messenger travelling by commercial plane left Paris for the United States early today, taking to United States Secretary of State Marshall a request for $19,300,000,000 to carry 16 Western European nations through the next four years.

The European economic conference closed yesterday with the signing of a 20,000-word report, embodying the request for financial aid, which warned of possible "catastrophe" and revolution.

Representatives of the 16 countries, which are looped like a giant sickle geographically around Western Russian and her associates, formally signed a report of their needs in accord with a request made by Secretary of State Marshall in a speech at Harvard University on June 5.

British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin who flew from London for the signing of the report in the clock tower of the Grand Palais overlooking the Seine, said:

"Well, here is our report. It is now for the American people and the American Congress to decide whether this program, undertaken at Mr. Marshall's initiation, should be fulfilled and whether Europe can by this means contribute to the peace and prosperity of the world."

Crisis Threatens, Bevin Says

Bevin declared that immediate aid was necessary in order to remove the threat of a crisis for which "there is no precedent in history for judging what shape it may take."

Only an abstract of the report was made public. It made clear that aside from the 16 nations Western Germany was included in the calculations. The exact role of Western Germany was not given, but this was expected to become known soon after the complete report is presented to Marshall.

Russia and the states within her sphere of influence have not participated in drawing up the report.

Bevin said it was "not an appeal to charity," but a "legitimate request for assistance to tide over the period of recovery and to create in turn a situation in which Europe can make its contribution to the postwar world."

Other statesmen joined in noting the urgency of the appeal, and Italian Foreign Minister Carlo Sforza said bluntly that if his people do not get bread within two or three months there will be "a revolution in Italy."

Murder-Suicide Ends Honeymoon

RIDGELAND, S. C., Sept. 22. (AP)—An Army captain's wife was shot to death on her second honeymoon today by a Chatham County (Georgia) police officer with whom she had been friendly while divorced from her husband, Chatham County Police Chief W. F. Chapman reported.

Chapman said the officer, Dennis J. Counihan, fired four bullets into Mrs. Nona Lee Hurst Curtis while her husband and two-year-old son looked on in terror, and then committed suicide.

The tragedy occurred on the Coastal Highway shortly after the couple had crossed into South Carolina en route from Savannah, (county seat of Chatham County) on their second wedding trip.

The divorced couple had been remarried in Savannah only a few hours earlier.

The county police chief quoted the husband, Capt. John E. Curtis, as saying Counihan, 31-year-old member of the homicide squad, overtook them on the highway and forced their automobile to a stop.

Then, the account continued, Counihan jerked open the door of the car, ripped an orchid corsage from the bride's grey travelling suit and began pumping bullets into her with his pistol.

30,000 Expected To Hear "Ike" At Morgantown

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Sept. 22 (AP)—Preparations were completed today to receive upward of 30,000 persons to hear General of the Army Dwight D. Eisenhower speak tomorrow at West Virginia University's Mountaineer Field.

University officials hoped for fair weather to permit the crowd to be seated in the outdoor stadium.

In the event of rain, the ceremonies will be transferred inside the university field house which seats 4,600.

The weather also will govern the mode of transportation for Gen. Eisenhower and his party from Washington. Tentative plans call for an airplane flight, arriving here at 10 a. m., but otherwise he plans to make the journey by train, arriving at 8:30 a. m.

The famed World War II commander will address a special convocation. There was no advance indication of the subject of his speech.

Dies In Bank Lobby

TAKOMA PARK, Md., Sept. 22 (AP) — Mrs. Janet D Dawkins, 63, Takoma Park, collapsed and died in the lobby of the suburban National Bank at Willow and Carroll Avenues this afternoon.

U. S. Air Force Robot Airplane Flies Atlantic

Mechanical Brain Does All The Work

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22 (AP) — A robot plane with an amazing mechanical brain completed a 2,400-mile transatlantic flight today, opening vast possibilities for push-button aeronautics in war and peace.

Crewmen sitting in the plane on a Newfoundland field "tuned in" a British airport yesterday—much like picking a station on a push-button radio—and climbed out of the plane on the English field today without doing anything else to get there.

It was the first fully automatic transatlantic flight and the United States Air Force, which carried out the project, declared:

"Not even so much as a little finger was placed by any human being on the mechanism from the time the plane took to the air until after it had landed."

The actual takeoff and landing were directed, the Air Force said, by beam control, but that was from outside the plane.

Vast Possibilities Opened

An Air Force official pointed out that the demonstration was a long step toward the day when loaded bombers might be sent over targets without humans aboard, or cargo planes might be sent automatically to destinations.

Other air experts said, however, that operation of the automatically piloted craft required a radio beam from takeoff point to destination and added that an enemy would be unlikely to co-operate by lining up beams on his best targets. These experts did not deny, however, that the flight had great implications for the future.

The plane, a C-54 Skymaster of the Air Force's All-Weather Flying Division, took off at 5 p. m. (Eastern Standard Time) yesterday from Stephenville, Newfoundland, and completed its 2,400-mile flight 12 hours and five minutes later at Brize Norton, 40 miles west of London. It carried an idle crew of nine, plus five passengers.

Officers of the Air Materiel Command at Wright Field, near Dayton, O., said the "mechanical brain" which did the actual flying is the only one in existence.

"The mechanism," officers there said, "involves time sequences and radio beams, and calculates everything about the flight as well as flying the plane.

"Brain" Does Work

"All it needs is for somebody to taxi it into position to take off. Then somebody pushes a button for the ship's destination. It figures out how much time it will take to fly there, pre-selects its speed, calculates the speed of head or tail winds, and sets down at a certain time at its destination." The controls are so built that ground crews with the proper electronic equipment can take over directions, if necessary, for such a purpose as holding the automatic plane aloft at a crowded airport.

The "mechanical brain" started out to be only a device to take care of such chores as revving up the engines and pulling up landing wheels after a takeoff to take work off the pilot, Wright Field officers said, but "it grew like Topsy."

Proposal Backing Lewis To Head AFL Opposed

PEORIA, Ill., Sept. 22. (AP)—A proposal before the Illinois Federation of Labor's 65th convention urging election of John L. Lewis as president of the American Federation of Labor today was termed "ill-advised and premature."

Opposing the resolution offered by the Rockford, Ill., federation was William A. Lee, international trustee of the Teamsters Union and president of the 400,000 member Chicago Federation of Labor.

Lee said the resolution was "ill-advised and premature." He said he would oppose it because the teamsters union had endorsed President William Green for re-election and because Green's "years of experience are needed at this time."

College Heads Named

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Sept. 22 (AP) — Dr. Harry B. Heflin and Dr. Oliver S. Ikenberry were named by the State Board of Education today to assume the presidencies of Glenville State College and Shepherd College, respectively.

EARLY CHRISTMAS—Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Robb hover over the crib of their four-year-old daughter, Carolyn, after an early Christmas party at their home in Decatur, Ill., yesterday. The little girl, partly paralyzed by a brain cancer which doctors say will cut off her life in a few days, smiled happily at the gaily-decorated Christmas tree and the toy Santa Claus perched atop a pile of letters and packages from all parts of the country.

Prices Of Meat, Butter And Eggs Continue Decline

Livestock Steady But Grains Go Up

[By The Associated Press]

Prospects that the housewife's shrunken dollar might grow a little larger brightened Monday as the wholesale price decline of meat, butter and eggs—major items in the high cost of eating—carried over into its second week.

Livestock prices generally held about steady on the nation's principal markets, after nearly a week-long decline, but grains, principally wheat, pushed higher at the major exchanges.

Reasons For Grain Hikes

A threat of frost, reports of good domestic flour business and indications the Commodity Credit Corporation was buying cash wheat for export gave the upward push to grain prices, following their sustained collapse last week.

Elsewhere in the cost of living picture, a Cabinet Food Committee in Washington agreed in private on what future food exports to recommend to President Truman and a congressional subcommittee in New York heard demands of four consumer groups for restoring price controls and rationing.

In Paris, the 16 nations seeking United States aid under the Marshall plan, pledged a program of self-help and requested $19,330,000,000for the years 1948 through 1951.

Butter and Eggs Drop

In the New York wholesale market, butter sold for 80 cents a pound, down 2½ cents from Friday and seven cents below a week ago. Wholesale butter at Chicago was down as much as 2½ cents, with the top grade selling at 79 cents.

Top eggs in the New York wholesale market were three to four cents below Friday, selling at 64 to 66 cents. In Chicago, the best wholesale eggs were off as much as three cents, selling at 60 to 63 cents.

Wholesale prices of meat were generally lower in both New York and Chicago, with most declines in Chicago ranging from 50 cents to $1 a hundred pounds.

Three Injured In Crash Of School Bus And Car

HAGERSTOWN, Md., Sept. 22 (AP)—Two high school pupils suffered minor injuries today and an Army major was hurt seriously in a collision between a school bus and an automobile near here.

Mary Wiley, 17, and Betty Hays, 15, were released after treatment in the Washington County Hospital. The mayor, Harry J. Klopp, 46, Baltimore, was admitted for further treatment.

Yugoslav Patrol Kidnaps Three American Soldiers

Yanks Forced Across Border At Gunpoint

TRIESTE FREE TERRITORY, Tuesday, Sept. 23 (AP) — A United States officer and two enlisted men were taken captive on the Trieste Free Territory frontier by Yugoslavs at about noon yesterday, an official report from headquarters of the United States troops in Trieste said early today.

The men were "forced across the frontier at gunpoint," the official account stated.

They were in a five-man mounted patrol of the rugged terrain between outpost No. 5—where the Yugoslavs last week tried to force their way into the free territory—and outpost No. 6.

Men Are Identified

First Lt. William Van Atten, East Orange, N. J.; Pfc. Earl G. Hendrick, Jr., Arlington, Va., and Pfc. Glen A. Myers, Edgely, N. D.

Van Atten was one of the victims in July, 1946, of a Yugoslav ambush on the road between Gorizia and Trieste when the driver of his car was killed and he and an enlisted man were wounded, the Army report said.

"The report of the incident came from the other two members of the patrol, Pfc. Edison T. Lenhart, Southbury, Conn., and Pvt. George E. Perry, Fort Thomas, Ky., who dashed to the 351st Regimental Headquarters with the news.

Rifles Pointed At Trio

"While leading his patrol along the frontier, Van Atten sighted a Yugoslav patrol with whom he and his men had talked before and appeared to be on good terms. Van Atten and two enlisted men dismounted and approached the boundary on foot.

"They were seen talking with the Yugoslavs at a distance of 30 to 35 feet from the Yugoslavs. Then they were seen to go forward, while the Yugoslavs pointed rifles at them."

The Army report did not say how many were in the Yugoslav patrol.

It said the Americans were "forced across the frontier at gunpoint."

Skeleton Spends Night With Cops; Upset Passersby

BALTIMORE, Sept. 22 (AP)—Uncle George, an elderly skeleton, was back home today—in the cellar this time—after spending a night in jail for disturbing the peace of mind of early morning passersby.

Playful companions of John S. Hartlove, who is keeping Uncle George for a friend, seated the skeleton on a chair in front of the house.

That upset a neighbor so much he didn't stop running until reaching the district police station. Uncle George was carried off in a police car to headquarters, where he scared a lot more persons, most of them sleeping off a case of too much strong drink.

Hartlove paid $25 to the magistrate and took George back home.

Uncle George, who is 102, adorned a physician's office in his youth.

Taft Challenges Lucas, O'Mahoney

ENROUTE TO SEATTLE WITH TAFT, Sept. 22. (INS)—Sen. Robert A. Taft (R) of Ohio, challenged two Democratic colleagues today to "state their own solution for high prices" instead of calling him names for blaming inflation on President Truman.

Taft's sharp reply to Sens. Lucas (D) Ill., and O'Mahoney (D) Wyo., was made in a statement just before he left Lake Tahoe for Seattle.

He called their criticism of him "intemperate and untrue personal attacks."

It was the first political exchange with Democratic leaders that Taft has made since launching his six-state western quest for presidential support.

Lucas and O'Mahoney rapped Taft for laying high prices at the doorstep of the President. They called Taft "the foreman of the wrecking crew" which they said ended price control last year.

The GOP presidential aspirant said he "welcomed" debate on the issue of "whose policies are to blame for present high prices." Taft said that "obviously" the spiraling cost of living resulted from Democratic administration policies. He added:

"The Democratic high command has been planning to blame the Republicans for high prices, and from the intemperate and untrue personal attacks in a statement by Sens. Lucas and O'Mahoney, issued through the Democratic National Commitee, they are very much upset indeed that anyone should point out the obvious truth."

Weather Continues To Plague Farmers

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22 (AP)—The weather continued today to plague the nation's farmers in their efforts to meet enormous domestic demands and help supply foreign countries.

Weather forecasters predicted scattered frosts tonight in much of the Midwest, Middle Atlantic, and New England states. This was the latest cause for worry in a season marked by late spring frosts, floods, a severe midwestern drought, and a destructive hurricane in the south.

1,112 Union Locals File

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22 (AP) — The Labor Department said today that 1,112 union locals and international organizations have filed financial reports and other information required under the Taft-Hartley law.

Denied Chance For Follow Up On U. S. Attack

Accusations Hurled In General Debate

NEW YORK, Sept. 22—(AP)—United Nations Assembly President Oswaldo Aranha said tonight he had turned down a request from Andrei Vishinsky, of Russia, for opportunity to follow up [illegible] "warmongering" attack on the United States with a second speech in the Assembly's general debate.

The development came as the battle between Russia and the western powers raged hot and heavy through a round of speeches this afternoon.

The situation had reached such a point of tension by the day's end that Secretary-General Trygve Lie decided to make a formal appeal at tomorrow's session for the great powers to put aside their differences and co-operate for peace. His office announced his speech would close the general debate.

In today's debate, Hector McNeil, British Minister of State, charged that if Russia continues her present policies the United Nations will be destroyed and "the unstable peace of the world will crumble and fall" with "hideous consequences."

Spokesmen for Yugoslavia and the Soviet Ukraine, both in the Moscow orbit, blamed the present state of world upset mainly on the United States. Yugoslavia warned of a "growing danger of a new conflagration."

Turkey Accuses Russia

Turkey, in the American-British camp, accused Russia of conducting a "war of nerves" against the Turkish nation.

Secretary of State Marshall, meanwhile, journeyed from Washington tonight and had already arranged an American delegation meeting for tomorrow morning. Presumably he intends to report on his conference today with President Truman and to shape final plans for pushing the new American security and veto-limitation proposals in United Nations committee meetings.

Aranha said the Vishinsky incident occurred after McNeil had spoken. Vishinsky evidentaly wanted an opportunity for final rebuttal to the British and other speeches which had been critical of his "warmongering" address.

Russian informants said Vishinsky did not formally press his inquiry about making a second speech. They said he accepted Aranha's ruling.

Aranha told reporters: "There will be one general debate—not two." He had announced the closing of the speakers' list last Friday night.

Simic Flays Marshall Plan

Foreign Minister Stanoje Simic, of the Communist government of Yugoslavia, declared the United States had been following policies "in conflict with" the United Nations Charter. These, he said, have "sharpened international relations and x x x point to a growing danger of a new conflagration."

Simic assailed the Marshall plan for European recovery as a device to raise a "dollar curtain" across Europe, isolate the nations of Eastern Europe and create an American-dominated "western bloc."

Still another round of accusations was fired at the western nations by Dmitri Manuilsky, Foreign Minister of the Soviet Ukraine and fiery "old Bolshevik." He renewed the Soviet charge of "warmonger-

Rose Named In Honor Of Late Grace Moore

WEST GROVE, Pa., Sept. 22 (AP)—The world's rose lovers acquired a new rose today named in honor of the late singer, Grace Moore.

The deep crimson rose was christened by Miss Moore's sister, Mrs. Richard L. Mahan, Chattanooga, Tenn., in special ceremonies at the Conard-Pyle rose gardens.

Tying a star label bearing the singer's name around the long, thorned stems of a half dozen roses, Mrs. Mahan told more than 150 persons "my whole family thinks it is a great honor to have such a beautiful flower named after Grace."

Miss Moore died in an airplane crash in Europe early this year while on a concert tour.

Bevin Calls On U. S. To Aid Itself By Providing Marshall Plan Funds

PARIS, Sept. 22 (INS) — British Foreign Minister Bevin called on the United States today to aid itself by providing Europe with the $15,810,000,000 needed in the Marshall aid plan.

In an exclusive interview with International News Service, Bevin said:

"It would be incredable if the United States turned down a project that would aid her as much as it would Western Europe.

"We cannot think in terms of national interest now. To aid a neighbor means to aid oneself in this shrunken world."

The outspoken Bevin made this comment after presiding at a meeting of the European Marshall Plan Committee which appealed for the United States to avert a "catastrophe" to the 16 co-operating nations by providing food, fuel and materials.

Bevin denied that he ever asked for a "redistribution" of the Fort Knox gold, and said he merely suggested that the United States "invest" a minute portion of its gold supply in a project "which will yield her huge profits."

Commenting on Plestine, the British Minister said:

"We have tried to live up to our obligations to the best of our ability, but we have failed. This is not surprising, though, for all solutions to the Palestine question have failed for the last 2,000 years."

Bevin compared America's world position today with Britain's after the Napoleonic wars, when, he said, England did everything in its power to aid other nations."

He accused American newsmen of distorting his controversal statement on the Fort Knox gold hoard.

Chief Justice Sees Totalitarian Ideas Menacing U. S. Legal System

CLEVELAND, Sept. 22 (AP)—Chief Justice Fred M. Vinson tonight pleaded before the American Bar Association for its leadership in renewing America's faith in itself, lest the stirrings of "totalitarian doctrines" imperil free government under law.

The legal systems of some nations abdicated after the First World War, Vinson told the 70th annual bar meeting, and "in cynical subservience, served the demands of all-powerful states."

"But the challenge to the supremacy of the law has not been confined to the totalitarian regimes," he warned, in one of his rare addresses since becoming Chief Magistrate.

"In our own country we have seen evidences that there are those who have failed to realize that the only alternative to the supremacy of the law is anarchistic chaos or the reign of a personal dictator," he added.

This is "the age of great challenge," marked by crisis and confusion, Vinson said, and one in which many ideologies regard man as "a mere automaton x x x incapable of exercising the high privilege of self-government.

"Essentially this conception of the nature of man underlies all of the totalitarian doctrines of our day, and unfortunately it underlies the thinking of some in our own midst who shrink from its inevitable and logical conclusion.

"This conception contains the seeds of destruction. We must resist it and prove it fallacious."

Picking Up Speed After Slowdown

MIAMI, Fla., Sept. 22 (AP)—A second, less menacing tropical storm picked up speed off the Florida west coast tonight, five days after the first swept out of Florida to rake the Gulf Coast of Louisiana and leave a total of 44 dead and property damage of $75,000,000.

An 8:45 p. m. (EST) the newest storm was only 60 miles west southwest of Fort Myers moving at accelerated speed after a brief slowdown. It was due to strike the coast between Fort Myers and Tampa about midnight.

Afterwards, its center was charged by the latest Weather Bureau advisory to sweep across the Florida peninsula in the opposite direction from last week's disastrous blow and hit the Atlantic Ocean in the Daytona Beach area tomorrow, perhaps with intensified fury.

The new advisory pointing it for the Atlantic at Daytona Beach instead of Jacksonville, some 90 miles to the north, took into consideration a northeasterly drift in its direction noted earlier.

Before the main blow struck with winds up to 80 miles an hour, a satellite tornado wrecked three houses at Seffner, 10 miles east of Tampa, and less seriously damaged several others. No casualties were reported.

Hopeful Report

A hopeful report came from the Weather Bureau that the storm did not appear as far advanced as indicated earlier. The center was described as "still rather poorly organized," although squalls swept out for 200 miles. Its forward movement had slowed from about 18 to 10 miles an hour, indicating, the bureau said, it might take a more northeasterly course.

The new blow caused considerable anxiety in the flooded areas of South Florida's farming districts, where hundreds of farmers, migratory workers and state convicts struggled to save 30,000 acres of rich Everglades muckland.

Every canal throughout the area was full or overflowing and crumbling small dykes, flooding thousands of acres of beans, celery beds and pastureland. The great Okeechobee levee was in no danger, but pumps were incapable of getting water off the lowlands and back behind the levee.

Refugee Train Stands By

J. D. Rogers, drainage engineer for the Pahokee area, said: "Everything depends on how much rainfall we have during the next 48 hours."

A 100-car refugee train stood by at Fort Pierce to move residents inland, should need arise.

Meanwhile, the Gulf Coast from Northwest Florida to Louisiana tabulated incredible damage and continued at least two-score dead.

There still was no acurate estimate of total damage, but it appeared likely that the cost of last week's hurricane would exceed $75,000,000 in South Florida and on the Gulf Coast.

The hurricane-beaten Mississippi coast had an immediate health problem from mounds of dead fish and animals along the beaches, and one city official at Clermont Harbor described the stench as "unbearable."

Seaman To Go On Trial For Navy Wife's Murder

LEONARDTOWN, Md., Sept 22 (AP)—Tomorrow, exactly two months after the day a Navy flight officer found the nude, strangled body of his wife in a crude weekend cabin at Tall Timbers, Joseph Daniel Brouillette, a 22-year-old seaman, will go on trial in the St. Mary's County Circuit Court on a charge that he murdered her.

The state contends the woman, Mrs. Julia Katona, 35, was killed after a penny-ante poker party in which she, Brouillette and four others played.

Brouillette will go on trial before a jury and Judges William M. Loker, Charles Marbury and John D. Gray, of the Second Judicial Circuit.

President Confers With Cabinet Aides

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22. (AP)—President Truman, faced with pleas for emergency aid for Europe and with soaring prices at home, will make a statement on world food problems "in a few days," the White House disclosed today.

The announcement was made by Eben Ayers, a White House press secretary, after a Cabinet Food Committee gave the President its recommendations on what to do about helping the hungry abroad.

The recommendations were kept secret for the time being. Ayers said the President will study them and then make his decision.

Secretary of Agriculture Anderson, talking to reporters after the food committee saw Mr. Truman, said there was no discussion during that conference of calling a special session of Congress to act on emergency needs of Western Europe.

Meetings Follow Fast Pace

However, there remained the possibility that the subject came up in other conferences Mr. Truman held today, notably with Secretary of State Marshall.

Anderson declined to "get into" the question of whether voluntary food rationing by the American people, in order to ship more abroad, had been discussed.

Today's schedule of meetings followed an unusually fast pace.

At stake was the issue of whether to call a special session of Congress to provide emergency aid for Western European countries as a barrier against the spread of Communism. Also involved was the cost of living for Americans already restive over high prices.

The chronology went like this:

Marshall, Secretary of War Royall and Anderson held a morning meeting in Anderson's office. A little less than two hours later Anderson reported the three, who make up the Cabinet Food Committee, had agreed on food export recommendations they will make to Mr. Truman.

Cabinet Lunches At White House

Marshall, accompanied by Undersecretary of State Robert Lovett, went to the White House after the meeting in Anderson's office.

Mr. Truman summoned his whole cabinet to a luncheon meeting at Cabinet to a luncheon meeting at the White House, to which he returned only Saturday from a three-week trip to South America.

Then, at 2 p. m. Eastern Standard Time, the Cabinet Food Committee took their recommendations to Mr. Truman formally. Another mid-afternoon meeting brought together the President, Marshall, Anderson, Harriman and Presidential Assistant John R. Steelman.

16 Nations Seek $19,300,000,000 In Aid From U. S.

European Countries Warn Of Revolution

PARIS, Tuesday, Sept. 23 (AP)—A British messenger travelling by commercial plane left Paris for the United States early today, taking to United States Secretary of State Marshall a request for $19,300,000,000 to carry 16 Western European nations through the next four years.

The European economic conference closed yesterday with the signing of a 20,000-word report, embodying the request for financial aid, which warned of possible "catastrophe" and revolution.

Representatives of the 16 countries, which are looped like a giant sickle geographically around Western Russian and her associates, formally signed a report of their needs in accord with a request made by Secretary of State Marshall in a speech at Harvard University on June 5.

British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin who flew from London for the signing of the report in the clock tower of the Grand Palais overlooking the Seine, said:

"Well, here is our report. It is now for the American people and the American Congress to decide whether this program, undertaken at Mr. Marshall's initiation, should be fulfilled and whether Europe can by this means contribute to the peace and prosperity of the world."

Crisis Threatens, Bevin Says

Bevin declared that immediate aid was necessary in order to remove the threat of a crisis for which "there is no precedent in history for judging what shape it may take."

Only an abstract of the report was made public. It made clear that aside from the 16 nations Western Germany was included in the calculations. The exact role of Western Germany was not given, but this was expected to become known soon after the complete report is presented to Marshall.

Russia and the states within her sphere of influence have not participated in drawing up the report.

Bevin said it was "not an appeal to charity," but a "legitimate request for assistance to tide over the period of recovery and to create in turn a situation in which Europe can make its contribution to the postwar world."

Other statesmen joined in noting the urgency of the appeal, and Italian Foreign Minister Carlo Sforza said bluntly that if his people do not get bread within two or three months there will be "a revolution in Italy."

Murder-Suicide Ends Honeymoon

RIDGELAND, S. C., Sept. 22. (AP)—An Army captain's wife was shot to death on her second honeymoon today by a Chatham County (Georgia) police officer with whom she had been friendly while divorced from her husband, Chatham County Police Chief W. F. Chapman reported.

Chapman said the officer, Dennis J. Counihan, fired four bullets into Mrs. Nona Lee Hurst Curtis while her husband and two-year-old son looked on in terror, and then committed suicide.

The tragedy occurred on the Coastal Highway shortly after the couple had crossed into South Carolina en route from Savannah, (county seat of Chatham County) on their second wedding trip.

The divorced couple had been remarried in Savannah only a few hours earlier.

The county police chief quoted the husband, Capt. John E. Curtis, as saying Counihan, 31-year-old member of the homicide squad, overtook them on the highway and forced their automobile to a stop.

Then, the account continued, Counihan jerked open the door of the car, ripped an orchid corsage from the bride's grey travelling suit and began pumping bullets into her with his pistol.

30,000 Expected To Hear "Ike" At Morgantown

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Sept. 22 (AP)—Preparations were completed today to receive upward of 30,000 persons to hear General of the Army Dwight D. Eisenhower speak tomorrow at West Virginia University's Mountaineer Field.

University officials hoped for fair weather to permit the crowd to be seated in the outdoor stadium.

In the event of rain, the ceremonies will be transferred inside the university field house which seats 4,600.

The weather also will govern the mode of transportation for Gen. Eisenhower and his party from Washington. Tentative plans call for an airplane flight, arriving here at 10 a. m., but otherwise he plans to make the journey by train, arriving at 8:30 a. m.

The famed World War II commander will address a special convocation. There was no advance indication of the subject of his speech.

TAKOMA PARK, Md., Sept. 22 (AP) — Mrs. Janet D Dawkins, 63, Takoma Park, collapsed and died in the lobby of the suburban National Bank at Willow and Carroll Avenues this afternoon.

U. S. Air Force Robot Airplane Flies Atlantic

Mechanical Brain Does All The Work

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22 (AP) — A robot plane with an amazing mechanical brain completed a 2,400-mile transatlantic flight today, opening vast possibilities for push-button aeronautics in war and peace.

Crewmen sitting in the plane on a Newfoundland field "tuned in" a British airport yesterday—much like picking a station on a push-button radio—and climbed out of the plane on the English field today without doing anything else to get there.

It was the first fully automatic transatlantic flight and the United States Air Force, which carried out the project, declared:

"Not even so much as a little finger was placed by any human being on the mechanism from the time the plane took to the air until after it had landed."

The actual takeoff and landing were directed, the Air Force said, by beam control, but that was from outside the plane.

Vast Possibilities Opened

An Air Force official pointed out that the demonstration was a long step toward the day when loaded bombers might be sent over targets without humans aboard, or cargo planes might be sent automatically to destinations.

Other air experts said, however, that operation of the automatically piloted craft required a radio beam from takeoff point to destination and added that an enemy would be unlikely to co-operate by lining up beams on his best targets. These experts did not deny, however, that the flight had great implications for the future.

The plane, a C-54 Skymaster of the Air Force's All-Weather Flying Division, took off at 5 p. m. (Eastern Standard Time) yesterday from Stephenville, Newfoundland, and completed its 2,400-mile flight 12 hours and five minutes later at Brize Norton, 40 miles west of London. It carried an idle crew of nine, plus five passengers.

Officers of the Air Materiel Command at Wright Field, near Dayton, O., said the "mechanical brain" which did the actual flying is the only one in existence.

"The mechanism," officers there said, "involves time sequences and radio beams, and calculates everything about the flight as well as flying the plane.

"Brain" Does Work

"All it needs is for somebody to taxi it into position to take off. Then somebody pushes a button for the ship's destination. It figures out how much time it will take to fly there, pre-selects its speed, calculates the speed of head or tail winds, and sets down at a certain time at its destination." The controls are so built that ground crews with the proper electronic equipment can take over directions, if necessary, for such a purpose as holding the automatic plane aloft at a crowded airport.

The "mechanical brain" started out to be only a device to take care of such chores as revving up the engines and pulling up landing wheels after a takeoff to take work off the pilot, Wright Field officers said, but "it grew like Topsy."

Proposal Backing Lewis To Head AFL Opposed

PEORIA, Ill., Sept. 22. (AP)—A proposal before the Illinois Federation of Labor's 65th convention urging election of John L. Lewis as president of the American Federation of Labor today was termed "ill-advised and premature."

Opposing the resolution offered by the Rockford, Ill., federation was William A. Lee, international trustee of the Teamsters Union and president of the 400,000 member Chicago Federation of Labor.

Lee said the resolution was "ill-advised and premature." He said he would oppose it because the teamsters union had endorsed President William Green for re-election and because Green's "years of experience are needed at this time."

EARLY CHRISTMAS—Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Robb hover over the crib of their four-year-old daughter, Carolyn, after an early Christmas party at their home in Decatur, Ill., yesterday. The little girl, partly paralyzed by a brain cancer which doctors say will cut off her life in a few days, smiled happily at the gaily-decorated Christmas tree and the toy Santa Claus perched atop a pile of letters and packages from all parts of the country.

Prices Of Meat, Butter And Eggs Continue Decline

Livestock Steady But Grains Go Up

[By The Associated Press]

Prospects that the housewife's shrunken dollar might grow a little larger brightened Monday as the wholesale price decline of meat, butter and eggs—major items in the high cost of eating—carried over into its second week.

Livestock prices generally held about steady on the nation's principal markets, after nearly a week-long decline, but grains, principally wheat, pushed higher at the major exchanges.

Reasons For Grain Hikes

A threat of frost, reports of good domestic flour business and indications the Commodity Credit Corporation was buying cash wheat for export gave the upward push to grain prices, following their sustained collapse last week.

Elsewhere in the cost of living picture, a Cabinet Food Committee in Washington agreed in private on what future food exports to recommend to President Truman and a congressional subcommittee in New York heard demands of four consumer groups for restoring price controls and rationing.

In Paris, the 16 nations seeking United States aid under the Marshall plan, pledged a program of self-help and requested $19,330,000,000for the years 1948 through 1951.

Butter and Eggs Drop

In the New York wholesale market, butter sold for 80 cents a pound, down 2½ cents from Friday and seven cents below a week ago. Wholesale butter at Chicago was down as much as 2½ cents, with the top grade selling at 79 cents.

Top eggs in the New York wholesale market were three to four cents below Friday, selling at 64 to 66 cents. In Chicago, the best wholesale eggs were off as much as three cents, selling at 60 to 63 cents.

Wholesale prices of meat were generally lower in both New York and Chicago, with most declines in Chicago ranging from 50 cents to $1 a hundred pounds.

HAGERSTOWN, Md., Sept. 22 (AP)—Two high school pupils suffered minor injuries today and an Army major was hurt seriously in a collision between a school bus and an automobile near here.

Mary Wiley, 17, and Betty Hays, 15, were released after treatment in the Washington County Hospital. The mayor, Harry J. Klopp, 46, Baltimore, was admitted for further treatment.

Yugoslav Patrol Kidnaps Three American Soldiers

Yanks Forced Across Border At Gunpoint

TRIESTE FREE TERRITORY, Tuesday, Sept. 23 (AP) — A United States officer and two enlisted men were taken captive on the Trieste Free Territory frontier by Yugoslavs at about noon yesterday, an official report from headquarters of the United States troops in Trieste said early today.

The men were "forced across the frontier at gunpoint," the official account stated.

They were in a five-man mounted patrol of the rugged terrain between outpost No. 5—where the Yugoslavs last week tried to force their way into the free territory—and outpost No. 6.

Men Are Identified

The three men taken captive, according to the Army public relations announcement, were:

First Lt. William Van Atten, East Orange, N. J.; Pfc. Earl G. Hendrick, Jr., Arlington, Va., and Pfc. Glen A. Myers, Edgely, N. D.

Van Atten was one of the victims in July, 1946, of a Yugoslav ambush on the road between Gorizia and Trieste when the driver of his car was killed and he and an enlisted man were wounded, the Army report said.

"The report of the incident came from the other two members of the patrol, Pfc. Edison T. Lenhart, Southbury, Conn., and Pvt. George E. Perry, Fort Thomas, Ky., who dashed to the 351st Regimental Headquarters with the news.

Rifles Pointed At Trio

"While leading his patrol along the frontier, Van Atten sighted a Yugoslav patrol with whom he and his men had talked before and appeared to be on good terms. Van Atten and two enlisted men dismounted and approached the boundary on foot.

"They were seen talking with the Yugoslavs at a distance of 30 to 35 feet from the Yugoslavs. Then they were seen to go forward, while the Yugoslavs pointed rifles at them."

The Army report did not say how many were in the Yugoslav patrol.

It said the Americans were "forced across the frontier at gunpoint."

Skeleton Spends Night With Cops; Upset Passersby

BALTIMORE, Sept. 22 (AP)—Uncle George, an elderly skeleton, was back home today—in the cellar this time—after spending a night in jail for disturbing the peace of mind of early morning passersby.

Playful companions of John S. Hartlove, who is keeping Uncle George for a friend, seated the skeleton on a chair in front of the house.

That upset a neighbor so much he didn't stop running until reaching the district police station. Uncle George was carried off in a police car to headquarters, where he scared a lot more persons, most of them sleeping off a case of too much strong drink.

Hartlove paid $25 to the magistrate and took George back home.

Uncle George, who is 102, adorned a physician's office in his youth.

Taft Challenges Lucas, O'Mahoney

ENROUTE TO SEATTLE WITH TAFT, Sept. 22. (INS)—Sen. Robert A. Taft (R) of Ohio, challenged two Democratic colleagues today to "state their own solution for high prices" instead of calling him names for blaming inflation on President Truman.

Taft's sharp reply to Sens. Lucas (D) Ill., and O'Mahoney (D) Wyo., was made in a statement just before he left Lake Tahoe for Seattle.

He called their criticism of him "intemperate and untrue personal attacks."

It was the first political exchange with Democratic leaders that Taft has made since launching his six-state western quest for presidential support.

Lucas and O'Mahoney rapped Taft for laying high prices at the doorstep of the President. They called Taft "the foreman of the wrecking crew" which they said ended price control last year.

The GOP presidential aspirant said he "welcomed" debate on the issue of "whose policies are to blame for present high prices." Taft said that "obviously" the spiraling cost of living resulted from Democratic administration policies. He added:

"The Democratic high command has been planning to blame the Republicans for high prices, and from the intemperate and untrue personal attacks in a statement by Sens. Lucas and O'Mahoney, issued through the Democratic National Commitee, they are very much upset indeed that anyone should point out the obvious truth."

Weather Continues To Plague Farmers

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22 (AP)—The weather continued today to plague the nation's farmers in their efforts to meet enormous domestic demands and help supply foreign countries.

Weather forecasters predicted scattered frosts tonight in much of the Midwest, Middle Atlantic, and New England states. This was the latest cause for worry in a season marked by late spring frosts, floods, a severe midwestern drought, and a destructive hurricane in the south.

Denied Chance For Follow Up On U. S. Attack

Accusations Hurled In General Debate

NEW YORK, Sept. 22—(AP)—United Nations Assembly President Oswaldo Aranha said tonight he had turned down a request from Andrei Vishinsky, of Russia, for opportunity to follow up [illegible] "warmongering" attack on the United States with a second speech in the Assembly's general debate.

The development came as the battle between Russia and the western powers raged hot and heavy through a round of speeches this afternoon.

The situation had reached such a point of tension by the day's end that Secretary-General Trygve Lie decided to make a formal appeal at tomorrow's session for the great powers to put aside their differences and co-operate for peace. His office announced his speech would close the general debate.

In today's debate, Hector McNeil, British Minister of State, charged that if Russia continues her present policies the United Nations will be destroyed and "the unstable peace of the world will crumble and fall" with "hideous consequences."

Spokesmen for Yugoslavia and the Soviet Ukraine, both in the Moscow orbit, blamed the present state of world upset mainly on the United States. Yugoslavia warned of a "growing danger of a new conflagration."

Turkey Accuses Russia

Turkey, in the American-British camp, accused Russia of conducting a "war of nerves" against the Turkish nation.

Secretary of State Marshall, meanwhile, journeyed from Washington tonight and had already arranged an American delegation meeting for tomorrow morning. Presumably he intends to report on his conference today with President Truman and to shape final plans for pushing the new American security and veto-limitation proposals in United Nations committee meetings.

Aranha said the Vishinsky incident occurred after McNeil had spoken. Vishinsky evidentaly wanted an opportunity for final rebuttal to the British and other speeches which had been critical of his "warmongering" address.

Russian informants said Vishinsky did not formally press his inquiry about making a second speech. They said he accepted Aranha's ruling.

Aranha told reporters: "There will be one general debate—not two." He had announced the closing of the speakers' list last Friday night.

Simic Flays Marshall Plan

Foreign Minister Stanoje Simic, of the Communist government of Yugoslavia, declared the United States had been following policies "in conflict with" the United Nations Charter. These, he said, have "sharpened international relations and x x x point to a growing danger of a new conflagration."

Simic assailed the Marshall plan for European recovery as a device to raise a "dollar curtain" across Europe, isolate the nations of Eastern Europe and create an American-dominated "western bloc."

Still another round of accusations was fired at the western nations by Dmitri Manuilsky, Foreign Minister of the Soviet Ukraine and fiery "old Bolshevik." He renewed the Soviet charge of "warmonger-

Rose Named In Honor Of Late Grace Moore

WEST GROVE, Pa., Sept. 22 (AP)—The world's rose lovers acquired a new rose today named in honor of the late singer, Grace Moore.

The deep crimson rose was christened by Miss Moore's sister, Mrs. Richard L. Mahan, Chattanooga, Tenn., in special ceremonies at the Conard-Pyle rose gardens.

Tying a star label bearing the singer's name around the long, thorned stems of a half dozen roses, Mrs. Mahan told more than 150 persons "my whole family thinks it is a great honor to have such a beautiful flower named after Grace."

Miss Moore died in an airplane crash in Europe early this year while on a concert tour.

Bevin Calls On U. S. To Aid Itself By Providing Marshall Plan Funds

PARIS, Sept. 22 (INS) — British Foreign Minister Bevin called on the United States today to aid itself by providing Europe with the $15,-$10,000,000 needed in the Marshall aid plan.

In an exclusive interview with International News Service, Bevin said:

"It would be incredable if the United States turned down a project that would aid her as much as it would Western Europe.

"We cannot think in terms of national interest now. To aid a neighbor means to aid oneself in this shrunken world."

The outspoken Bevin made this comment after presiding at a meeting of the European Marshall Plan Committee which appealed for the United States to avert a "catastrophe" to the 16 co-operating nations by providing food, fuel and materials.

Bevin denied that he ever asked for a "redistribution" of the Fort Knox gold, and said he merely suggested that the United States "invest" a minute portion of its gold supply in a project "which will yield her huge profits."

Commenting on Piestine, the British Minister said:

"We have tried to live up to our obligations to the best of our ability, but we have failed. This is not surprising, though, for all solutions to the Palestine question have failed for the last 2,000 years."

Bevin compared America's world position today with Britain's after the Napoleonic wars, when, he said, England did everything in its power to aid other nations."

He accused American newsmen of distorting his controversal statement on the Fort Knox gold hoard.

Chief Justice Sees Totalitarian Ideas Menacing U. S. Legal System

CLEVELAND, Sept. 22 (AP)—Chief Justice Fred M. Vinson tonight pleaded before the American Bar Association for its leadership in renewing America's faith in itself, lest the stirrings of "totalitarian doctrines" imperil free government under law.

The legal systems of some nations abdicated after the First World War, Vinson told the 70th annual bar meeting, and "in cynical subservience, served the demands of all-powerful states."

"But the challenge to the supremacy of the law has not been confined to the totalitarian regimes," he warned, in one of his rare addresses since becoming Chief Magistrate.

"In our own country we have seen evidences that there are those who have failed to realize that the only alternative to the supremacy of the law is anarchistic chaos or the reign of a personal dictator," he added.

This is "the age of great challenge," marked by crisis and confusion, Vinson said, and one in which many ideologies regard man as "a mere automaton x x x incapable of exercising the high privilege of self-government.

"Essentially this conception of the nature of man underlies all of the totalitarian doctrines of our day, and unfortunately it underlies the thinking of some in our own midst who shrink from its inevitable and logical conclusion.

"This conception contains the seeds of destruction. We must resist it and prove it fallacious."

"Reaction Camp" In U. S. Aroused, Red Press Says

Vishinsky Speech "Like Bomb Burst"

MOSCOW, Sept. 22 (AP)—Soviet newspaper readers were told today that Andrei Vishinsky's speech last week to the United Nations general assembly had caused "complete panic and bubbling wrath" among "American reactionaries," pictured as wanting war with Russia.

Two Soviet correspondents wrote from New York that the speech, "in which he named a group of warmongers, produced the impression here of a bursting bomb."

"Actually this blow at those forces opposing peaceful co-operation of powers was meted out so skillfully that the camp of American reaction is presently a picture of complete panic and bubbling wrath," their dispatch said.

The correspondents dealt with the replies of several Americans taken to task by Vishinsky in his speech.

(Vishinsky said John Foster Dulles, Republican member of the United States delegation to the United Nations, had urged "a tough foreign policy towards the Soviet Union" in a speech in Chicago on February 10.

(Dulles said in reply to the Vishinsky statement: "I did not make the statement which Mr. Vishinsky attributed to me. I have repeatedly said and I say again that another war need not be and must not be; and I have dedicated myself to that end.")

The correspondents quoted Dulles as saying in a speech "we must support a strong military machine and have the will to use it."

They quoted Rep. Charles A. Eaton (R-N. J.) as saying: "We must settle accounts with Russia. Sooner or later we must come out against the Soviet Union's government and establish whether it is possible to live with it in one world."

The correspondents added:

"This is not some irresponsible drunk in a bar talking, but the head of the Foreign Affairs Committee of the House of Representatives."

Three Convicted On Kidnap Charge

RICHMOND, Va., Sept. 22 (AP)—Three teen-age Buffalo, N. Y., youths were found guilty by a jury in federal district court here today of kidnaping a 30-year-old Pennsylvania man on June 3 and transporting him in his automobile from near Lewisburg, Pa., to a point near Bowling Green, in Caroline County, where he was released.

Subsequently, Judge A. D. Barksdale, of the Western District of Virginia, who was presiding, sentenced Leroy Eston Olson, 19, to serve 10 years; his wife, Juanita Scroggins Olson, 17, to serve a year and a day, and their 15-year-old companion, Theodore Stanley Wawrznski, to serve 18 months.

A recommendation of the death penalty under the "Lindbergh law" had the jury returned such a verdict, would have been mandatory upon Judge Barksdale. The jury reported its verdict, however, simply as "guilty."

In sentencing the trio, Judge Barksdale emphasized his recommendations that the terms be served at federal institutions that emphasize training and corrective functions.

The trio, hitch-hiking southward from Buffalo, was picked up by Harold Foster, Lewisburg, Pa., and subsequently, according to testimony today, hew as hit over the head by Olson and threatened by Wawrzynski with what Foster thought, he said, was a pistol.

One man was killed in the parachute ump from 10,000 feet, and 25 survivors walked into Bontoc, Mountain Province, Sunday.

They expected that reciprocal trade would enable them to pay for all but $22,440,000,000 of this. They hoped to get a loan of $3,110,000,000 from the International Bank for the purchase of needed machinery.

This scaled down the total call on America to $19,330,000,000 and a spokesman said the United States was expected to guarantee this figure.

Hammond Will Rule On U. Of Md. Project

BALTIMORE, Sept. 22 (AP)—Attorney General Hall Hammond announced today he would have a formal opinion on the University of Maryland's building program—including a stadium—ready for a meeting of the Board of Public Works tomorrow.

Governor Lane said the meeting would be held at his executive offices here in order to clean up the agenda left from the meeting two weeks ago.

The $2,350,000 building program on which Hammond is to report was proposed to the board June 23 by Dr. H. C. Byrd, University president. Byrd said the plans, which include a stadium, a physical education building, a chapel, an auditorium and a swimming pool, could be financed without cost to the state.

Players Changed Of Own Free Will, Hillock Asserts

Tells Why Keyser Youth Transferred

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22 (AP) — Donald Hillock said today that he and two other Southern Conference basketball stars are transferring to American University "of our own free will" and denied charges they had been "lured away" from other schools.

Hillock said he and his former Washington and Lee teammate, Reggie Crockett, and Bob Hegley, 6 foot, 4-inch North Carolina State guard last season, plan to register this week at American University.

Basketball coach Carl Wise of Washington and Lee said last night the two former W. and L. players had been "lured away" by American whose president, Dr. Paul F. Douglass, last October branded college football "a human slave market" where "young men come to the auction block for sale to the highest bidder."

Dr. Douglass, denied today his school, a member of the Mason-Dixon Conference, has "lured away" any athletes.

"I'm not anxious to get in a controversy with anyone over athletics," Dr. Douglass told a reporter, "but I know it's not true (that A. U. has lured away any athletes). We operate our athletic program here in a good and honest way."

Coach Stafford Cassell of American told a reporter he had no statement, except: "If they register, I hope they come out for basketball."

Hillock, a Washington, D. C., veteran with a wife and two children, told a reporter he transferred to American "because I wanted to get a degree in physical education and Washington and Lee doesn't offer such a degree."

Coach Wise was quoted in Lexington last night as saying that he knew that "both of these players (Crockett and Hillock) are getting aid from American University."

Hillock flatly denied this, saying he had been "promised nothing," but adding:

"After we register I expect to apply for one of several working scholarships which American has to offer. I don't know whether I'll get one, but if I do I'll lose money, compared with what I got at Washington and Lee on an athletic scholarship."

Hillock described himself and Crockett, of Keyser, W. Va., as "old friends." He said he knew Crockett transferred primarily "because he wants to major in transportation, which he couldn't do at Washington and Lee."

Crockett earned a center berth on the All-Virginia College team, and Hillock made the No. 2 All-State quintet at forward. Between them they scored more than 500 points during the last season, when Washington and Lee won the Virginia Championship.

New York Says Last Farewell To LaGuardia

NEW YORK, Sept. 22 (AP)—New York said its last farewell to Fiorello H. LaGuardia today at a quiet, solemn funeral service in the Cathedral of St. John the Divine.

Ten thousand persons, an all-time record crowd for the huge cathedral, gathered in a final gesture of respect to the little firebrand who as Mayor ruled the destinies of the nation's largest city in the years of recovery from depression and during World War Two.

Dignitaries led by Gov. Thomas E. Dewey and Mayor William O'Dwyer were prominent in the throng of mourners.

But the ordinary folk whose battles LaGuardia fought in many an arena predominated in the unending lines which streamed past his coffin in the cathedral yesterday and today up to the hour of the funeral.

Police estimated 53,000 persons viewed the body.

U. S., Even With A-Bomb, Will Never Win Third World War, Wallace Says

BOSTON, Sept. 22. (AP)—Even with its wealth and atom bombs, Henry A. Wallace said today, the United States "will never win a third world war."

Wallace, speaking at the annual convention of the CIO United Electrical Workers, declared that in the event of another war the United States would not have strong allies, and he added: "The war that is being bred for us must be stopped."

Wallace also called for a special session of Congress to enact a new rationing and price control bill "with teeth in it," assailed the Taft-Hartley Labor Act, and termed the loyalty investigation of federal employes an "inquisition."

The former Vice President—who is urged in five resolutions before the UEW convention to run for President—told the 1,000 delegates he would continue to "work within the Democratic Party" x x x "unless and until I am convinced x x x that this administration is committed to out red-baiting the red-baiters, and to fomenting a final war."

Wallace also singled out Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) for his suggestion that the American people could help bring down prices by eating less, declaring:

"If the total program of the men in power today is advice to eat less—we shall eat less and less and less as inflation increases and a depression is made inevitable."

Wallace said that although he criticized American foreign policy "it isn't that I think Russian policy is better, or that I want to go to Russia, or that I want to bring Communism here, or that I want to compromise with evil.

"It is very simply that I want—and I hope you want—an American policy which is American, which is democratic, which is principled."

"Reaction Camp" In U. S. Aroused, Red Press Says

Vishinsky Speech "Like Bomb Burst"

MOSCOW, Sept. 22 (AP)—Soviet newspaper readers were told today that Andrei Vishinsky's speech last week to the United Nations general assembly had caused "complete panic and bubbling wrath" among "American reactionaries," pictured as wanting war with Russia.

Two Soviet correspondents wrote from New York that the speech, "in which he named a group of warmongers, produced the impression here of a bursting bomb."

"Actually this blow at those forces opposing peaceful co-operation of powers was meted out so skillfully that the camp of American reaction is presently a picture of complete panic and bubbling wrath," their dispatch said.

The correspondents dealt with the replies of several Americans taken to task by Vishinsky in his speech.

(Vishinsky said John Foster Dulles, Republican member of the United States delegation to the United Nations, had urged "a tough foreign policy towards the Soviet Union" in a speech in Chicago on February 10.

(Dulles said in reply to the Vishinsky statement: "I did not make the statement which Mr. Vishinsky attributed to me. I have repeatedly said and I say again that another war need not be and must not be; and I have dedicated myself to that end.")

The correspondents quoted Dulles as saying in a speech "we must support a strong military machine and have the will to use it."

They quoted Rep. Charles A. Eaton (R-N. J.) as saying: "We must settle accounts with Russia. Sooner or later we must come out against the Soviet Union's government and establish whether it is possible to live with it in one world."

The correspondents added:

"This is not some irresponsible drunk in a bar talking, but the head of the Foreign Affairs Committee of the House of Representatives."

Three Convicted On Kidnap Charge

RICHMOND, Va., Sept. 22 (AP)—Three teen-age Buffalo, N. Y., youths were found guilty by a jury in federal district court here today of kidnaping a 30-year-old Pennsylvania man on June 3 and transporting him in his automobile from near Lewisburg, Pa., to a point near Bowling Green, in Caroline County, where he was released.

Subsequently, Judge A. D. Barksdale, of the Western District of Virginia, who was presiding, sentenced Leroy Eston Olson, 19, to serve 20 years; his wife, Juanita Scroggins Olson, 17, to serve a year and a day, and their 16-year-old companion, Theodore Stanley Wawrzynski, to serve 18 months.

A recommendation of the death penalty under the "Lindbergh law" had the jury returned such a verdict, would have been mandatory upon Judge Barksdale. The jury reported its verdict, however, simply as "guilty."

In sentencing the trio, Judge Barksdale emphasized his recommendations that the terms be served at federal institutions that emphasize training and corrective functions.

The trio, hitch-hiking southward from Buffalo, was picked up by Harold Foster, Lewisburg, Pa., and subsequently, according to testimony today, hew as hit over the head by Olson and threatened by Wawrzynski with what Foster thought, he said, was a pistol.

One man was killed in the parachute ump from 10,000 feet, and 25 survivors walked into Bontoc, Mountain Province, Sunday.

committee hearings the representatives of the 16 nations released an abstract of their report which said that they and Western Germany would need about $35,000,000,000 in food and supplies from North and South America in the next four years.

They expected that reciprocal trade would enable them to pay for all but $22,440,000,000 of this. They hoped to get a loan of $3,110,000,000 from the International Bank for the purchase of needed machinery.

This scaled down the total call on America to $19,330,000,000 and a spokesman said the United States was expected to guarantee this figure.

Hammond Will Rule On U. Of Md. Project

BALTIMORE, Sept. 22 (AP)—Attorney General Hall Hammond announced today he would have a formal opinion on the University of Maryland's building program—including a stadium—ready for a meeting of the Board of Public Works tomorrow.

Governor Lane said the meeting would be held at his executive offices here in order to clean up the agenda left from the meeting two weeks ago.

The $2,350,000 building program on which Hammond is to report was proposed to the board June 23 by Dr. H. C. Byrd, University president. Byrd said the plans, which include a stadium, a physical education building, a chapel, an auditorium and a swimming pool, could be financed without cost to the state.

Players Changed Of Own Free Will, Hillock Asserts

Tells Why Keyser Youth Transferred

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22 (AP) — Donald Hillock said today that he and two other Southern Conference basketball stars are transferring to American University "of our own free will" and denied charges they had been "lured away" from other schools.

Hillock said he and his former Washington and Lee teammate, Reggie Crockett, and Bob Hegley, 6 foot, 4-inch North Carolina State guard last season, plan to register this week at American University.

Basketball coach Carl Wise of Washington and Lee said last night the two former W. and L. players had been "lured away" by American whose president, Dr. Paul F. Douglass, last October branded college football "a human slave market" where "young men come to the auction block for sale to the highest bidder."

Dr. Douglass, denied today his school, a member of the Mason-Dixon Conference, has "lured away" any athletes.

"I'm not anxious to get in a controversy with anyone over athletics," Dr. Douglass told a reporter, "but I know it's not true (that A. U. has lured away any athletes). We operate our athletic program here in a good and honest way."

Coach Stafford Cassell of American told a reporter he had no statement, except: "If they register, I hope they come out for basketball."

Hillock, a Washington, D. C., veteran with a wife and two children, told a reporter he transferred to American "because I wanted to get a degree in physical education and Washington and Lee doesn't offer such a degree."

Coach Wise was quoted in Lexington last night as saying that he knew that "both of these players (Crockett and Hillock) are getting aid from American University."

Hillock flatly denied this, saying he had been "promised nothing," but adding:

"After we register I expect to apply for one of several working scholarships which American has to offer. I don't know whether I'll get one, but if I do I'll lose money, compared with what I got at Washington and Lee on an athletic scholarship."

Hillock described himself and Crockett, of Keyser, W. Va., as "old friends." He said he knew Crockett transferred primarily "because he wants to major in transportation, which he couldn't do at Washington and Lee."

Crockett earned a center berth on the All-Virginia College team, and Hillock made the No. 2 All-State quintet at forward. Between them they scored more than 500 points during the last season, when Washington and Lee won the Virginia Championship.

PITCHING HORSESHOES by Billy Rose

I made the acquaintance of several lions back in 1934 when I presented "Jumbo" at the New York Hippodrome. One of the sequences in this musical circus featured a pair of diavolos who did a finger-balancing act over an open cage of lions. The trainer who owned the lions assured me they were gentlemanly and well-mannered. Fortunately, that season the finger-balancing boys never missed a trick and I didn't get to find out much about the table manners of the carnivores. But I've always had a lot of respect for the men who walk in among the great cats, armed with only a look and a kitchen chair.

Billy Rose

The other day I read about the first of these lion tamers in a book called "Hey There, Sucker!" by Jack Dadswell. According to Dadswell, the first of the cat tamers was a fellow named Jonathan Slade. (Dadswell rules out Daniel because Daniel had the Lord on his side.)

Some centuries back, the governor of a British colony in Africa was anxious to make an impression on his King. He got the natives to trap several Nubian lions and dispatched them to London by fast frigate freight.

The King was touched by this gesture, but a bit puzzled. Zoos had not yet when invented. He finally put the lions in a pit which heo rdered dug in the courtyard of the Tower of London.

The big cats became the sensation of the town. Great crowds came to see them devour live sheep, goats and large dogs. The knights and gentle ladies enjoyed it even more than watching prisoners being guillotined. It got so that decapitations were attended only by friends and relatives of the beheadees.

One day a political prisoner escaped from the Tower. The guards chased him. He sought cover in the lion pit. End of prisoner.

"Fine," said the King, when he heard of the incident. "Instad of spending all that good money to feed (a) the prisoners and (b) the lions, why not feed (a) to (b)?"

From then on, instead of sheep and goats, the lions feasted on pate of prisoner. The knights and their ladies loved it and the spectacle became the "Oklahoma!" of its day.

One day the bill of fare for the beasts included Jonathan Slade, pirate, slave merchant, and a devil with the ladies. Jonathan was being thrown to the lions not for piracy or slave-trading, but because he had jilted one of the King's cousins for a waterfront trollop. The King interpreted this as disrespect to the throne.

On the day of Jonathan's execution, every London notable was gathered around the lion pit. To make it a better show, one of the nobles suggested the pirate be allowed to carry a small club. Out came the beasts. They looked at Jonathan, sniffed, walked heavily around the pit, lay down and went to sleep. Disgusted, the King called off the show and re-scheduled it for the following afternoon.

Next day the same thing happened. Altogether, Jonathan was thrown to the lions eleven different times. On his fourth appearance, the pirate began to ham it up a little. He tickled the noses of the animals with his club, pulled their ears, and ran them around the pit. He finally got one of the older lions to lie down and play dead.

The pirate became the hero of London. Pit-side tickets sold for as much as 20 guineas apiece. Duchesses bribed jailers to smuggle perfumed notes to the condemned man.

One afternoon the King dropped in at the pirate's cell. "This is getting a bit monotonous," said his Highness. "I'm going to set you free, you rascal, but I'd like to do it with a bit of a flourish. I'm having a large arena built in the center of town. Bread and circus, as Caesar used to say. All London will be able to witness your performance with the lions. At the end of the show, I'll give you my royal pardon. Who knows—there might even be a knighthood in it for you. Incidentally, the Princess asked to be remembered."

"To show your Majesty how much I appreciate his generosity," said Slade, "I'll do part of the act with a handkerchief over my eyes."

The day of the big show, London business shut up tight. Captains of ships refused to put to sea until they had seen the spectacle. Farmers and gypsies piled into town. There were dancing girls, ale stands, and many strolling minstrels.

A few minutes before show time, Slade, dresed to the nines, sat chatting with the King and his court. Suddenly there was a commotion near the royal box. A man wearing the uniform of a Tower of London guard was insisting he had to talk to Slade.

"I know that man," said Slade, rising and bowing to the King. "He was a seaman on my brig, the Golden Dragon." The pirate stepped out of the royal box and spoke to the intruder. "Really, old chap," he said, "this is hardly the occasion to renew old friendships. See me another day."

"It's important I see you now, Jonathan, "said the Tower of London man. "I must tell you something."

"It'll have to keep," snapped Jonathan. "I'm talking to the King." The pirate gestured to thes oldiers to take the man away, and rejoined his royal admirers.

A moment later there was a great fanfare on the long horns. The lions came out of the chutes into the arena. Jonathan waved to the crowd and blew a kiss to the Princess. Then he climbed down onto the field.

Outside the arena, a late-comer saw the Tower of London guard leaning against a tree.

"Aren't you going in to see the show?" he asked him.

"I'd rather not," said the guard. "I tried to tell the great Mr. Slade why the lions in the Tower didn't attack him. But he wouldn't listen. I was in charge of the lions, and for old times' sake I fed them so much goat meat they could hardly keep awake. I wanted to tell him I've been sick, and the lions in the arena this afternoon haven't been fed for a week."

More people are smoking CAMELS than ever before!

A DIFFERENT BRAND EVERY DAY! Yes, that's the way it was during the wartime cigarette shortage. That's how millions learned the big differences in cigarette quality . . . why more people are smoking Camels than ever before.

With smoker after smoker who has tried and compared, Camels are the "Choice of Experience"!

REMEMBER the cigarette shortage during the war? That was the biggest comparison test in cigarette history.

From day to day, people smoked whatever brand was available: more different brands than they would normally try in a lifetime.

The results speak for themselves. More people are smoking Camels than ever before!

Billy Rose

I made the acquaintance of several lions back in 1934 when I presented "Jumbo" at the New York Hippodrome. One of the sequences in this musical circus featured a pair of diavolos who did a finger-balancing act over an open cage of lions. The trainer who owned the lions assured me they were gentlemanly and well-mannered. Fortunately, that season the finger-balancing boys never missed a trick and I didn't get to find out much about the table manners of the carnivores. But I've always had a lot of respect for the men who walk in among the great cats, armed with only a look and a kitchen chair.

The other day I read about the first of these lion tamers in a book called "Hey There, Sucker!" by Jack Dadswell. According to Dadswell, the first of the cat tamers was a fellow named Jonathan Slade. (Dadswell rules out Daniel because Daniel had the Lord on his side.)

Some centuries back, the governor of a British colony in Africa was anxious to make an impression on his King. He got the natives to trap several Nubian lions and dispatched them to London by fast frigate freight.

The King was touched by this gesture, but a bit puzzled. Zoos had not yet when invented. He finally put the lions in a pit which heo rdered dug in the courtyard of the Tower of London.

The big eats became the sensation of the town. Great crowds came to see them devour live sheep, goats and large dogs. The knights and gentle ladies enjoyed it even more than watching prisoners being guillotined. It got so that decapitations were attended only by friends and relatives of the beheadees.

One day a political prisoner escaped from the Tower. The guards chased him. He sought cover in the lion pit. End of prisoner.

"Fine," said the King, when he heard of the incident. "Instad of spending all that good money to feed (a) the prisoners and (b) the lions, why not feed (a) to (b)?"

From then on, instead of sheep and goats, the lions feasted on pate of prisoner. The knights and their ladies loved it and the spectacle became the "Oklahoma!" of its day.

One day the bill of fare for the beasts included Jonathan Slade, pirate, slave merchant, and a devil with the ladies. Jonathan was being thrown to the lions not for piracy or slave-trading, but because he had jilted one of the King's cousins for a waterfront trollop. The King interpreted this as disrespect to the throne.

On the day of Jonathan's execution, every London notable was gathered around the lion pit. To make it a better show, one of the nobles suggested the pirate be allowed to carry a small club. Out came the beasts. They looked at Jonathan, sniffed, walked heavily around the pit, lay down and went to sleep. Disgusted, the King called off the show and re-scheduled it for the following afternoon.

Next day the same thing happened. Altogether, Jonathan was thrown to the lions eleven different times. On his fourth appearance, the pirate began to ham it up a little. He tickled the noses of the animals with his club, pulled their ears, and ran them around the pit. He finally got one of the older lions to lie down and play dead.

The pirate became the hero of London. Pit-side tickets sold for as much as 20 guineas apiece. Duchesses bribed jailers to smuggle perfumed notes to the condemned man.

One afternoon the King dropped in at the pirate's cell. "This is getting a bit monotonous," said his Highness. "I'm going to set you free, you rascal, but I'd like to do it with a bit of a flourish. I'm having a large arena built in the center of town. Bread and circus, as Caesar used to say. All London will be able to witness your performance with the lions. At the end of the show, I'll give you my royal pardon. Who knows—there might even be a knighthood in it for you. Incidentally, the Princess asked to be remembered."

"To show your Majesty how much I appreciate his generosity," said Slade, "I'll do part of the act with a handkerchief over my eyes."

The day of the big show, London business shut up tight. Captains of ships refused to put to sea until they had seen the spectacle. Farmers and gypsies piled into town. There were dancing girls, ale stands, and many strolling minstrels.

A few minutes before show time, Slade, dresed to the nines, sat chatting with the King and his court. Suddenly there was a commotion near the royal box. A man wearing the uniform of a Tower of London guard was insisting he had to talk to Slade.

"I know that man," said Slade, rising and bowing to the King. "He was a seaman on my brig, the Golden Dragon." The pirate stepped out of the royal box and spoke to the intruder. "Really, old chap," he said, "this is hardly the occasion to renew old friendships. See me another day."

"It's important I see you now, Jonathan, "said the Tower of London man. "I must tell you something."

"It'll have to keep," snapped Jonathan. "I'm talking to the King." The pirate gestured to thes oldiers to take the man away, and rejoined his royal admirers.

A moment later there was a great fanfare on the long horns. The lions came out of the chutes into the arena. Jonathan waved to the crowd and blew a kiss to the Princess. Then he climbed down onto the field.

Outside the arena, a late-comer saw the Tower of London guard leaning against a tree.

"Aren't you going in to see the show?" he asked him.

"I'd rather not," said the guard. "I tried to tell the great Mr. Slade why the lions in the Tower didn't attack him. But he wouldn't listen. I was in charge of the lions, and for old times' sake I fed them so much goat meat they could hardly keep awake. I wanted to tell him I've been sick, and the lions in the arena this afternoon haven't been fed for a week."

Cut In Grain Exports And Its Effect On High Prices

Grain prices have fallen sharply on the exchanges on the heels of a Department of Agriculture announcement that grain exports in November will be 35 per cent below the October allocation—and 43 per cent below the monthly average for the July-October period.

This merely corroborates what most persons have been saying for many months—that rising prices of food were caused by huge shipments to other countries.

Decrease in grain and wheat prices is good news to the housewife, to whom the steady rise in prices during recent weeks has been cause of concern. It is encouraging to read, too, that while traders expected a cut in foreign grain shipments they did not expect quite so big a slash. Possibly this surprise will dampen speculative ardor in the future.

Yet it is hard to see how the basic situation has been changed. Europe, thanks to Russian machinations, drought and a general unwillingness to work, is woefully short of food. This government remains committed to a policy of feeding Europe. The demand for wheat can be judged by the fact that Argentina is now asking $5.90 a bushel, in American dollars, and getting it. In the circumstances, American wheat is a bargain at the highest price so far reached.

So it is doubtful that Europe's requirements will fall sufficiently, in the near future, to make much difference. It is equally doubtful that the Washington administration will decline to meet those requirements. But the traders evidently were considerably shaken by the government's announcement.

It is doubtful that the upward trend will be resumed soon. But if it is, consumer resistance to soaring food prices, as urged by various public figures in the last few days, should be resorted to, although there is a tendency to belittle its effectiveness. Of course, there may be so many factors influencing the rise that such a move would fail. But it proved a strong deterrent after World War I.

Then, as now, the Department of Justice took steps beginning a crusade against profiteering and illegal price fixing, for President Wilson believed that was the major cause of the rise.

Despite the campaign, prices continued to mount until the Spring of 1920. By midsummer of that year, however, consumers had organized a widespread campaign to stay away from stores until prices were brought down.

The Massachusetts Federation of Women's Clubs resolved to stop buying everything except necessaries, and its example was followed by women's organizations everywhere. Then the department stores began announcing horizontal reductions of 10 to 20 per cent in all prices. Before Autumn, the post-armistice boom had given way to depression.

Unparalleled consumer income and demand, which have combined to bolster the present high price level, certainly should also constitute an effective cushion against depression. But if the general trend of prices after World War I is repeated now, consumer resistance may be a more decisive influence in bringing about a correction than any action taken by the federal government.

It was an Arkansas editor who predicted prices would have to come down eventually, just to refuel if for no other reason.

Key To A Pennant

Barring invasion, atomic warfare, or the end of the world, this year's World Series, between the Yanks and the Dodgers, will open at the Yankee Stadium in New York on September 30.

There are many reasons why the Yanks are on top, but there's one contributing factor on which the sportswriters seem to be unanimous. Even managers of opposing teams say it couldn't happen to a better guy. They mean Stanley Raymond Harris (Bucky Harris of the sports pages, that is).

He didn't want the job of manager. But he took over a demoralized ball club, a wrinkled remnant of the bombers of old, instilled into it the morale of a team, fought through a season packed with injuries to his key players, and then watched the pennant drop right into his lap. He was lucky, to be sure, yet winners usually have a lot to do with making their own luck.

Bucky Harris knows baseball, but he also knows how to get along with people, and that pays off. It could pay off all over the world, if nations and peoples made the effort.

Scientist says chemically treated grass would enable a cow to fill up on half an acre instead of three acres. This will delight all those in favor of shorter hours for cows.

Germans Go For Jazz

American jazz has invaded Germany to such an extent many claim it is doing more to build friendship with the German people than all the efforts of the forces of occupation.

For 12 years Goebbels tried to teach his people American jazz was decadent. Now after two years it has become so popular it has replaced all the national music. In fact, the thousands who flock to the concerts refuse to listen to any other kind, and boo the orchestras which attempt to play straight stuff.

German bands are engaged in a program of competition for popularity. Voting contests are being held to determine which organization has the widest appeal. Thousands jam the concerts, and listeners even outdo the most ardent American jazz fan in their applause. One such dancing party lasted until 7 o'clock in the morning.

These concerts have become more popular than the movies, while band leaders are all heroes in the estimation of the German young people.

It will be remembered Hitler tried to popularize German folk songs, and ordered American music banned from the radio. All this has been forgotten, and such tunes as "Open the Door, Richard," have replaced the most famous German compositions. The American way of life is being sold through jazz, the more dignified methods having failed to do the job after months of effort.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

MUSTARD GAS AS A TREATMENT

LYMPH glands tend to congregate in specific areas of the body and can often be felt as shotty nodules beneath the skin of the neck, groin, and armpits. Deposits are sometimes noted along the back portions of the chest and abdomen, where they follow the course of the large blood vessels. The lymph system is an important aid in combating infection and also plays a role in the manufacture of certain blood cells.

Should the glands enlarge, something is usually wrong and fortunately the cause is not always serious. When the throat becomes inflamed or tonsilitis ensues, the nodes on the side of the neck become puffy and occasionally tender. Infection in a finger provokes a similar reaction in the glands of the armpit. After healing takes place, the structures may not return to normal size, as in some instances a residual thickening remains.

Swelling may occur likewise in the presence of certain generalized ailments. In German measles, the glands in the back of the neck can be felt. Now and then this is the first sign of the disease and precedes the rash by several hours. In infectious mononucleosis (glandular fever) a somewhat similar situation exists.

Another group of more disturbing abnormalities associated with enlargement of the lymph glands includes leucemia, lymphosarcoma, and Hodgkin's disease. Diagnosis is made by studying the blood and bone marrow and removing a gland for microscopic examination. In the early stages the feelin of well being is rarely decreased and—especially in Hodkin's—good health may be maintained for years. In time, however, anemia, weakness, and malaise result. Involvement of the surface glands produces no discomfort, but when those deep in the chest or abdomen become so sizeable as to crowd neighboring structures, a host of manifestations is encountered. Pressure on the windpipe, for example, may interfere with breathing or bring on a dry, hacking cough.

In the past, X-ray therapy and the use of arsenic were the only weapons available to combat these maladies. During the last few years two additional products were introduced that are being investigated extensively. One is the mustard gas of World War I. fame. It was thought originally that this poison affected only the skin and mucous membranes. Later the discovery was made that the activity of the blood forming organs and the intestinal tract was depressed.

In addition, the growth of cancer cells was inhibited to some extent when it was administered to cancerous mice. The tumors dissolved, but in a certain percentage they returned. The material was next given to two individuals with lymphosarcoma, who exhibited tremendously swollen glands, and a marked shrinkage followed. Since then it has been administered to hundreds of persons suffering from malignancies and allied disorders. The effect is most noticeable in Hodgkin's disease. The enlarged glands, spleen, and liver become smaller, fever subsidies, and many seem to regain strength. The therapy is not curative, but helps to alleviate symptoms.

The second preparation is a simple chemical, ethyl carbamate (urethane). It has been used mainly in leucemia and some cancers. It affects the blood cells chiefly and, like mustard gas, causes the involved tissues to shrink. Neither substance has been perfected and side reactions are frequent. On the other hand, a new field has been opened because of their relationship to other products. It may be that continued research along this line will supply the answer in the treatment of neoplastic conditions.

ACID IN STOMACH

J. L. writes: What is wrong when a person has too much hydrochloric acid in the system?

REPLY

Probably nothing, as many individuals with more than their quota are not aware of the surplus. On the other hand, the condition is frequently present in gastric ulcer. During the periods when the amount is increased, discomfort is likely to ensue.

No. This is just another way of consuming tobacco.

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

Last week was back to school week and the kids were in for a pleasant surprise. Rapid studies have been made in the educational system and movies are gradually replacing the textbook. Schools are really progressive today. In fact, they caught a congressman trying to register—he wanted to investigate the little "red" schoolhouse.

Showing movies can upset all the old standards. Now the three "R's" will stand for Russell, Raft and Rogers.

And they have a new method of teaching arithmetic—they just show pictures of Crosby counting his money.

Of course, the older kids in high school are disgusted with this new system—no balcony.

I know one teacher who was called before the principal—she had had a bad review in Louella Parsons' column.

In stead of exams,the teachers are going to give screen tests.

The kids won't come to school late anymore. They'll all get there before the prices change.

My brother is doing all right, even though he's not very brigh He has the popcorn concession in 8-A.

And my movies are going to play a big part in the educational system. They're going to show them to the kids who have to stay after school, for punishment.

NOW WHERE HAVE WE HEARD THAT BEFORE?

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Only America Could Produce LaGuardia; Always Broke, He Always Thought Of The Underdog; Was A Great Quipster; Big Ambition Was To Go To Senate

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—I have written several thousand words about Fiorello LaGuardia while he was living; but, even though I can't do justice to him, I should like to write one more column now that he has reached the end of the road.

LaGuardia is hard to write about because his life was so full, his character so varied. He was either on the crest of the wave or down in the dumps, either chasing fire engines of driving gangsters out of New York, either spending millions feeding Europe or nursing nickels to keep a roof over his head.

I have been sitting at the typewriter, trying to describe LaGuardia but I'm not equal to it.

Letting my mind run back over the years—there was LaGuardia the Congressman, getting in the hair of both parties, fighting always for what he thought was right, always on the side of the underdog. Those were the carefree days when Fiorello used to cook spaghetti in Bob Allen's kitchen, and when as a joke on my old friend Captain Eugene Regnier, military aide to Secretary of State Stimson, I induced LaGuardia to tack an amendment on the War Department appropriation bill providing that "no money shall be expended for the salary of a military aide to any civilian member of the Cabinet." Stimson, who had a week spot for military folderol, nearly had a fit. Later we withdrew the amendment.

Then there were the days when LaGuardia, a Republican, was defeated by none other than his good friend Roosevelt and the Democratic landslide which swept FDR into power. Fiorello was flat broke in those days, scarcely knew where the next meal was coming from, but he rode on the subway, saved his nickels. He passed up the juicy law fees offered him by questionable clients,and stayed broke. In fact, aside from his salary as mayor of New York, Fiorello has been broke most of his life.

There were the drepsession days. LaGuardia was struggling to balance New York's budget—with New York taxpayers owing the city $400,000,000 unpaid taxes. So the Little Flower, genius that he was, persuaded Jesse Jones to loan him RFC money with unpaid taxes as collateral.

There were also the days when LaGuardia worried about his own election. Roosevelt never really came out strong for him, despite their close personal friendship, but 50,000 Democrats once wrote his name on the Democratic primary ballot—even though he was a Republican. . . . "If my parents had only given me a different name," moaned Fiorello. "That name costs me 250,000 votes at every election." . . . Despite the name, it was Fiorello who carried Tom Dewey along on the GOP ticket in Dewey's first real plunge into politics . . And despite the name, LaGuardia telegraphed FDR after the unsuccessful 1938 purge against Senators George and Tydings: "You should have planted a Little Flower in Georgia and Maryland."

Was Own Press Agent

LaGuardia ran his public relations like the bandmaster his father was. "It's confidential," he used to tell the press. "Don't mention my name when you write it." . . . "When I've got something to say, I'll say it myshelf," he announced firing his press agent . . "I'm too young to be Secretary of War," he told reporters who inquired if he was entering the Roosevelt Cabinet. . . . "When I took over New York I fired the bad commissioners," LaGuardia once cracked at his friend FDR, "in Washington they create new jobs for them." . . . And stationing Ernest Cuneo beside a fire alarm during one political speech he warned: "Don't let anyone pull the fire alarm and get the crowd to run out."

Fiorello flew a flag on his car with one more star than General MacArthur . . He raised Cain with the State Department when they wouldn't let him supply a mounted escort to Philippine Perisednt Quezon. "Those white-spat boys say Quezon rates below a senator," complained LaGuardia . . While he visited Stalin two years ago, he sent other members of his UNRRA party to see Lenin's tomb. "I got as much out of Stalin as they did out of Lening," he remarked later . . . LaGuardia's dislike of Herbert Hoover remained as constant at the end as during his days in Congress when he used to jibe at his "alleged" party leader in the White House. "Hoover brought back nothing UNRRA didn't already know," he said of Hoover's recent survey of Europe.

Suffered Disappointments

In his later years LaGuardia suffered two great disappointments. One was his failure to be made a U. S. Senator. The other was FDR's refusal to make him a Birigadier General in charge of the Italian Military Government. Roosevelt had promised him the latter job and Fiorello had his heart set on it but the brass hats intervened.

Asked whether he would run for Governor of New York, LaGuardia once replied: "I never take a step backward." Urged to run for President of the United States, he answered: "I'm too busy running New York City." But when asked if he would run for U. S. Senator, he said: "I'd run like a fire engine." That was LaGuardia's greatest ambition. And sometimes in Washington he would sit in the Senate gallery, looking down, watching with envy the debates of the world's greatest deliberative body—debates in which he was never allowed to participate.

Several weeks ago I had occasion to telephone LaGuardia in New York. He was still the same old Fiorello, still battling, still complaining in that squeaky voice of his.

"The place isn't the same any more," he said when I asked him why he didn't come down to Washington.

"Something's happend. There's too much timidity around the White House. Something's gone out of the place. I'm worried. There just isn't anybody working for the people anymore."

That was the last conversation I had with LaGuardia, a man with all his grand-standing and all his hair-pulling spent his life even up to the very end working for the people. Son of an Italian immigrant bandmaster and a Portuguese Jewess, he was a man such as only this country can produce. He was a great American, And America will be a lot emptier now that he has reached the end of the road.

Russia's Verbal Attack On U.S. Significant; War Not Immediate

By MARK SULLIVAN

Many persons — including President Truman and Secretary of State Marshall, indeed every person bearing responsibility because of office or function or conscience—must have thought with anxious urgency for some way to convey to the American people the seriousness of the crisis that came upon them last week.

How to detach from the 13 newspaper columns of Russian representative Vishinsky's speech to the Assembly of the United Nations, and the speeches made in reply, and the flood of comment getting slowly under way after the immediate shock—how to distill from all that, or find somewhere within it, one brief clear statement that would tell the story.

The task has been done for us. And the statement is the more convincing because it comes not from one of ourselves but from a representative of another nation, French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault.

Sweeping Attack On U. S.

On Wednesday Secretary of State Marshall had addressed the Assembly, stating the position of the United States in five main points. On Thursday, Russian representative Vishinsky had replied. He had negatived every one of Secretary Marshall's points. Going beyond the Marshall speech Mr. Vishinsky had made a sweeping attack upon the United States in words of such vitriolic ferocity as momentarily to stun the Assembly. Two days later, on Saturday, Mr. Bidault uttered his somber recognition of what had taken place:

"The French delegation deems it futile and dangerous to conceal the magnitude and seriousness of the crisis . . . The means are meager of finding a meeting ground for the two main statements the Assembly has heard. It is but honest to say that one does not see how they can be reconciled."

In one other speech, this one by American representative to the United Nations Warren Austin, there is light on the nature of the crisis and its seriousness:

"In the United States the effect was the reverse of the Soviet spokesman's purposes. The intemperateness of the charge, the absolute falsification of American motives, and the libel of individuals and institutions, discouraged many Americans who have consistently believed that the Soviet purposes are peaceful."

To say that Americans have lost belief that the Soviet purposes are peaceful does not differ greatly from saying we recognize that the purposes are not peaceful. Such shading of difference as there is may be accounted for by the diplomatic restraint which Mr. Austin would be sure to practice, and which Mr. Vishinsky wantonly threw overboard.

In Mr. Austin's allusion to the "absolute falsification" in Mr. Vishinsky's attack—that is, not in Mr. Austin's allusion but in the falsification itself—there is a disturbing remainder. One recalls the Hitler technique of the big lie, I paraphrase from memory the passage in "Mein Kampf"—the way to get a lie believed is to make it big and utter it violently. A cynicism that goes with Mr. Vishinsky's confidence that a falsification big enough can be made to stick, however flagrant the departure from plain and well-known fact, is illustrated by his charge that the United States is interfering with the sovereignt of other nations. This from Russia, in the light of Bulgaria, Poland, Hungary, and other border nations reduced to subservience.

Such An Attack Rare

Americans of this generation have lived through two wars and what preceded and led up to them. Never have they seen, except after war had begun or as an incident of the act of beginning a war, a verbal attack by an official representative of one nation upon another nation as violent as Mr. Vishinsky's on the United States last week. The nearest parallel might be found in some of Hitler's speeches working up himself and the German people to war, such as his denunciation of Czechoslovakia before he invaded it.

The significance of what took place last week is unmistakable. Yet it is not necessary to believe that war is immediate. Regardless of what might be inferred from utterances and actions of Russia, a tenable judgment held by some competent persons is that Russia will not make war for at least five years, perhaps ten. The reason relied upon is lack of readiness for war so soon after the recent one. But Americans would make a tragic mistake if they ever lapse or are lulled from understanding that the hostility of Russia is reconcilable, and will continue so long as Russia is dominated by the persons and the system that compose its present government.

Eisenhower Presidential Boom Grows; MacArthur In Picture

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22 — The presidential boom for general Eisenhower keeps growing without any encouragement from the General. There is no evidence yet which party the World War II commander affiliates with, and it conceivable that in 1948 the Democratic Party might seriously consider him.

After all, the Republicans have an abundance of candidates but there is a dearth of material on the Democratic side. There is even considerable difficulty finding a vice presidential candidate. It could be, too, that President Truman will surprise everybody by choosing not to run. He hasn't yet said he would run.

General Eisenhower would be a "natural" for the Democrats. They need a spectacular candidate. Mr. Truman is at present strong enough to get the nomination, but there is no telling what the situation will be next summer. The President is the kind of man who would not run if he felt it would not be to the interests of his party.

General Eisenhower will be regarded as a good vote-getter because his name is so well known and because he is a popular personality. but unless he picks a party soon, he will hardly qualify for either nomination.

Hoover's Case Recalled

It will be recalled that Herbert Hoover in 1920 was popular because of his record as food administrator in World War I. The "New York World," which was an independent and liberal morning newspaper with an influential editorial page, urged Mr. Hoover for the presidency on either ticket. Mr. Hoover had seconded President Wilson's ill-fated appeal for a Democratic Congress in November 1918, so many Republicans considered him a Democrat. Anyway, his reluctance to choose between the parties resulted in only a handful of votes being cast for him at the Republican national convention in 1920 when Harding was nominated.

By 1928, Mr. Hover's friends recognized the importance of identifying him with the Republican Party rather explicitly. When he was chosen secretary of commerce in 1921 by President Harding, he began to qualify as a Republican.

If General Eisenhower is a Republican, he might as well disclose that fact soon. For soldiers have had a vote, too, in recent years even when away from home. Doubtless he voted for Roosevelt last time because the commander-in-chief argument was rather potent in 1944.

The politicians all say that the draft of an outstanding military man is related to whether the Party feels the other names to come before the convention are not strong enough to win an election.

Ever since the Michigan and Pennsylvania congressional elections, the Republican politicians have felt that Taft, Dewey, or Vandenberg would win easily no matter which was chosen. This is because in the two test elections, the Republicans ran ahead of their 1946 percentage of total vote.

MacArthur Still In Picture

There is some discussion of General MacArthur as a possible Republican candidate. He wrote in 1944 a rather indiscreet letter—or perhaps, it should be said, a letter not intended for publication — in which some caustic things were said against the New Deal. It has been presumed ever since that he was a Republican.

If General MacArthur comes back to this country next spring, he will receive a tremendous ovation. He has done such a superb job of administering Japan that his friends think he might do equally well in the United States.

If General Eisenhower should be drafted by the Democrats, the Republicans might be tempted to nominate General MacArthur. Then the country would be assured of a military man in the White House, no matter how the election turned out. Maybe that's what the country wants—but the politicians of both parties are not yet ready to concede it.

THESE DAYS By George E. Sokolsky

Murder For Children

THE National Broadcasting Company has reached the conclusion that a heavy diet of murder for children is not particularly beneficial to them, their parents or the country in which they live. They will postpone murder until 9:30 P. M., Eastern Standard Time, after January. 1. Children interested in murder may have their fill of it until the new schedule goes into effect, although it is difficult to understand why if murder on the radio for children becomes carbolic acid on January 1, it is not carbolic acid today.

Meanwhile, it seems that Columbia, Mutual and America disagree with the N. B. C. They, it would appear, believe that murder is good for children at any time of the day or night, along with chewing gum, breakfast foods, and exterminators of body odors. That is why so many children put up their forefinger and make a noise like a machine gun. It is extremely stimulating to the young mind to make a noise like a machine gun. How often have I listened to the most enlightening conversations, lofty in tone and mood, on the relative merits of "The Green Hornet" and "The Falcon," or whether "Gang Busters" is more exciting than "Murder Is My Hobby". And murder has become a hobby if a small boy does it to prove that he is not a sissy.

The networks will undoubtedly debate the educational value of murder during the next few months and maybe another Vice-President will lose his job, but it would be preferable if this subject were seriously discussed by parents, educators and clergymen who have a direct concern with morals of their charges and who know that the radio cannot be suppressed in the home without creating such a rumpus as many parents seek to dodge.

If wickedness is to be kept from the child until it has, at any rate, passed out of puberty and to the verge of discretion—murder, foul, brutal murder, often related in a nonchalant, calm manner, as though to the manner born—such recitals of murder must be kept from the home at the source of supply.

One of the officials of a radio network — does it matter which?—asked why soap operas are not kept from the ears of children? I ask you, why not? That was a very good question, probably spoken from the heart.

If one listened only to the radio, say for a week, he could easily convince himself that in the United States murder is a most usual occurrence, happening at half-hour intervals, that most marriages are utter failures, that while crime does not pay, it nevertheless is extremely interesting, that there is always a third wheel to every chariot—meaning each family—that the greatest concern of wise women is to help young ladies out of scrapes with married men.

On a Sunday afternoon, during the Winter, crime comes on early, on the assumption, I suppose, that no one goes to church any more, certainly not to vespers. What a beautiful family picture: Mother is reading a 25-cent book on murder; father is listening to one murder on a network and John and Jane to another. Thus, the Sabbath is devoted to holy thoughts and polite doings, particularly when some raucous, eerie laugh comes into the room.

In the long run, the N. B. C. will be proven right, for parents have been discussing this question for a long time, particularly at 2:00 a. m. when they are awakened by a screaming child, who has just been dreaming that "they're gonna get me." I once threatened to solve this problem in my own home by throwing every radio out of the window.

But a child told me that "The law would get me cold for that." I realized that I was a quarter of a century too late.

Apparently there is too little imagination in radio management and writing. In the good old days of Keith and Proctor, they would never have tolerated the same dullness of the patter week after week. It gets so, it is possible to tell what each one will do as soon as the program opens—so we turn on the records.

Today's Talk

Continual Opposition

I wonder how far any one of us would get did we not have opposition? In nature everything that thrives, does so in the face of continual opposition. What a beating the trees of the forest take! They have to fight for a look at the Sun. Their leaves and branche are under constant attack. The heat and cold and storms merely serve to make them more hardy.

The precious pearl is not a natural growth, but one that results from an unnatural rubbing inside the oyster shell. And opposition thus creates a thing of rare and exquisite beauty! I believe we all like a man or woman about whom all speak well—and yet we must admire the one with a nice group of enemies, for it takes a big man, or woman, to handle them, without withering in stature, and without the loss of character.

Weak people do not have enemies. They do not need them! They couldn't handle them, anyway. With plenty of enemies you get plenty of opposition—and that is what builds character, and independence of mind, and courage. It also adds fuel to incentive and sharpens the will to fight for that which is worth while.

There has been continual opposition to the democratic form of government, over long periods of history, yet this very opposition has made possible the establishment of the greatest democracy in all the world—an outgrowth of the seeds of democracy, planted in the Old World, and carried over to the New by liberty-loving human beings.

It is continual opposition that builds the strong muscles of the athlete. In the face of opposition we are always inspired to do our best. If we didn't have opposition we would merely sit around, idling, and with no expectancy. And there would be no surprises to enlighten us, no thrills, and no unexpected joy!

The New York Times for September 7th carried the story of John Deferrari, the son of an Italian immigrant, a fruit peddler, who also started his career with a basket of fruit to sell. But the other day, at the age of 84, he happily presented to the Boston Public Library $1,000,000, to start off a $3,000,000 trust fund, in appreciation for what books had done for him, but primarily to inspire youth with the opportunity for success in America. Think of the opposition that he must have encountered, however, in that long and gratifying climb!

Cut In Grain Exports And Its Effect On High Prices

Grain prices have fallen sharply on the exchanges on the heels of a Department of Agriculture announcement that grain exports in November will be 35 per cent below the October allocation—and 43 per cent below the monthly average for the July-October period.

This merely corroborates what most persons have been saying for many months—that rising prices of food were caused by huge shipments to other countries.

Decrease in grain and wheat prices is good news to the housewife, to whom the steady rise in prices during recent weeks has been cause of concern. It is encouraging to read, too, that while traders expected a cut in foreign grain shipments they did not expect quite so big a slash. Possibly this surprise will dampen speculative ardor in the future.

Yet it is hard to see how the basic situation has been changed. Europe, thanks to Russian machinations, drought and a general unwillingness to work, is woefully short of food. This government remains committed to a policy of feeding Europe. The demand for wheat can be judged by the fact that Argentina is now asking $5.90 a bushel, in American dollars, and getting it. In the circumstances, American wheat is a bargain at the highest price so far reached.

So it is doubtful that Europe's requirements will fall sufficiently, in the near future, to make much difference. It is equally doubtful that the Washington administration will decline to meet those requirements. But the traders evidently were considerably shaken by the government's announcement.

It is doubtful that the upward trend will be resumed soon. But if it is, consumer resistance to soaring food prices, as urged by various public figures in the last few days, should be resorted to, although there is a tendency to belittle its effectiveness. Of course, there may be so many factors influencing the rise that such a move would fail. But it proved a strong deterrent after World War I.

Then, as now, the Department of Justice took steps beginning a crusade against profiteering and illegal price fixing, for President Wilson believed that was the major cause of the rise.

Despite the campaign, prices continued to mount until the Spring of 1920. By midsummer of that year, however, consumers had organized a widespread campaign to stay away from stores until prices were brought down.

The Massachusetts Federation of Women's Clubs resolved to stop buying everything except necessaries, and its example was followed by women's organizations everywhere. Then the department stores began announcing horisontal reductions of 10 to 20 per cent in all prices. Before Autumn, the post-armistice boom had given way to depression.

Unparalleled consumer income and demand, which have combined to bolster the present high price level, certainly should also constitute an effective cushion against depression. But if the general trend of prices after World War I is repeated now, consumer resistance may be a more decisive influence in bringing about a correction than any action taken by the federal government.

It was an Arkansas editor who predicted prices would have to come down eventually, just to refuel if for no other reason.

Key To A Pennant

Barring invasion, atomic warfare, or the end of the world, this year's World Series, between the Yanks and the Dodgers, will open at the Yankee Stadium in New York on September 30.

There are many reasons why the Yanks are on top, but there's one contributing factor on which the sportswriters seem to be unanimous. Even managers of opposing teams say it couldn't happen to a better guy. They mean Stanley Raymond Harris (Bucky Harris of the sports pages, that is).

He didn't want the job of manager. But he took over a demoralized ball club, a wrinkled remnant of the bombers of old, instilled into it the morale of a team, fought through a season packed with injuries to his key players, and then watched the pennant drop right into his lap. He was lucky, to be sure, yet winners usually have a lot to do with making their own luck.

Bucky Harris knows baseball, but he also knows how to get along with people, and that pays off. It could pay off all over the world, if nations and peoples made the effort.

Scientist says chemically treated grass would enable a cow to fill up on half an acre instead of three acres. This will delight all those in favor of shorter hours for cows.

Germans Go For Jazz

American jazz has invaded Germany to such an extent many claim it is doing more to build friendship with the German people than all the efforts of the forces of occupation.

For 12 years Goebbels tried to teach his people American jazz was decadent. Now after two years it has become so popular it has replaced all the national music. In fact, the thousands who flock to the concerts refuse to listen to any other kind, and boo the orchestras which attempt to play straight stuff.

German bands are engaged in a program of competition for popularity. Voting contests are being held to determine which organization has the widest appeal. Thousands jam the concerts, and listeners even outdo the most ardent American jazz fan in their applause. One such dancing party lasted until 7 o'clock in the morning.

These concerts have become more popular than the movies, while band leaders are all heroes in the estimation of the German young people.

It will be remembered Hitler tried to popularize German folk songs, and ordered American music banned from the radio. All this has been forgotten, and such tunes as "Open the Door, Richard," have replaced the most famous German compositions. The American way of life is being sold through jazz, the more dignified methods having failed to do the job after months of effort.

Dietitians say fish is not a brain food. If they keep on they may yet explode the myth about spinach.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

MUSTARD GAS AS A TREATMENT

LYMPH glands tend to congregate in specific areas of the body and can often be felt as shotty nodules beneath the skin of the neck, groin, and armpits. Deposits are sometimes noted along the back portions of the chest and abdomen, where they follow the course of the large blood vessels. The lymph system is an important aid in combating infection and also plays a role in the manufacture of certain blood cells.

Should the glands enlarge, something is usually wrong and fortunately the cause is not always serious. When the throat becomes inflamed or tonsilitis ensues, the nodes on the side of the neck become puffy and occasionally tender. Infection in a finger provokes a similar reaction in the glands of the armpit. After healing takes place, the structures may not return to normal size, as in some instances a residual thickening remains.

Swelling may occur likewise in the presence of certain generalized ailments. In German measles, the glands in the back of the neck can be felt. Now and then this is the first sign of the disease and precedes the rash by several hours. In infectious mononucleosis (glandular fever) a somewhat similar situation exists.

Another group of more disturbing abnormalities associated with enlargement of the lymph glands includes leucemia, lymphosarcoma, and Hodgkin's disease. Diagnosis is made by studying the blood and bone marrow and removing a gland for microscopic examination. In the early stages the feelin of well being is rarely decreased and—especially in Hodkin's——good health may be maintained for years. In time, however, anemia, weakness, and malaise result. Involvement of the surface glands produces no discomfort, but when those deep in the chest or abdomen become so sizeable as to crowd neighboring structures, a host of manifestations is encountered. Pressure on the windpipe, for example, may interfere with breathing or bring on a dry, hacking cough.

In the past, X-ray therapy and the use of arsenic were the only weapons available to combat these maladies. During the last few years two additional products were introduced that are being investigated extensively. One is the mustard gas of World War I. fame. It was thought originally that this poison affected only the skin and mucous membranes. Later the discovery was made that the activity of the blood forming organs and the intestinal tract was depressed.

In addition, the growth of cancer cells was inhibited to some extent when it was administered to cancerous mice. The tumors dissolved, but in a certain percentage they returned. The material was next given to two individuals with lymphosarcoma, who exhibited tremendously swollen glands, and a marked shrinkage followed. Since then it has been administered to hundreds of persons suffering from malignancies and allied disorders. The effect is most noticeable in Hodgkin's disease. The enlarged glands, spleen, and liver become smaller, fever subsidies, and many seem to regain strength. The therapy is not curative, but helps to alleviate symptoms.

The second preparation is a simple chemical, ethyl carbamate (urethane). It has been used mainly in leucemia and some cancers. It affects the blood cells chiefly and, like mustard gas, causes the involved tissues to shrink. Neither substance has been perfected and side reactions are frequent. On the other hand, a new field has been opened because of their relationship to other products. It may be that continued research along this line will supply the answer in the treatment of neoplastic conditions.

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

Last week was back to school week and the kids were in for a pleasant surprise. Rapid studies have been made in the educational system and movies are gradually replacing the textbook. Schools are really progressive today. In fact, they caught a congressman trying to register—he wanted to investigate the little "red" schoolhouse.

Showing movies can upset all the old standards. Now the three "R's" will stand for Russell, Raft and Rogers.

And they have a new method of teaching arithmetic—they just show pictures of Crosby counting his money.

Of course, the older kids in high school are disgusted with this new system—no balcony.

I know one teacher who was called before the principal—she had had a bad review in Louella Parsons' column.

In stead of exams,the teachers are going to give screen tests.

The kids won't come to school late anymore. They'll all get there before the prices change.

My brother is doing all right, even though he's not very bright. He has the popcorn concession in 8-A.

And my movies are going to play a big part in the educational system. They're going to show them to the kids who have to stay after school, for punishment.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Only America Could Produce LaGuardia; Always Broke, He Always Thought Of The Underdog; Was A Great Quipster; Big Ambition Was To Go To Senate

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—I have written several thousand words about Fiorello LaGuardia while he was living; but, even though I can't do justice to him, I should like to write one more column now that he has reached the end of the road.

LaGuardia is hard to write about because his life was so full, his character so varied. He was either on the crest of the wave or down in the dumps, either chasing fire engines of driving gangsters out of New York, either spending millions feeding Europe or nursing nickels to keep a roof over his head.

I have been sitting at the typewriter, trying to describe LaGuardia but I'm not equal to it.

Letting my mind run back over the years—there was LaGuardia the Congressman, getting in the hair of both parties, fighting always for what he thought was right, always on the side of the underdog. Those were the carefree days when Fiorello used to cook spaghetti in Bob Allen's kitchen, and when as a joke on my old friend Captain Eugene Regnier, military aide to Secretary of State Stimson, I induced LaGuardia to tack an amendment on the War Department appropriation bill providing that "no money shall be expended for the salary of a military aide to any civilian member of the Cabinet." Stimson, who had a week spot for military folderol, nearly had a fit. Later we withdrew the amendment.

Then there were the days when LaGuardia, a Republican, was defeated by none other than his good friend Roosevelt and the Democratic landslide which swept FDR into power. Fiorello was flat broke in those days, scarcely knew where the next meal was coming from, but he rode on the subway, saved his nickels. He passed up the juicy law fees offered him by questionable clients,and stayed broke. In fact, aside from his salary as mayor of New York, Fiorello has been broke most of his life.

There were the drepsession days. LaGuardia was struggling to balance New York's budget—with New York taxpayers owing the city $400,000,000 unpaid taxes. So the Little Flower, genius that he was, persuaded Jesse Jones to loan him RFC money with unpaid taxes as collateral.

There were also the days when LaGuardia worried about his own election. Roosevelt never really came out strong for him, despite their close personal friendship, but 50,000 Democrats once wrote his name on the Democratic primary ballot—even though he was a Republican. . . . "If my parents had only given me a different name," moaned Fiorello. "That name costs me 250,000 votes at every election." . . . Despite the name, it was Fiorello who carried Tom Dewey along on the GOP ticket in Dewey's first real plunge into politics . . . And despite the name, LaGuardia telegraphed FDR after the unsuccessful 1938 purge against Senators George and Tydings: "You should have planted a Little Flower in Georgia and Maryland."

Was Own Press Agent

LaGuardia ran his public relations like the bandmaster his father was. "It's confidential," he used to tell the press. "Don't mention my name when you write it." . . . "When I've got something to say, I'll say it myshelf," he announced firing his press agent . . . "I'm too young to be Secretary of War," he told reporters who inquired if he was entering the Roosevelt Cabinet. . . . "When I took over New York I fired the bad commissioners." LaGuardia once cracked at his friend FDR, "in Washington they create new jobs for them." . . . And stationing Ernest Cuneo beside a fire alarm during one political speech he warned: "Don't let anyone pull the fire alarm and get the crowd to run out."

Fiorello flew a flag on his car with one more star than General MacArthur . . . He raised Cain with the State Department when they wouldn't let him supply a mounted escort to Philippine Perisednt Quezon. "Those white-spat boys say Quezon rates below a senator," complained LaGuardia . . . While he visited Stalin two years ago, he sent other members of his UNRRA party to see Lenin's tomb. "I got as much out of Stalin as they did out of Lening," he remarked later . . . LaGuardia's dislike of Herbert Hoover remained as constant at the end as during his days in Congress when he used to jibe at his "alleged" party leader in the White House. "Hoover brought back nothing UNRRA didn't already know," he said of Hoover's recent survey of Europe.

Suffered Disappointments

In his later years LaGuardia suffered two great disappointments. One was his failure to be made a U. S. Senator. The other was FDR's refusal to make him a Birigadier General in charge of the Italian Military Government. Roosevelt had promised him the latter job and Fiorello had his heart set on it but the brass hats intervened.

Asked whether he would run for Governor of New York, LaGuardia once replied: "I never take a step backward." Urged to run for President of the United States, he answered: "I'm too busy running New York City." But when asked if he would run for U. S. Senator, he said: "I'd run like a fire engine." That was LaGuardia's greatest ambition. And sometimes in Washington he would sit in the Senate gallery, looking down, watching with envy the debates of the world's greatest deliberative body—debates in which he was never allowed to participate.

Several weeks ago I had occasion to telephone LaGuardia in New York. He was still the same old Fiorello, still battling, still complaining in that squeaky voice of his.

"The place isn't the same any more," he said when I asked him why he didn't come down to Washington.

"Something's happend. There's too much timidity around the White House. Something's gone out of the place. I'm worried. There just isn't anybody working for the people anymore."

That was the last conversation I had with LaGuardia, a man with all his grand-standing and all his hair-pulling spent his life even up to the very end working for the people. Son of an Italian immigrant bandmaster and a Portuguese Jewess, he was a man such as only this country can produce. He was a great American. And America will be a lot emptier now that he has reached the end of the road.

Russia's Verbal Attack On U.S. Significant; War Not Immediate

By MARK SULLIVAN

Many persons — including President Truman and Secretary of State Marshall, indeed every person bearing responsibility because of office or function or conscience—must have thought with anxious urgency for some way to convey to the American people the seriousness of the crisis that came upon them last week.

How to detach from the 13 newspaper columns of Russian representative Vishinsky's speech to the Assembly of the United Nations, and the speeches made in reply, and the flood of comment getting slowly under way after the immediate shock—how to distill from all that, or find somewhere within it, one brief clear statement that would tell the story.

The task has been done for us. And the statement is the more convincing because it comes not from one of ourselves but from a representative of another nation, French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault.

Sweeping Attack On U. S.

On Wednesday Secretary of State Marshall had addressed the Assembly, stating the position of the United States in five main points. On Thursday, Russian representative Vishinsky had replied. He had negatived every one of Secretary Marshall's points. Going beyond the Marshall speech Mr. Vishinsky had made a sweeping attack upon the United States in words of such vitriolic ferocity as momentarily to stun the Assembly. Two days later, on Saturday, Mr. Bidault uttered his somber recognition of what had taken place:

"The French delegation deems it futile and dangerous to conceal the magnitude and seriousness of the crisis . . . The means are meager of finding a meeting ground for the two main statements the Assembly has heard. It is but honest to say that one does not see how they can be reconciled."

In one other speech, this one by American representative to the United Nations Warren Austin, there is light on the nature of the crisis and its seriousness:

"In the United States the effect was the reverse of the Soviet spokesman's purposes. The intemperateness of the charge, the absolute falsification of American motives, and the libel of individuals and institutions, discouraged many Americans who have consistently believed that the Soviet purposes are peaceful."

To say that Americans have lost belief that the Soviet purposes are peaceful does not differ greatly from saying we recognize that the purposes are not peaceful. Such shading of difference as there is may be accounted for by the diplomatic restraint which Mr. Austin would be sure to practice, and which Mr. Vishinsky wantonly threw overboard.

In Mr. Austin's allusion to the "absolute falsification" in Mr. Vishinsky's attack—that is, not in Mr. Austin's allusion but in the falsification itself—there is a disturbing remainder. One recalls the Hitler technique of the big lie. I paraphrase from memory the passage in "Mein Kampf"—the way to get a lie believed is to make it big and utter it violently. A cynicism that goes with Mr. Vishinsky's confidence that a falsification big enough can be made to stick, however flagrant the departure from plain and well-known fact, is illustrated by his charge that the United States is interfering with the sovereignt of other nations. This from Russia, in the light of Bulgaria, Poland, Hungary, and other border nations reduced to subservience.

Such An Attack Rare

Americans of this generation have lived through two wars and what preceded and led up to them. Never have they seen, except after war had begun or as an incident of the act of beginning a war, a verbal attack by an official representative of one nation upon another nation as violent as Mr. Vishinsky's on the United States last week. The nearest parallel might be found in some of Hitler's speeches working up himself and the German people to war, such as his denunciation of Czechoslovakia before he invaded it.

The significance of what took place last week is unmistakable. Yet it is not necessary to believe that war is immediate. Regardless of what might be inferred from utterances and actions of Russia, a tenable judgment held by some competent persons is that Russia will not make war for at least five years, perhaps ten. The reason relied upon is lack of readiness for war so soon after the recent one. But Americans would make a tragic mistake if they ever lapse or are lulled from understanding that the hostility of Russia is reconcilable, and will continue so long as Russia is dominated by the persons and the system that compose its present government.

Eisenhower Presidential Boom Grows; MacArthur In Picture

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22 — The presidential boom for general Eisenhower keeps growing without any encouragement from the General. There is no evidence yet which party the World War II commander affiliates with, and it conceivable that in 1948 the Democratic Party might seriously consider him.

After all, the Republicans have an abundance of candidates but there is a dearth of material on the Democratic side. There is even considerable difficulty finding a vice presidential candidate. It could be, too, that President Truman will surprise everybody by choosing not to run. He hasn't yet said he would run.

General Eisenhower would be a "natural" for the Democrats. They need a spectacular candidate. Mr. Truman is at present strong enough to get the nomination, but there is no telling what the situation will be next summer. The President is the kind of man who would not run if he felt it would not be to the interests of his party.

General Eisenhower will be regarded as a good vote-getter because his name is so well known and because he is a popular personality. but unless he picks a party soon, he will hardly qualify for either nomination.

Hoover's Case Recalled

It will be recalled that Herbert Hoover in 1920 was popular because of his record as food administrator in World War I. The "New York World," which was an independent and liberal morning newspaper with an influential editorial page, urged Mr. Hoover for the presidency on either ticket. Mr. Hoover had seconded President Wilson's ill-fated appeal for a Democratic Congress in November 1918, so many Republicans considered him a Democrat. Anyway, his reluctance to choose between the parties resulted in only a handful of votes being cast for him at the Republican national convention in 1920 when Harding was nominated.

By 1928, Mr. Hover's friends recognized the importance of identifying him with the Republican Party rather explicitly. When he was chosen secretary of commerce in 1921 by President Harding, he began to qualify as a Republican.

If General Eisenhower is a Republican, he might as well disclose that fact soon. For soldiers have had a vote, too, in recent years even when away from home. Doubtless he voted for Roosevelt last time because the commander-in-chief argument was rather potent in 1944.

The politicians all say that the draft of an outstanding military man is related to whether the Party feels the other names to come before the convention are not strong enough to win an election.

Ever since the Michigan and Pennsylvania congressional elections, the Republican politicians have felt that Taft, Dewey, or Vandenberg would win easily no matter which was chosen. This is because in the two test elections, the Republicans ran ahead of their 1946 percentage of total vote.

MacArthur Still In Picture

There is some discussion of General MacArthur as a possible Republican candidate. He wrote in 1944 a rather indiscreet letter—or perhaps, it should be said, a letter not intended for publication — in which some caustic things were said against the New Deal. It has been presumed ever since that he was a Republican.

If General MacArthur comes back to this country next spring, he will receive a tremendous ovation. He has done such a superb job of administering Japan that his friends think he might do equally well in the United States.

If General Eisenhower should be drafted by the Democrats, the Republicans might be tempted to nominate General MacArthur. Then the country would be assured of a military man in the White House, no matter how the election turned out. Maybe that's what the country wants—but the politicians of both parties are not yet ready to concede it.

THESE DAYS By George E. Sokolsky

Murder For Children

THE National Broadcasting Company has reached the conclusion that a heavy diet of murder for children is not particularly beneficial to them, their parents or the country in which they live. They will postpone murder until 9:30 P. M., Eastern Standard Time, after January. 1. Children interested in murder may have their fill of it until the new schedule goes into effect, although it is difficult to understand why if murder on the radio for children becomes carbolic acid on January 1, it is not carbolic acid today.

Meanwhile, it seems that Columbia, Mutual and America disagree with the N. B. C. They, it would appear, believe that murder is good for children at any time of the day or night, along with chewing gum, breakfast foods, and exterminators of body odors. That is why so many children put up their forefinger and make a noise like a machine gun. It is extremely stimulating to the young mind to make a noise like a machine gun. How often have I listened to the most enlightening conversations, lofty in tone and mood, on the relative merits of "The Green Hornet" and "The Falcon," or whether "Gang Busters" is more exciting than "Murder Is My Hobby". And murder has become a hobby if a small boy does it to prove that he is not a sissy.

The networks will undoubtedly debate the educational value of murder during the next few months and maybe another Vice-President will lose his job, but it would be preferable if this subject were seriously discussed by parents, educators and clergymen who have a direct concern with morals of their charges and who know that the radio cannot be suppressed in the home without creating such a rumpus as many parents seek to dodge.

If wickedness is to be kept from the child until it has, at any rate, passed out of puberty and to the verge of discretion—murder, foul, brutal murder, often related in a nonchalant, calm manner, as though to the manner born—such recitals of murder must be kept from the home at the source of supply.

One of the officials of a radio network — does it matter which?—asked why soap operas are not kept from the ears of children? I ask you, why not? That was a very good question, probably spoken from the heart.

If one listened only to the radio, say for a week, he could easily convince himself that in the United States murder is a most usual occurrence, happening at half-hour intervals, that most marriages are utter failures, that while crime does not pay, it nevertheless is extremely interesting, that there is always a third wheel to every chariot—meaning each family—that the greatest concern of wise women is to help young ladies out of scrapes with married men.

On a Sunday afternoon, during the Winter, crime comes on early, on the assumption, I suppose, that no one goes to church any more, certainly not to vespers. What a beautiful family picture: Mother is reading a 25-cent book on murder; father is listening to one murder on a network and John and Jane to another. Thus, the Sabbath is devoted to holy thoughts and polite doings, particularly when some raucous, eerie laugh comes into the room.

In the long run, the N. B. C. will be proven right, for parents have been discussing this question for a long time, particularly at 2:00 a. m. when they are awakened by a screaming child, who has just been dreaming that "they're gonna get me." I once threatened to solve this problem in my own home by throwing every radio out of the window. But a child told me that "The law would get me cold for that." I realized that I was a quarter of a century too late.

Apparently there is too little imagination in radio management and writing. In the good old days of Keith and Proctor, they would never have tolerated the same dullness of the patter week after week. It gets so, it is possible to tell what each one will do as soon as the program opens—so we turn on the records.

Continual Opposition

I wonder how far any one of us would get did we not have opposition? In nature everything that thrives, does so in the face of continual opposition. What a beating the trees of the forest take! They have to fight for a look at the Sun. Their leaves and branches are under constant attack. The heat and cold and storms merely serve to make them more hardy.

The precious pearl is not a natural growth, but one that results from an unnatural rubbing inside the oyster shell. And opposition thus creates a thing of rare and exquisite beauty! I believe we all like a man or woman about whom all speak well—and yet we must admire the one with a nice group of enemies, for it takes a big man, or woman, to handle them, without withering in stature, and without the loss of character.

Weak people do not have enemies. They do not need them! They couldn't handle them, anyway. With plenty of enemies you get plenty of opposition—and that is what builds character, and independence of mind, and courage. It also adds fuel to incentive and sharpens the will to fight for that which is worth while.

There has been continual opposition to the democratic form of government, over long periods of history, yet this very opposition has made possible the establishment of the greatest democracy in all the world—an outgrowth of the seeds of democracy, planted in the Old World, and carried over to the New by liberty-loving human beings.

It is continual opposition that builds the strong muscles of the athlete. In the face of opposition we are always inspired to do our best. If we didn't have opposition we would merely sit around, idling, and with no expectancy. And there would be no surprises to enlighten us, no thrills, and no unexpected joy!

The New York Times for September 7th carried the story of John Deferrari, the son of an Italian immigrant, a fruit peddler, who also started his career with a basket of fruit to sell. But the other day, at the age of 84, he happily presented to the Boston Public Library $1,000,000, to start off a $3,000,000 trust fund, in appreciation for what books had done for him, but primarily to inspire youth with the opportunity for success in America. Think of the opposition that he must have encountered, however, in that long and gratifying climb!

Police Continue Probe Of Robbery

City police last night were still searching for clues that would lead to the identity and arrest of a youthful bandit who robbed George Merritt, Oldtown, and Miss Martha Shanholtz, North Centre Street, at gunpoint Saturday.

Police said the description of the youth given by the couple who reported they were parked in Fisher's Woods about 100 yards off the highway, has not yet disclosed the identity of the bandit.

Merritt, police said, was robbed of $18 and Miss Shanholtz was robbed of approximately $3.

An angel was an ancient English gold coin, varying in value from $1.60 to $2.50. It was so named from the figure upon its obverse side of the Archangel Michael piercing the dragon. Angels were coined from the time of Edward IV to Charles I.

Mapleside Sewer Project Planned

City Engineer Ralph L. Rizer was authorized by the Mayor and Council yesterday to complete a survey and submit estimates on the cost of constructing a sewer along the Mapleside section of Oldtown Road.

The council's action came after Street Commissioner Myers L. Light reported that septic tanks are overflowing and that conditions are bad in that area.

Michael J. Malone asked that action be taken to extend a sewer on Wempe Drive from the vicinity of First Street to Second Street. He said that he recently built three homes which are being used and that two more will be finished soon. Malone declared that septic tanks are already overflowing. Rizer was also authorized to prepare for this work.

The engineer reported that a number of persons have been prevented from making home improvements calling for a small frame addition on properties located in the inner fire zone. He said that he believes the building code should be amended to allow for such construction under certain conditions.

Charles Z. Heskett, city attorney, was asked to prepare an ordinance making the change proposed by Rizer.

A petition signed by a group of property owners asked that repairs be made to Oak Alley, which runs from Park Street to Altamont Terrace between Harrison and Union Streets. It was referred to the street commissioner.

The engineer was authorized to issue a permit to William and Eugene Gulick for a building to be constructed on the rear of 305 South Centre Street. No charge will be made as the city sewer line runs across the property of the applicant.

The People's Drug Store was ordered refunded $6.98 representing discount on a water bill.

Increase Is Noted In Traffic Fines

A noticeable increase in fines for traffic violations including illegal parking yesterday was evident in Police Court when five drivers were fined sums of $5 or more instead of the usual $1.

Magistrate Oliver H. Bruce, Jr., disposed of 28 cases with all but one being forfeitures. The list included four $10 fines, one $5 with the remaining being $1 each.

In the lone traffic hearing, Attorney Lewis M. Wilson, represented Lester Wilkinson, 167 Bedford Street, who is charged with violating a parking ordinance by stopping near a red curb.

Magistrate Bruce continued the case after the defendant through his attorney, contended that the new traffic ruling permitted parking for the purpose of picking up and discharging passengers.

Magistrate Bruce indicated that he would give the defendant time to discuss the new regulations with City Attorney Charles Z. Heskett.

Drivers Are Fined

Two drivers, involved in a three-car accident Sunday morning at Stadium Inn, Frostburg, were fined $3.45 each yesterday when they were given hearings before Trial Magistrate Alexander Nicol, Frostburg.

The drivers, James W. Porter, Frostburg, and John Seibert, Eckhart, collided, according to police and then Porter's car struck the machine of Roy Sleeman, Frostburg.

Porter was charged with reckless driving, and Seibert with failing to give the right of way.

Two Local Men Get Suspended Sentences

John B. Robinson and Lloyd B. Farr, both of 533 North Mechanic Street, were given suspended sentences of 60 days in jail and paroled for one year after pleading guilty to charges of stealing a rabbit from Mrs. Charles Switzer.

The two men, arrested early yesterday morning, were given a joint hearing before Magistrate Frank A. Perdew, where they waived rights to a jury trial and pleaded guilty. The men were advised to make restitution for the rabbit, valued at $5, and to refrain from drinking.

Leslie A. Metz, Barton, was released on bond of $500, of which John and Elizabeth Metz, Barton, were surety, on a paternity charge brought by Alice Wilt. The warrant stated that the child was born March 13, 1947. The case will be presented to the grand jury.

Thomas D. Kenney, South Allegany Street, was arrested by Officer P. M. Crabtree for exceeding 50 miles per hour, and Magistrate Frank A. Perdew ordered his bond of $26.45 forfeited when he failed to appear. A second bond of $11.45 for operating without a license also was forfeited.

Trooper Harry Bosley arrested Raymond J. Hensel, Corriganville, for exceeding 50 miles per hour on Route 40 in LaVale. He was found guilty and fined $11.45.

John H. Maffley, 325 Pennsylvania Avenue, pleaded guilty to a reckless driving charge brought by Trooper Bosley, and was fined $15.75.

Ralph Haenftling, Route 1, Oldtown, forfeited bond of $6.45 for driving without a license.

Charles R. Lancaster, Arch Street, forfeited bond of $6.45 for reckless driving.

Elza L. Wyatt, Gassaway, W. Va., forfeited a $6.45 bond for reckless driving.

Miller Secures Permit To Build Residence

David Miller, 1415 River Avenue, secured a permit in the city engineer's office yesterday to build a five-room house on the rear of sections of Lots 22 and 23, Brookfield Avenue, facing on Oldtown Road.

The building, to be one and a half stories high, will measure 25 by 28 feet, with a concrete block foundation, frame walls and a composition roof. Work will be done by Miller and cost is estimated at $3,000.

A permit was granted to James E. Hare, to build an addition at the rear of 219 South Mechanic Street, to be used for greasing and washing cars. The one-story addition will measure 15 by 26 feet, with foundation and walls of concrete block and a composition roof. F. P. Montgomery is the contractor and cost is estimated at $700.

Advice To The Lovelorn

Old Saying, Turnabout Is Fair Play, Applies In This Case

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am 19 and have been going with a fellow the same age for about a year. We talked about getting married quite a lot. But, during the summer, he went away to work and I met a man of 21 with whom I went out a couple of time.

So I wrote my steady and told him I didn't want to go steady any more. However, after about two weeks, I found out how much I still loved and missed him, so I called him up and we started going together again.

The other night when we were out he told me he didn't want to go steady any more although he still loved me. He is the most wonderful fellow I have ever gone with and the only one I could ever love, and I would like to how how I can get him back.

"BEWILDERED"

Dear "Bewildered:"

Did you ever hear the old saying that "Turnabout is fair play?" If you felt free to tell your boy friend that you didn't want to go with him any more, certainly you should be ready to give him the same privilege. It is too bad that you were in such a hurry to take up with the new acquaintance, for it looks as though you had started something that gave your first boy friend ideas of his own.

In all fairness, I think you should certainly be as ready to accept his change of mind as you expected him to be with yours. Perhaps, like yourself, he will find that after he has tried going out with others you are the one he prefers. About all you can do now is to wait and see, trying to be friendly and understanding in the meantime.

SUCH POPULARITY IS EMBARRASSING

We're in a tough spot! We've got a fuel that is so popular there just isn't enough to fill the demand. It just seems like everyone wants to switch to Gas.

To say that we are embarrassed is putting it mildly. Nothing would please us more than to be able to supply Gas to everyone.

But for the present . . . in order to help prevent a Gas shortage next winter . . . we must restrict gas heating installations.

You can be sure, however, that we are doing everything possible to expand our supply and distribution facilities to take care of everyone as soon as we possibly can.

Rizer To Prepare Plans For Pool Filtration Plant

Plans and specifications for the installation of a recirculating and filtration plant at the Constitution Park swimming pool will be prepared by City Engineer Ralph L. Rizer, under authority given at yesterday's meeting of the Mayor and Council.

Street Commissioner Myers G. Light recommended that the plant be installed for protection of health and recalled that when the project was considered last year, cost was estimated at $30,000. He said city workmen will provide nearly all the labor connected with the work.

At the request of George G. Young, chairman of the Flood committee of the Chamber of Commerce, the council agreed to meet with chamber representatives as well as officials from Ridgeley this Wednesday at 10 a. m. Rep. J. Glenn Beall will be in attendance.

A letter from the Johnson Heights School Parent - Teacher Association complaining about traffic conditions in the vicinity of the school was referred to the Police Department.

An application by Dewey Shoemaker for a taxi stand permit for 523 Virginia Avenue was referred to the Police Department.

The council approved an order requesting the state to allocate gasoline tax and other motor vehicle funds to Cumberland. An estimated $45,215.32 is expected and the money must be used for street work.

Permission was granted for the erection of a banner across Baltimore at Centre Street for the purpose of advertising the LaSalle High - Mooseheart football game October 25.

Commissioner Clifton E. Fuller, who is in Atlantic City, was not at the meeting.

Dodgers Cop Pennant As Cards Split With Cubs

St. Louis Loses Nightcap 6 To 3

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 22—(AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers were presented with the National League pennant tonight when their second place rivals, the St. Louis Cardinals, were defeated by the Chicago Cubs, 6 to 3, in the night game of a day-night doubleheader, played before 8,000 shivering fans.

The defeat dropped the 1946 Champions 7½ games behind the idle league leaders, a deficit they will be unable to wipe out by the time the season closes Sunday. The Dodgers had an off day today.

The Dodgers thus emulated their World Series rivals, the New York Yankees, in clinching the pennant without lifting a bat. Just a week ago today the Yankees, idled by rain, were handed the American League flag as their closest competitors, the Boston Red Sox, were eliminated by the Chicago White Sox.

The Cardinals had prolonged their flickering flag hopes this afternoon by turning the Cubs back, 4 to 2, on the strength of Harry Brecheen's pitching and hitting. The little southpaw ace scattered seven Cub hits and drove in two runs with a single.

It was a different story tonight, however, with the Cubs pounding four Redbird pitchers for 14 hits while Paul Erickson and Johnny Schmitz limited the Cards to nine. A two-run homer by Rookie Cliff Aberson off Murry Dickson sent the Cubs away to a first inning lead and they were never headed. A two-run single by Ray Mack in the fifth was another potent blow for the Bruin cause.

Flatbush Fans Start Celebration

NEW YORK, Sept. 22 (INS)—A city-wide celebration was touched off in Brooklyn late tonight when the Dodgers backed into the National League pennant as a result of Chicago's 6 to 3 victory over the second-place St. Louis Cardinals.

Flatbush fans would have preferred to have seen their beloved Bums clinch the flag through a Brooklyn victory rather than a St. Louis defeat. But the Dodgers were idle today and a pennant is a pennant, so the city-wide uproar set in the very second the final St. Louis batter was retired.

This is Brooklyn's fourth pennant since the turn of the century, but the first since 1941.

Prexy Branch Rickey was largely responsible for Brooklyn's success this year because of the gambles he took in inserting untried rookies into the line-up.

Just one day before the opening of the season, Rickey rocked the baseball world by making Jackie Robinson, who had hit .349 for Montreal in 1946, his regular first baseman. Robinson, the first negro player in the majors, justified Rickey's faith by becoming the "rookie of the year."

Rickey came up with another youngster, Spider Jorgensen, at third base, and a crackerjack pitcher in Harry Taylor.

The Dodgers were leading the league early in May but found themselves in fifth place late in that month when the New York Giants were making their great run. Then the Dodgers started to climb.

They were up in first place on the night of June 26 and again on the night of July 4, traditional halfway milestone. They lost the lead on the 5th but regained it July 6th and held it ever since, a remarkable period of unbroken supremacy for the National League.

Ralph Branca was the ace of the pitching staff in those critical June and July days. His three-hit win over Boston gave the Dodgers the lead on July 6, and then came through with two more victories.

His triumphs touched off a winning streak of seven straight which made Brooklyn's drive look really serious.

The Dodgers hit their peak when they knocked over the Cardinals three times in a row from July 29 through the 31st.

These wins stretched Brooklyn's winning streak to 13 straight.

A Brooklyn slump and a sustained Cardinal spurt in August whittled the lead of the Dodgers to 3½ games. Branca was faltering at this point, but Vic Lombardi and Hank Behrman took up the pitching burden and in September the Brooks drew away from the fading champions rapidly.

The actual coup de grace came on the Dodgers' last Western trip when they took two out of three from the Cards.

Ralph Beard Rejoins Virginia Tech Squad

BLACKSBURG, Va., Sept. 22 (AP) — Halfback Ralph Beard of Cumberland, Md., Guard and Co-Captain Bill Barbour of Wayne, W. Va., and Tackle Frank Ballard, of Oxford, N. C., rejoined Virginia Tech's football squad for today's workout after missing several practice sessions because of injuries.

Bernard Sizemore, freshman back from Bluefield, W. Va., however, was in the infirmary because of an ankle injury.

Head Coach Jimmy Kitts put the Gobblers through a session of ball handling and spent part of the time on punt returns.

Yanks, Dodgers Picked By Marlin As 1948 Winners

Thinks Both Teams Will Be Stronger

By WHITNEY MARTIN

NEW YORK, Sept. 22 (AP) — Now that the football season is over—Notre Dame is champion by acclamation, isn't it, so what's the use of playing it out?—we'd like to be the first to get in a forecast for the 1948 baseball season.

We think the Dodgers will win in the National League again, assuming they will win this year, and that it again will be the Yankees in the American League.

They are based at least in part on sarily. Quarterfinal, maybe. But they aren't based entirely on wild guessing, or on the fact that the Dodgers and Yankees won this year.

They areb ased at least in part on the fact that both the Ddogers and Yankees will be improved clubs next year, and they were good enough to win this year without that improvement. Other clubs will improve, sure, but they'll have to improve a lot more than the current champions to overtake them.

Has Clutch Pitcher

We really aren't the first to predict the Dodgers will win in 1948. Branch Rickey predicted it two or three years ago, and repeated the prediction last spring. He had set 1948 as the climatic year in his long-range building program.

He had not given up on this year last spring, but he would not have been disappointed if his Dodgers had failed to make the grade.

"In 1948 we'll have no excuses," he remarked. "This year we might do it, but I'm not planning too heavily on it."

He had pointed out, among other things, that the Dodgers lacked a clutch pitcher, a stopper, a guy who could go in there to stop a losing streak, who wasn't afraid to put everything he had on the ball when the count was three and two on a batter.

Well, he came up with a pretty good clutch pitcher in Ralph Branca. At least the pitching as a whole was good enough to win, and that was all that was necessry.

Rickey's emphasis is on youth, and, although he has very capable veterans in gents like Pee Wee Reese, and Pete Reiser, who are not too old themselves, he gradually is working young fellows into the line-up. And you can bet he will continue to do so.

We thing the Cardinals are going to have to do to much rebuilding to make them a threat next year. They stood pat this year, so are at least a year behind the Dodgers in the rebuilding program. Besides, we aren't so sure that the Cardinal farms will produce too rich a crop this year. If there had been players who could have helped the parent club, they most certainly would have been summoned.

Giants May Be Tough

We'd pick the Giants right now as the team which might give Brooklyn the most competition next year. If Mel Ott should come up with a couple of good, nine-inning pitchers he might have a team which would be really tough.

The Giants have youth, tremendous power, and speed. Johnny Mize and Walker Cooper aren't kids any more, of course, but there is no reason to believe they haven't some more good years ahead of them.

The Red Sox may come back as contenders if they get pitching, but right now we can't see them improving more than the Yankees will improve. And for the Red Sox, that won't be enough.

DEM BUMS--NOW THE PRIDE OF THE NATIONAL LEAGUE

CHAMPIONS of the National league are the rollicking Brooklyn Dodgers, pictured here. Undismayed by loss of their manager, Leo Durocher, who was suspended by Baseball Commissioner A. B. Chandler for the season, the Dodgers went on to take an early lead under Manager Burt Shotton and held it to the end, despite a vigorous challenge by the St. Louis Cardinals. (International)

Wellersburg Cops First Playoff Game

Wellersburg won its first game in the Allegany County League playoff yesterday, handing the Hyndman Vets a 5-4 defeat at Hyndman. The Vets won the first two games of the best three out of five series.

Wellersburg got off to a 3-0 lead with three runs in the third inning but the Vets came back to knot the score with three markers in the sixth. Wellersburg added two more in the seventh and a Vets' rally in the same inning fell one short.

Charles O'Baker, Wellersburg manager, led the hitters with two doubles and a single while Tom May paced the Vets with a two-bagger and single. Tom May, Wellersburg right fielder, starred in the field with several nice catches.

The fourth game in the series will be played at Wellersburg Wednesday at 6 p. m. Score:

World Series Pitching

Louis Norman "Buck" Bobo Newsom was born in Hartsville, S. C. in 1908, according to the records. That would put Bobo close to 40 years old but it won't keep him out of the series.

"Back in 1942," Larry MacPhail said, "our Brooklyn pitching staff needed help badly so I bought Newsom for $45,000. But he was no help at all then. I had no idea at the time that I'd buy Bobo back again five years later to help out in a similar emergency—and this time he would come through. He has done a fine job for us—no one has worked harder—and he's pretty sure to be quite a factor in this next series. And the second time he only cost us the $10,000 waiver price."

There isn't space enough here to name the different teams Newsom has pitched for. We looked up 16 and then quit counting. There has practically been no section of the map that hasn't known the whizz of his fast ball and now after 20 years of rambling from hamlet to hamlet, from city to city, the Great Bobo finds himself with another championship club near the end of the long trail, all set for his divvy.

As far as one can check, the main pitching problem both Bucky Harris and Barney Shotten face is the matter of having Joe Page and Huge Casey geared up for an extremely busy week. There is no Mathewson, Johnson or Alexander on hand to be rated for a full nine-inning march. Both teams have men who can freeze opposing batters colder than an Arctic gale for four, five or six innings, but neither Harris nor Shotton is quite certain what will take place in the closing stanzas.

Apparently the Harris-Shotton pitching strategy will be to have each starting pitcher fire all the ammunition he has at hand until the supply runs out. Those capable of traveling six innings at top speed will be given a vote of thanks as the relief sector rushes to work on the final frames. It is for this season that so many Yankee rooters are rallying around the strong arm of Joe Page, rated by them well above any relief pitcher Brooklyn can offer.

This has been a year of relief pitchers above any stars. Few have been able to go the distance without having a portion of their scalps removed — and this includes Feller, Newhouser, Pollet, Brecheen and most of the stars of one brief year ago.

The Two Staffs

If you have nothing else to do between now and next Tuesday, you should take a few hours off and listen to an argument between Yankee and Dodgers supporters as to which team has the stronger pitching staff.

Here's the lineup: Dodgers — Branca, Hatten, Lombardi, Gregg, King, with Casey and Behrman for relief. Yankees — Reynolds, Shea, Newsom, Raschi, Drews—with Page for relief.

Outside of Joe Page, I can't see any big difference in these two roundups, with one exception. This is Frank Shea, if the Nugget of Naugatuck is even 80 per cent of his best. Shea, in shape, is the best pitcher on either club. He isn't far away from being the best pitcher in either league.

Reynolds and Branca are close to a stand-off, with Branca a trifle more brilliant and Reynolds a trifle more dependable. The Dodgers have much the better of the left-handed debate with Lombardi and Hatten. Both can be tough—at least for six or seven innings.

Bobo Newsom can be an extremely tough fellow to mow down. Bobo, like most of the others, may need help down the stretch but he is still quite a pitcher—especialy in front of a world series crowd. You can also gamble that he will pitch his arm off and his heart out to win.

I believe that Frank Shea, plus Joe Page, gives the Yankees the better of the pitching side. Shea has been slowly rebuilding his arm after a midsummer injury and he is now rated as good as ever. If this turns out to be true the Dodgers will be neck high in trouble each time he starts.

Both Harris and Shotton have had to keep their bull pens busy all season. At times five or six pitchers were needed to finish a game—unless Page or Casey were called in—and both had to keep their alert eyes focussed on the beckoning finger from the bench day after day and months after month. Casey has been better than good but Page has been brilliant with a fast ball and a fast breaking curve, plus control.

It is spilling no secret to state that pitching is a big part of any series. The pitchers usually take charge — as world series batting averages from the past will prove much more eloquent than a large bale of words could hope to do. Dodger pitching will have to reach a higher peak to match a staff that has Shea and Page—plus other good men—good if not great. The Yankees have the call in this important sector.

Harry Walker Is Cinch To Take Batting Crown

NEW YORK, Sept. 22 (AP)—Harry (The Hat) Walker, who was sold by the World Champions St. Louis Cardinals to the lowly Philadelphia Phillies in early season, has climaxed an amazing comeback by virtually clinching the National League batting championship without playing another game.

Out of the lineup with back injuries during the past week, the Phillies' centerfielder maintained his .362 average, 47 points better than runner-up Ralph Kiner of Pittsburgh. In fact, if Walker should fail to hit in all the Phils remaining games and Kiner should hit almost every time up, it would still be Walker for the title.

According to averages including games of Sunday, there was a close race only for the runner-up spot behind Walker. Kiner at .315 had only a point on Cincinnati's Augie Galan who was third at .314. Phil Cavarretta, of Chicago, .313, Pete Reiser, of Brooklyn, .312; Bob Elliott, of Boston, .311 and Tommy Holmes, of Boston, .310, all were in the running.

While the batters were doing their stuff in the next-to-last week of the season, three more pitchers joined the 20-win class, Warren Spahn and Johnny Sain, of Boston, and Larry Jansen, New York's prize rookie whose 20-5 season record now is tops in the league.

Johnny Mize, of New York, hit three homers, going into a first place tie with Kiner at 50 and also upped his margin in two other departments, runs scored, 132 and runs batted in, 137.

Walker Loses Fight; Barred From State

BALTIMORE, Sept. 23 (AP) — Buddy Walker, veteran Columbus, O., heavyweight, came to the end of his rope—so far as Baltimore is concerned—tonight, after he dropped a 10-round decision to Leo Matricciani, 207 3-4, of Baltimore.

Walker, the pre-fight favorite, appeared to have slowed almost to a walk and, although the local battler tried to make a fight of it, it was a tame exhibition. Walker weighed 195.

After the bout, which Matricciani won by unanimous decision, the Maryland Boxing Commission notified the matchmakers that Walker should not be brought back here. He had taken part in a score or more bouts here in the last seven years — most of them crowd pleasers.

Charlie Crump, 200½ won a decision over Leon Ford, 200, in a local talent semi-windup that went six rounds.

A crowd of 1,342 paid $2,566 to see the card.

Eastern Colleges To Have Stronger Football Elevens

Penn Appears To Be Best In The East

By PAT ROBINSON
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Sept. 22. (INS)—It is still a trifle early to give more than the sketchiest outline of what we may expect in the football season.

But, by the admission of the coaches themselves, certain statements may be made with some assurance. For example:

(1) All college attendance records are virtually sure to be smashed.

(2) Eastern colleges uniformly admit their teams are stronger than last year with, perhaps, the lone exception of Army.

(3) Almost every college boasts a fine backfield and, judging by what the coaches say, we shall see more great backs in action than we've seen for ten years.

(4) There will be fewer "breather" games along the line.

(5) There probably will be more so-called upsets than ever.

So much for the broader aspects. Now what about the individual teams?

Penn Seems Strongest

Well, from all we have been able to gather from many sources, it would appear that Penn should be the strongest team, not only in the Ivy League, but throughout the East.

Yale boasts the strongest team in years and expects an undefeated season.

Navy, with one of the three best centers in the country, a rugged line, fleet backs and some depth, may be as good as Penn. But Navy faces a killing schedule with nothing but the toughest teams in the land to beat.

How well the Middies fare will depend largely on their luck in avoiding accidents.

Yale has two splendid backs in Levi Jackson and Ferd Nadherney and, in Jack Roderick, "the best pass receiver since the days of Larry Kelly."

Army, minus Blanchard, Davis and Tucker, doesn't figure to be as strong but the Kaydets are conceding nothing to anybody and may be the surprise package of them all. They gave the Yale outfit a rude shock in a recent practice game and might carry on.

Princeton admittedly is vastly improved. In Weber, Sella, Collins and Wagner they have some power runners who can really go places with the ball. But their pass defense so far has been loose.

Columbia Has Big Team

Columbia has the biggest team the veteran Lou Little ever had to coach. He has a grand set of fleet backs, two fine ends and a very good center but the guards and tackle slots are dubious.

However, the Columbia backs can run and pass and they figure to score on all opponents and should beat most of them.

Everybody is gunning for Harvard this time. But Harvard may boomerang on some who think the Crimson will be a soft touch.

For the first time in 10 years Dick Harlow has in Jim Kenary a real forward pass artist and in Harold Moffie a fine tailback. The center of the line is not yet set but the boys are big and rugged.

Brown will be much stronger this year. Bigger and more experienced and with more reserves. The line is good and behind it Ed Finn is a good passer.

Dartmouth is said to have the weakest material of the Ivy set. But the Big Green is on the way back to the football heights. Joe Sullivan is a good quarterback and the boys will be less sieve-like on defense this year.

Cornell may or may not be slightly terrific. They have skilled and seasoned backs. The line is big and tough and ready to hold its own with any opposition. Nobody will take the Big Red lightly. And it could be that nobody will take them at all.

So much for the Ivy Set. We'll take a look at the independents tomorrow.

Herman's Fate As Manager Hangs In Balance As Pirate Owners Gather

Club Officers May Buy Up His Contract

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 22 (AP) — Three deeply concerned co-owners of the Pittsburgh Pirates will meet here tomorrow to decide if Manager Billy Herman is to blame for the fact that a tide of freely spent greenbacks has failed to put the Buccos up among the National League leaders.

No bones have been made of the fact that Herman's job is hanging in the balance. Frank E. McKinney, Pirate president, has said the owners would not hesitate to buy up Billy's contract if it is decided his managerial strategy is faulty.

Billy himself has refused to alibi, saying he did the best he could with what he had. Concensus of fans is that poor pitching and inadequate catching has helped keep the Pirates bouncing in and out of the cellar.

McKinney and John Galbreath, Columbus, O., are the biggest stockholders and their words are expected to carry the most weight when the owners pull up chairs to the conference table. The third conferee will be Thomas Johnson, Pittsburgh. McKinney will bring to the meeting the power to vote for the fourth owner, Crooner Bing Crosby. Bing has said what ever the others decide will be all right with him.

The owners have made no secret of their disappointment in the way the club slid down hill after a good start which saw the Pirates win their first several games. With fans aroused to an enthusiastic pitch at the start, attendance reached record levels here but has dropped of late.

Fogtman Leads Moose To Rocking Chair Title

LaGuardia Sought All-America Post

NEW YORK, Sept. 22 (INS)—Admiral Jonas Ingram revealed today that the late Fiorello H. LaGuardia, former Mayor of New York City, sought the commissionership of the All-America Conference before the post finally was awarded to Ingram. The Commissioner said:

"The league officials told me they called it a tie between LaGuardia and myself in integrity, and gave me the edge because of football knowledge."

Doubleheader Is Split By Tigers And The Indians

Detroit Now In Tie For Second

DETROIT, Sept. 22—(AP)—Hank Edwards' ninth inning homer dropped Detroit into a second place tie with Boston by giving Cleveland a 7 to 6 nightcap win today after the Tigers had won the first game of a doubleheader 6 to 4.

With his three-run circuit clout Edwards matched Detroit's Roy Cullenbine, whose 24th home run an inning earlier had given the Tigers a three-run lead and whose double in the eighth inning of the opener drove in the winning runs.

Edwards was the first man to face Virgil Trucks, who relieved Stubby Overmire after successive singles by Jam Hegan, Hal Rosen and Dale Mitchell started the fatal ninth. Trucks was charged with the loss Ed Klieman gained the victory before Bobby Feller was called in to pitch the ninth and gave up one hit, Vic Wertz' fourth of the game.

Elks Lose 3-0 In Three-Hit Game

A stellar three-hit pitching performance by Frankie Fogtman brought the 1947 Rocking Chair Softball League championship to the Loyal Order of Moose yesterday as Manager "Red" Payne's players topped the B.P.O. Elks 3-0 at Community Park.

Three hits, good for two runs, broke up a neat pitching duel between Fogtman and Manager Jim Wilkinson of the Elks in the fifth frame and put the game on ice for the underdog Moosemen.

Lonnie Jackson opened the fifth inning with a clean single to right. After Ed Roberts flied out Bob Wade singled, with Jackson going to third from where he tallied the initial run on Claude Robinson's fly ball. Wade then scored on John Angelletta's one-base knock.

The Moose added an additional run in the bottom of the sixth on Russ Minnick's terrific drive to right center for a home run.

Frank Williams' running catch of Paul Roeder's fly ball was the fielding gem of the hard-fought contest. Ed Schrader and Minnicks also played outstanding ball afield for the winning Moose outfit. "Tag" Reel was the top player for the 1946 champs.

Fogtman chipped in with a ringing double in addition to his sterling mound performance while Reel connected for three bases and Minnick's homer was the only other extra base blow.

The victory made it two out of three in the series for the loop bunting and one game ended in a tie. The lineups:

Two Promising Rookies Will Pitch Against New York Giants Sunday

Phillies Will Use Simmons And Koecher

By ORLO ROBERTSON

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 22 (AP)—Two of the most promising pitchers on the Major League farms will get their big chance when the Philadelphia Phillies throw southpaws Dick Koecher of Utica, N. Y., and Curt Simmons of Wilmington, Del., against the slugging New York Giants in the season's final game Sunday.

Twenty-year-old Koecher, playing his second year in organized ball, paced the Utica club into the finals of the Eastern League playoffs with a 17-8 record.

Simmons, 18-year-old strikeout ace from Egypt, Pa., won 13 and lost five during the regular season although not joining the Wilmington club of the Interstate League until June. He also accounted for two games as the Phils" Class B Farm Club captured the league playoffs for the second straight year.

"Both are fine young players and should make the grade," said Herb Pennock, general manager of the Phils.

Under the bonus rule the Phils must keep Simmons, ask waivers or sell him. The Majors call for such procedure on all players receiving a bonus of $6,000 or over for signing. It is believed Curt got in the neighborhood of $10,000 when he stepped out of high school in June.

Simmons lost none of his reputation for striking out opponents when he donned a Wilmington uniform. During the regular season he fanned 197 batsmen and kept up the pace in the playoffs, striking out 14 Allentown Cards in one game.

"He's a great prospect," said Jack Saltzgaver, manager of the Wilmington club. "He's got to learn control (he has trouble with his high fast pitch) but he's come along fast."

"Time and confidence will give him control," said Pennock. "When I was his age I was wilder than a wildcat."

Bell Whips Hursey

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22 (AP) — Tommie Bell, Youngstown, O., scored a unanimous ten round decision over Smuggy Hursey, Washington, at Griffith Stadium tonight before 7,355 persons.

Bell won every round except the sixth. Bell weighed 149, Hursey 153. Hursey was knocked down for a count of six in the third round, the only knockdown of the fight.

BROWNS-SOX DIVIDE

CHICAGO, Sept. 22 (AP) — The Chicago White Sox divided a twilight-night double header with the St. Louis Browns tonight when Joe Haynes hurled an eight-hit 4 to 0 win in the final after Sam Zoldak had hurled the Browns to a 4 to 2 victory in the first game.

Dodgers Cop Pennant As Cards Split With Cubs

St. Louis Loses Nightcap 6 To 3

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 22—(AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers were presented with the National League pennant tonight when their second place rivals, the St. Louis Cardinals, were defeated by the Chicago Cubs, 6 to 3, in the night game of a day-night doubleheader, played before 8,000 shivering fans.

The defeat dropped the 1946 Champions 7½ games behind the idle league leaders, a deficit they will be unable to wipe out by the time the season closes Sunday. The Dodgers had an off day today.

The Dodgers thus emulated their World Series rivals, the New York Yankees, in clinching the pennant without lifting a bat. Just a week ago today the Yankees, idled by rain, were handed the American League flag as their closest competitors, the Boston Red Sox, were eliminated by the Chicago White Sox.

The Cardinals had prolonged their flickering flag hopes this afternoon by turning the Cubs back, 4 to 2, on the strength of Harry Brecheen's pitching and hitting. The little southpaw ace scattered seven Cub hits and drove in two runs with a single.

It was a different story tonight, however, with the Cubs pounding four Redbird pitchers for 14 hits while Paul Erickson and Johnny Schmitz limited the Cards to nine. A two-run homer by Rookie Cliff Aberson off Murry Dickson sent the Cubs away to a first inning lead and they were never headed. A two-run single by Ray Mack in the fifth was another potent blow for the Bruin cause.

Flatbush Fans Start Celebration

NEW YORK, Sept. 22 (INS)—A city-wide celebration was touched off in Brooklyn late tonight when the Dodgers backed into the National League pennant as a result of Chicago's 6 to 3 victory over the second-place St. Louis Cardinals.

Flatbush fans would have preferred to have seen their beloved Bums clinch the flag through a Brooklyn victory rather than a St. Louis defeat. But the Dodgers were idle today and a pennant is a pennant, so the city-wide uproar set in the very second the final St. Louis batter was retired.

This is Brooklyn's fourth pennant since the turn of the century, but the first since 1941.

Prexy Branch Rickey was largely responsible for Brooklyn's success this year because of the gambles he took in inserting untried rookies into the line-up.

Just one day before the opening of the season, Rickey rocked the baseball world by making Jackie Robinson, who had hit .349 for Montreal in 1946, his regular first baseman. Robinson, the first negro player in the majors, justified Rickey's faith by becoming the "rookie of the year."

Rickey came up with another youngster, Spider Jorgensen, at third base, and a crackerjack pitcher in Harry Taylor.

The Dodgers were leading the league early in May but found themselves in fifth place late in that month when the New York Giants were making their great run. Then the Dodgers started to climb.

They were up in first place on the night of June 26 and again on the night of July 4, traditional halfway milestone. They lost the lead on the 5th but regained it July 6th and held it ever since, a remarkable period of unbroken supremacy for the National League.

Ralph Branca was the ace of the pitching staff in those critical June and July days. His three-hit win over Boston gave the Dodgers the lead on July 6, and then came through with two more victories.

His triumphs touched off a winning streak of seven straight which made Brooklyn's drive look really serious.

The Dodgers hit their peak when they knocked over the Cardinals three times in a row from July 29 through the 31st.

These wins stretched Brooklyn's winning streak to 13 straight.

A Brooklyn slump and a sustained Cardinal spurt in August whittled the lead of the Dodgers to 3½ games. Branca was faltering at this point, but Vic Lombardi and Hank Behrman took up the pitching burden and in September the Brooks drew away from the fading champions rapidly.

The actual coup de grace came on the Dodgers' last Western trip when they took two out of three from the Cards.

Ralph Beard Rejoins Virginia Tech Squad

BLACKSBURG, Va., Sept. 22 (AP) — Halfback Ralph Beard of Cumberland, Md., Guard and Co-Captain Bill Barbour of Wayne, W. Va., and Tackle Frank Ballard, of Oxford, N. C., rejoined Virginia Tech's football squad for today's workout after missing several practice sessions because of injuries.

Bernard Sizemore, freshman back from Bluefield, W. Va., however, was in the infirmary because of an ankle injury.

Head Coach Jimmy Kitts put the Gobblers through a session of ball handling and spent part of the time on punt returns.

Yanks, Dodgers Picked By Martin As 1948 Winners

Thinks Both Teams Will Be Stronger

By WHITNEY MARTIN

NEW YORK, Sept. 22 (AP) — Now that the football season is over—Notre Dame is champion by acclamation, isn't it, so what's the use of playing it out?—we'd like to be the first to get in a forecast for the 1948 baseball season.

We think the Dodgers will win in the National League again, assuming they will win this year, and that it again will be the Yankees in the American League.

They are based at least in part on sarily. Quarterfinal, maybe. But they aren't based entirely on wild guessing, or on the fact that the Dodgers and Yankees won this year.

They areb ased at least in part on the fact that both the Ddogers and Yankees will be improved clubs next year, and they were good enough to win this year without that improvement. Other clubs will improve, sure, but they'll have to improve a lot more than the current champions to overtake them.

Has Clutch Pitcher

We really aren't the first to predict the Dodgers will win in 1948. Branch Rickey predicted it two or three years ago, and repeated the prediction last spring. He had set 1948 as the climatic year in his long-range building program.

He had not given up on this year last spring, but he would not have been disappointed if his Dodgers had failed to make the grade.

"In 1948 we'll have no excuses," he remarked. "This year we might do it, but I'm not planning too heavily on it."

He had pointed out, among other things, that the Dodgers lacked a clutch pitcher, a stopper, a guy who could go in there to stop a losing streak, who wasn't afraid to put everything he had on the ball when the count was three and two on a batter.

Well, he came up with a pretty good clutch pitcher in Ralph Branca. At least the pitching as a whole was good enough to win, and that was all that was necessry.

Rickey's emphasis is on youth, and, although he has very capable veterans in gents like Pee Wee Reese, and Pete Reiser, who are not too old themselves, he gradually is working young fellows into the line-up. And you can bet he will continue to do so.

We thing the Cardinals are going to have to do to much rebuilding to make them a threat next year. They stood pat this year, so are at least a year behind the Dodgers in the rebuilding program. Besides, we aren't so sure that the Cardinal farms will produce too rich a crop this year. If there had been players who could have helped the parent club, they most certainly would have been summoned.

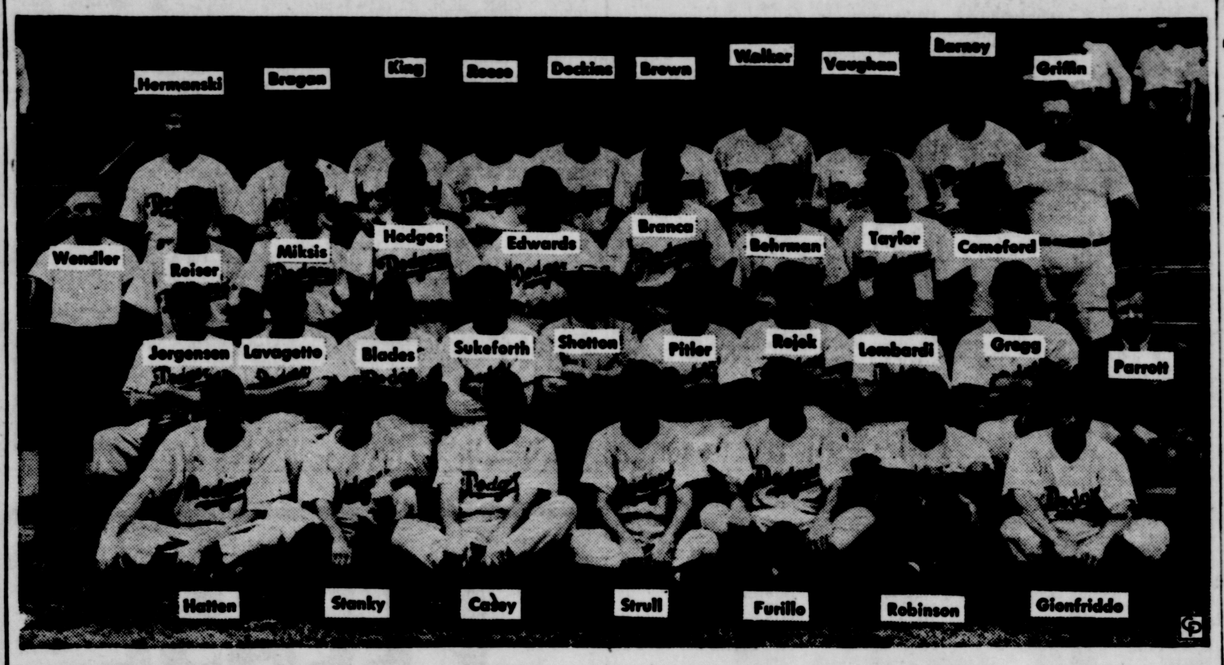
Giants May Be Tough

We'd pick the Giants right now as the team which might give Brooklyn the most competition next year. If Mel Ott should come up with a couple of good, nine-inning pitchers he might have a team which would be really tough.

The Giants have youth, tremendous power, and speed. Johnny Mize and Walker Cooper aren't kids any more, of course, but there is no reason to believe they haven't some more good years ahead of them.

The Red Sox may come back as contenders if they get pitching, but right now we can't see them improving more than the Yankees will improve. And for the Red Sox, that won't be enough.

DEM BUMS—NOW THE PRIDE OF THE NATIONAL LEAGUE



CHAMPIONS of the National league are the rollicking Brooklyn Dodgers, pictured here. Undismayed by loss of their manager, Leo Durocher, who was suspended by Baseball Commissioner A. B. Chandler for the season, the Dodgers went on to take an early lead under Manager Burt Shotton and held it to the end, despite a vigorous challenge by the St. Louis Cardinals. (International)

All State Fullback Joe Stanislawczyk will be in the starting line-up for the Concord clash and will attempt to add to his one touchdown for the 1947 season. He tallied State's lone six-pointer against West Liberty.

Potomac State's three other home games are Davis and Elkins on Saturday, October 18 which will be part of States Homecoming program; Salem College, on Friday, October 24 and West Virginia Tech, on Friday, November 14.

Wellersburg Cops First Playoff Game

Wellersburg won its first game in the Allegany County League playoff yesterday, handing the Hyndman Vets a 5-4 defeat at Hyndman. The Vets won the first two games of the best three out of five series.

Wellersburg got off to a 3-0 lead with three runs in the third inning but the Vets came back to knot the score with three markers in the sixth. Wellersburg added two more in the seventh and a Vets' rally in the same inning fell one short.

Charles O'Baker, Wellersburg manager, led the hitters with two doubles and a single while Tom May paced the Vets with a two-bagger and single. Tom May, Wellersburg right fielder, starred in the field with several nice catches.

The fourth game in the series will be played at Wellersburg Wednesday at 6 p. m. Score:

WELLERSBURG	003 000 2—5 7 1

World Series Pitching

Louis Norman "Buck" Bobo Newsom was born in Hartsville, S. C. in 1908, according to the records. That would put Bobo close to 40 years old but it won't keep him out of the series.

"Back in 1942," Larry MacPhail said, "our Brooklyn pitching staff needed help badly so I bought Newsom for $45,000. But he was no help at all then. I had no idea at the time that I'd buy Bobo back again five years later to help out in a similar emergency—and this time he would come through. He has done a fine job for us—no one has worked harder—and he's pretty sure to be quite a factor in this next series. And the second time he only cost us the $10,000 waiver price."

There isn't space enough here to name the different teams Newsom has pitched for. We looked up 16 and then quit counting. There has practically been no section of the map that hasn't known the whizz of his fast ball and now after 20 years of rambling from hamlet to hamlet, from city to city, the Great Bobo finds himself with another championship club near the end of the long trail, all set for his divvy.

As far as one can check, the main pitching problem both Bucky Harris and Barney Shotten face is the matter of having Joe Page and Huge Casey geared up for an extremely busy week. There is no Mathewson, Johnson or Alexander on hand to be rated for a full nine-inning march. Both teams have men who can freeze opposing batters colder than an Arctic gale for four, five or six innings, but neither Harris nor Shotton is quite certain what will take place in the closing stanzas.

Apparently the Harris-Shotton pitching strategy will be to have each starting pitcher fire all the ammunition he has at hand until the supply runs out. Those capable of traveling six innings at top speed will be given a vote of thanks as the relief sector rushes to work on the final frames. It is for this season that so many Yankee rooters are rallying around the strong arm of Joe Page, rated by them well above any relief pitcher Brooklyn can offer.

This has been a year of relief pitchers above any stars. Few have been able to go the distance without having a portion of their scalps removed — and this includes Feller, Newhouser, Pollet, Brecheen and most of the stars of one brief year ago.

The Two Staffs

If you have nothing else to do between now and next Tuesday, you should take a few hours off and listen to an argument between Yankee and Dodgers supporters as to which team has the stronger pitching staff.

Here's the lineup: Dodgers — Branca, Hatten, Lombardi, Gregg, King, with Casey and Behrman for relief. Yankees — Reynolds, Shea, Newsom, Raschi, Drews—with Page for relief.

Outside of Joe Page, I can't see any big difference in these two roundups, with one exception. This is Frank Shea, if the Nugget of Naugatuck is even 80 per cent of his best. Shea, in shape, is the best pitcher on either club. He isn't far away from being the best pitcher in either league.

Reynolds and Branca are close to a stand-off, with Branca a trifle more brilliant and Reynolds a trifle more dependable. The Dodgers have much the better of the left-handed debate with Lombardi and Hatten. Both can be tough—at least for six or seven innings.

Bobo Newsom can be an extremely tough fellow to mow down. Bobo, like most of the others, may need help down the stretch but he is still quite a pitcher—especialy in front of a world series crowd. You can also gamble that he will pitch his arm off and his heart out to win.

I believe that Frank Shea, plus Joe Page, gives the Yankees the better of the pitching side. Shea has been slowly rebuilding his arm after a midsummer injury and he is now rated as good as ever. If this turns out to be true the Dodgers will be neck high in trouble each time he starts.

Both Harris and Shotton have had to keep their bull pens busy all season. At times five or six pitchers were needed to finish a game—unless Page or Casey were called in—and both had to keep their alert eyes focussed on the beckoning finger from the bench day after day and months after month. Casey has been better than good but Page has been brilliant with a fast ball and a fast breaking curve, plus control.

It is spilling no secret to state that pitching is a big part of any series. The pitchers usually take charge — as world series batting averages from the past will prove much more eloquent than a large bale of words could hope to do. Dodger pitching will have to reach a higher peak to match a staff that has Shea and Page—plus other good men—good if not great. The Yankees have the call in this important sector.

Harry Walker Is Cinch To Take Batting Crown

NEW YORK, Sept. 22 (AP)—Harry (The Hat) Walker, who was sold by the World Champions St. Louis Cardinals to the lowly Philadelphia Phillies in early season, has climaxed an amazing comeback by virtually clinching the National League batting championship without playing another game.

Out of the lineup with back injuries during the past week, the Phillies' centerfielder maintained his .362 average, 47 points better than runner-up Ralph Kiner of Pittsburgh. In fact, if Walker should fail to hit in all the Phils remaining games and Kiner should hit almost every time up, it would still be Walker for the title.

According to averages including games of Sunday, there was a close race only for the runner-up spot behind Walker. Kiner at .315 had only a point on Cincinnati's Augie Galan who was third at .314. Phil Cavarretta, of Chicago, .313, Pete Reiser, of Brooklyn, .312; Bob Elliott, of Boston, .311 and Tommy Holmes, of Boston, .310, all were in the running.

While the batters were doing their stuff in the next-to-last week of the season, three more pitchers joined the 20-win class, Warren Spahn and Johnny Sain, of Boston, and Larry Jansen, New York's prize rookie whose 20-5 season record now is tops in the league.

Johnny Mize, of New York, hit three homers, going into a first place tie with Kiner at 50 and also upped his margin in two other departments, runs scored, 132 and runs batted in, 137.

Walker Loses Fight; Barred From State

BALTIMORE, Sept. 23 (AP) — Buddy Walker, veteran Columbus, O., heavyweight, came to the end of his rope—so far as Baltimore is concerned—tonight, after he dropped a 10-round decision to Leo Matricciani, 207 3-4, of Baltimore.

Walker, the pre-fight favorite, appeared to have slowed almost to a walk and, although the local battler tried to make a fight of it, it was a tame exhibition. Walker weighed 195.

After the bout, which Matricciani won by unanimous decision, the Maryland Boxing Commission notified the matchmakers that Walker should not be brought back here. He had taken part in a score or more bouts here in the last seven years — most of them crowd pleasers.

Charlie Crump, 200½ won a decision over Leon Ford, 200, in a local talent semi-windup that went six rounds.

Herman's Fate As Manager Hangs In Balance As Pirate Owners Gather

Club Officers May Buy Up His Contract

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 22 (AP) — Three deeply concerned co-owners of the Pittsburgh Pirates will meet here tomorrow to decide if Manager Billy Herman is to blame for the fact that a tide of freely spent greenbacks has failed to put the Buccos up among the National League leaders.

No bones have been made of the fact that Herman's job is hanging in the balance. Frank E. McKinney, Pirate president, has said the owners would not hesitate to buy up Billy's contract if it is decided his managerial strategy is faulty.

Billy himself has refused to alibi, saying he did the best he could with what he had. Concensus of fans is that poor pitching and inadequate catching has helped keep the Pirates bouncing in and out of the cellar.

McKinney and John Galbreath, Columbus, O., are the biggest stockholders and their words are expected to carry the most weight when the owners pull up chairs to the conference table. The third conferee will be Thomas Johnson, Pittsburgh. McKinney will bring to the meeting the power to vote for the fourth owner, Crooner Bing Crosby. Bing has said what ever the others decide will be all right with him.

The owners have made no secret of their disappointment in the way the club slid down hill after a good start which saw the Pirates win their first several games. With fans aroused to an enthusiastic pitch at the start, attendance reached record levels here but has dropped of late.

Eastern Colleges To Have Stronger Football Elevens

Penn Appears To Be Best In The East

By PAT ROBINSON
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Sept. 22. (INS)—It is still a trifle early to give more than the sketchiest outline of what we may expect in the football season.

But, by the admission of the coaches themselves, certain statements may be made with some assurance. For example:

(1) All college attendance records are virtually sure to be smashed.

(2) Eastern colleges uniformly admit their teams are stronger than last year with, perhaps, the lone exception of Army.

(3) Almost every college boasts a fine backfield and, judging by what the coaches say, we shall see more great backs in action than we've seen for ten years.

(4) There will be fewer "breather" games along the line.

(5) There probably will be more so-called upsets than ever.

So much for the broader aspects. Now what about the individual teams?

Penn Seems Strongest

Well, from all we have been able to gather from many sources, it would appear that Penn should be the strongest team, not only in the Ivy League, but throughout the East.

Yale boasts the strongest team in years and expects an undefeated season.

Navy, with one of the three best centers in the country, a rugged line, fleet backs and some depth, may be as good as Penn. But Navy faces a killing schedule with nothing but the toughest teams in the land to beat.

How well the Middies fare will depend largely on their luck in avoiding accidents.

Yale has two splendid backs in Levi Jackson and Ferd Nadherney and, in Jack Roderick, "the best pass receiver since the days of Larry Kelly."

Army, minus Blanchard, Davis and Tucker, doesn't figure to be as strong but the Kaydets are conceding nothing to anybody and may be the surprise package of them all. They gave the Yale outfit a rude shock in a recent practice game and might carry on.

Princeton admittedly is vastly improved. In Weber, Sella, Collins and Wagner they have some power runners who can really go places with the ball. But their pass defense so far has been loose.

Columbia Has Big Team

Columbia has the biggest team the veteran Lou Little ever had to coach. He has a grand set of fleet backs, two fine ends and a very good center but the guards and tackle slots are dubious.

However, the Columbia backs can run and pass and they figure to score on all opponents and should beat most of them.

Everybody is gunning for Harvard this time. But Harvard may boomerang on some who think the Crimson will be a soft touch.

For the first time in 10 years Dick Harlow has in Jim Kenary a real forward pass artist and in Harold Moffie a fine tailback. The center of the line is not yet set but the boys are big and rugged.

Brown will be much stronger this year. Bigger and more experienced and with more reserves. The line is good and behind it Ed Finn is a good passer.

Dartmouth is said to have the weakest material of the Ivy set. But the Big Green is on the way back to the football heights. Joe Sullivan is a good quarterback and the boys will be less sieve-like on defense this year.

Cornell may or may not be slightly terrific. They have skilled and seasoned backs. The line is big and tough and ready to hold its own with any opposition. Nobody will take the Big Red lightly. And it could be that nobody will take them at all.

So much for the Ivy Set. We'll take a look at the independents tomorrow.

Two Promising Rookies Will Pitch Against New York Giants Sunday

Phillies Will Use Simmons And Koecher

By ORLO ROBERTSON

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 22 (AP)—Two of the most promising pitchers on the Major League farms will get their big chance when the Philadelphia Phillies throw southpaws Dick Koecher of Utica, N. Y., and Curt Simmons of Wilmington, Del., against the slugging New York Giants in the season's final game Sunday.

Twenty-year-old Koecher, playing his second year in organized ball, paced the Utica club into the finals of the Eastern League playoffs with a 17-8 record.

Simmons, 18-year-old strikeout ace from Egypt, Pa., won 13 and lost five during the regular season although not joining the Wilmington club of the Interstate League until June. He also accounted for two games as the Phils" Class B Farm Club captured the league playoffs for the second straight year.

"Both are fine young players and should make the grade,' said Herb Pennock, general manager of the Phils.

Under the bonus rule the Phils must keep Simmons, ask waivers or sell him. The Majors call for such procedure on all players receiving a bonus of $6,000 or over for signing. It is believed Curt got in the neighborhood of $10,000 when he stepped out of high school in June.

Simmons lost none of his reputation for striking out opponents when he donned a Wilmington uniform. During the regular season he fanned 197 batsmen and kept up the pace in the playoffs, striking out 14 Allentown Cards in one game.

"He's a great prospect," said Jack Saltzgaver, manager of the Wilmington club. "He's got to learn control (he has trouble with his high fast pitch) but he's come along fast."

"Time and confidence will give him control," said Pennock. "When I was his age I was wilder than a wildcat."

LaGuardia Sought All-America Post

NEW YORK, Sept. 22 (INS)—Admiral Jonas Ingram revealed today that the late Fiorello H. LaGuardia, former Mayor of New York City, sought the commissionership of the All-America Conference before the post finally was awarded to Ingram. The Commissioner said:

"The league officials told me they called it a tie between LaGuardia and myself in integrity, and gave me the edge because of football knowledge."

Doubleheader Is Split By Tigers And The Indians

Detroit Now In Tie For Second

DETROIT, Sept. 22—(AP)—Hank Edwards' ninth inning homer dropped Detroit into a second place tie with Boston by giving Cleveland a 7 to 6 nightcap win today after the Tigers had won the first game of a doubleheader 6 to 4.

With his three-run circuit clout Edwards matched Detroit's Roy Cullenbine, whose 24th home run an inning earlier had given the Tigers a three-run lead and whose double in the eighth inning of the opener drove in the winning runs.

Edwards was the first man to face Virgil Trucks, who relieved Stubby Overmire after successive singles by Jam Hegan, Hal Rosen and Dale Mitchell started the fatal ninth. Trucks was charged with the loss Ed Klieman gained the victory before Bobby Feller was called in to pitch the ninth and gave up one hit, Vic Wertz' fourth of the game.

Elks Lose 3-0 In Three-Hit Game

A stellar three-hit pitching performance by Frankie Fogtman brought the 1947 Rocking Chair Softball League championship to the Loyal Order of Moose yesterday as Manager "Red" Payne's players topped the B.P.O. Elks 3-0 at Community Park.

Three hits, good for two runs, broke up a neat pitching duel between Fogtman and Manager Jim Wilkinson of the Elks in the fifth frame and put the game on ice for the underdog Moosemen.

Lonnie Jackson opened the fifth inning with a clean single to right. After Ed Roberts flied out Bob Wade singled, with Jackson going to third from where he tallied the initial run on Claude Robinson's fly ball. Wade then scored on John Angelletta's one-base knock.

The Moose added an additional run in the bottom of the sixth on Russ Minnick's terrific drive to right center for a home run.

Frank Williams' running catch of Paul Roeder's fly ball was the fielding gem of the hard-fought contest. Ed Schrader and Minnicks also played outstanding ball afield for the winning Moose outfit. "Tag" Reel was the top player for the 1946 champs.

Fogtman chipped in with a ringing double in addition to his sterling mound performance while Reel connected for three bases and Minnick's homer was the only other extra base blow.

The victory made it two out of three in the series for the loop bunting and one game ended in a tie. The lineups:

TED WILLIAMS IS NOW HITTING .342

CHICAGO, Sept. 22 — (AP) — Ted Williams, Boston's crisp clouter, went on a 16-hit spree last week to hoist his percentage to .342, apparently nailing down his third American League batting crown.

Climbing seven points in 36 trips to the plate, Williams entered the final week of the campaign holding a 14-point margin over runner-up Barney McCosky, of Philadelphia, who had .328.

Williams, who held the batting and home run crowns in 1941 and 1942, had a chance to gain his third homer title with a current total of 30, but only one behind was Cleveland's Joe Gordon.

Third among the batting leaders computed through Sunday's games was Johnny Pesky, of the Red Sox, with .326.

TED WILLIAMS IS NOW HITTING .342

CHICAGO, Sept. 22 — (AP) — Ted Williams, Boston's crisp clouter, went on a 16-hit spree last week to hoist his percentage to .342, apparently nailing down his third American League batting crown.

Climbing seven points in 36 trips to the plate, Williams entered the final week of the campaign holding a 14-point margin over runner-up Barney McCosky, of Philadelphia, who had .328.

Williams, who held the batting and home run crowns in 1941 and 1942, had a chance to gain his third homer title with a current total of 30, but only one behind was Cleveland's Joe Gordon.

Third among the batting leaders computed through Sunday's games was Johnny Pesky, of the Red Sox, with .326.

New York's Frank Shea had the best pitching percentage, .722 with a 13-5 record, while Cleveland's Bob Feller got 10 more strikeouts for a 189 total.

RELIABLE Rx PRESCRIPTIONS

KEEPING UP WITH HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 22—(INS)—Barbara Bel Geddes certainly proved herself a fine actress in "The Long Night," a somber, heavy drama.

Then she was put into "I Remember Mama," which has both drama and bright comedy.

Now Barbara has asked that she be given a light story, and so she's been given "Pittsburgh Escapade," in which she will costar with Guy Madison.

Speaking of Guy Madison, he's been carrying a torch a mile high for Gail Russell, and I wouldn't be too surprised if they made up. But, for the time being, they are listening to their elders and not seeing each other.

Robert Donat

Robert Donat has either gone, or will go very soon to a sanitorium in Switzerland, where he will try to find relief from chronic asthma and bronchitis.

He had to bow out of "Precious Bane," which he was to make for J. Arthur Rank, because of that illness.

It's interesting that David Farrar, who some British writers name as the successor to James Mason, steps into the Donat role.

Ingrid Bergman was so taken with "Precious Bane," that she bought it first and then sold it to Paul Soskin when it was apparent she had too many commitments to make it. He is producing it for Rank.

When Dana Andrews is promised a vacation, he takes it, and believe me, 20th found out that Dana isn't kidding.

They made plans to send the "Deep Water" company, formerly titled "Spoonhandle," to Maine on Monday.

Dana, who has the starring role, notified the studio that if the company left, it would be without him because he still has two more weeks left of the six weeks vacation he was promised before the start of "Daisy Kenyon."

So, at this writing, Mr. Andrews may be found somewhere near Seattle, where he went on a motor trip.

P. S. The "Deep Water" company remains in Hollywood until Dana gets back.

Chatter in Hollywood: Johnny Meyer writes that he and Janet Thomas may not get married until they return to America.

"We tried to get married both in Italy and France," said Johnny, "but bans must be posted from two to six months.

"Cannes is just as it was in prewar Europe days.

"The night we were there Ann and Jack Warner, Countess Di Frassi, the Duke and Duchess of Windsor, Doris Duke and her new husband, Barbara Hutton and her bridegroom, Stewart Grainger, the British star; Freddie McEvoy, Alex D'Arcy, Eleanor Parker and Bert Friedlob were all around the baccaret table.

The plan is for Connie to dub in the songs for Susan, just the way Al Jolson did for Larry Parks.

Already Susan has taken an option on Nellie Revell's book, "Right Off the Chest," and she will do that too.

Bob Hope, one of the busiest men in Hollywood, is never too busy to do someone a good turn. Now he's going to spearhead the stage show for the gala Hollywood premiere of Paramount's "Variety Girl" on Oct. 8 with the money going to establish a Boys Club in East Los Angeles.

There is a great need for this club, authorities say, because that is the city's greatest area of juvenile delinquency.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random: — Betty Hensel and Maury Carr, former attorney, at a table for two at the Bel-Air hotel.

Charles Korvin, who lost 15 pounds while he was making "Berlin Express," is on a "get fat" diet. And let me say he is the envy of half the gals in Hollywood.

A new game called "Bing Crosby Derby" will be on the market soon. Bing is turning the royalties over to charity.

Virginia Bruce has received word that her husband, Ali Ipar, has arrived safely in Turkey. But doubt very much if Virginia will join him there as she first planned. Too many things involved.

Talk is that Jack Dempsey has plans to buy a hotel in Las Vegas. That's all today.

A Weak, Run-Down Feeling Is Often A Warning

That The Red-Blood Is Getting Low

If you do not feel like your real self, do not have the urge to be up and doing, why not check-up on your blood strength? Look at the palms of your hands, your fingernails, your lips, the lobes of your ears—are they pale and off color?

Every day—every hour—millions of tiny red-blood-cells must pour forth from the marrow of your bones to replace those that are worn-out. A low blood count may affect you in several ways: no appetite, underweight, no energy, a run-down condition, lack of resistance to infection and disease.

To get real relief you must keep up your blood strength. Medical authorities, by analysis of the blood, have by positive proof shown that SSS Tonic is amazingly effective in building up low blood strength in non-organic nutritional anemia. This is due to the SSS Tonic formula, which contains special and potent activating ingredients.

Also, SSS Tonic helps you enjoy the food you eat by increasing the gastric digestive juice when it is non-organically too little or scanty—thus the stomach will have little cause to get balky with gas, bloat and give off that sour food taste.

Don't wait! Energize your body with rich, red-blood. Start on SSS Tonic now. As vigorous blood surges throughout your whole body, greater freshness and strength should make you eat better, sleep better, feel better, work better, play better, have a healthy color glow in your skin—firm flesh fill out hollow places. Millions of bottles sold. Get a bottle from your drug store. SSS Tonic helps Build Sturdy Health.

KEEPING UP WITH HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 22—(INS)—Barbara Bel Geddes certainly proved herself a fine actress in "The Long Night," a somber, heavy drama.

Then she was put into "I Remember Mama," which has both drama and bright comedy.

Now Barbara has asked that she be given a light story, and so she's been given "Pittsburgh Escapade," in which she will co-star with Guy Madison.

Speaking of Guy Madison, he's been carrying a torch a mile high for Gail Russell, and I wouldn't be too surprised if they made up. But, for the time being, they are listening to their elders and not seeing each other.

Robert Donat has either gone, or will go very soon to a sanitorium in Switzerland, where he will try to find relief from chronic asthma and bronchitis.

He had to bow out of "Precious Bane," which he was to make for J. Arthur Rank, because of that illness.

It's interesting that David Farrar, who some British writers name as the successor to James Mason, steps into the Donat role.

Ingrid Bergman was so taken with "Precious Bane," that she bought it first and then sold it to Paul Soskin when it was apparent she had too many commitments to make it. He is producing it for Rank.

When Dana Andrews is promised a vacation, he takes it, and believe me, 20th found out that Dana isn't kidding.

They made plans to send the "Deep Water" company, formerly titled "Spoonhandle," to Maine on Monday.

Dana, who has the starring role, notified the studio that if the company left, it would be without him because he still has two more weeks left of the six weeks vacation he was promised before the start of "Daisy Kenyon."

So, at this writing, Mr. Andrews may be found somewhere near Seattle, where he went on a motor trip.

P. S. The "Deep Water" company remains in Hollywood until Dana gets back.

Chatter in Hollywood: Johnny Meyer writes that he and Janet Thomas may not get married until they return to America.

"We tried to get married both in Italy and France," said Johnny, "but bans must be posted from two to six months.

"Cannes is just as it was in pre-war Europe days.

"The night we were there Ann and Jack Warner, Countess Di Frassi, the Duke and Duchess of Windsor, Doris Duke and her new husband, Barbara Hutton and her bridegroom, Stewart Grainger, the British star; Freddie McEvoy, Alex D'Arcy, Eleanor Parker and Bert Friedlob were all around the baccaret table.

"The most surprising thing was Greta Garbo, who joined the players."

Connie Boswell and Susan Peters, two girls who haven't let their wheelchairs stand in the way of their careers, have been talking over making Connie's life story.

The plan is for Connie to dub in the songs for Susan, just the way Al Jolson did for Larry Parks.

Already Susan has taken an option on Nellie Revell's book, "Right Off the Chest," and she will do that too.

Bob Hope, one of the busiest men in Hollywood, is never too busy to do someone a good turn. Now he's going to spearhead the stage show for the gala Hollywood premiere of Paramount's "Variety Girl" on Oct. 8 with the money going to establish a Boys Club in East Los Angeles.

There is a great need for this club, authorities say, because that is the city's greatest area of juvenile delinquency.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random: — Betty Hensel and Maury Carr, former attorney, at a table for two at the Bel-Air hotel.

Charles Korvin, who lost 15 pounds while he was making "Berlin Express," is on a "get fat" diet. And let me say he is the envy of half the gals in Hollywood.

A new game called "Bing Crosby Derby" will be on the market soon. Bing is turning the royalties over to charity.

Virginia Bruce has received word that her husband, Ali Ipar, has arrived safely in Turkey. But doubt very much if Virginia will join him there as she first planned. Too many things involved.

Talk is that Jack Dempsey has plans to buy a hotel in Las Vegas.

That's all today.

A Weak, Run-Down Feeling Is Often A Warning
That The Red-Blood Is Getting Low
If you do not feel like your real self, do not have the urge to be up and doing, why not check-up on your blood strength? Look at the palms of your hands, your fingernails, your lips, the lobes of your ears—are they pale and off color?
Every day—every hour—millions of tiny red-blood-cells must pour forth from the marrow of your bones to replace those that are worn-out. A low blood count may affect you in several ways: no appetite, underweight, no energy, a run-down condition, lack of resistance to infection and disease.
To get real relief you must keep up your blood strength. Medical authorities, by analysis of the blood, have by positive proof shown that SSS Tonic is amazingly effective in building up low blood strength in non-organic nutritional anemia. This is due to the SSS Tonic formula which contains special and potent activating ingredients.
Also, SSS Tonic helps you enjoy the food you eat by increasing the gastric digestive juice when it is non-organically too little or scanty—thus the stomach will have little cause to get balky with gas, bloat and give off that sour food taste.
Don't wait! Energize your body with rich, red-blood. Start on SSS Tonic now. As vigorous blood surges throughout your whole body, greater freshness and strength should make you eat better, sleep better, feel better, work better, play better, have a healthy color glow in your skin—firm flesh fill out hollow places. Millions of bottles sold. Get a bottle from your drug store. SSS Tonic helps Build Sturdy Health.

Walter Halloway Suffers Possible Internal Injuries In Accident

Will Face Charge Of Reckless Driving

By MRS. JOSEPH H. TAYLOR

KEYSER, W. Va. — Walter M. Halloway, 20, of Short Gay, W. Va., is a patient at Potomac Valley Hospital, suffering from possible internal injuries as a result of an accident on Armstrong Street extended, this morning shortly after 1 o'clock.

According to Officers Raymond Dawson and Lawrence McDonald, who investigated, Halloway, who was driving a 1940 Chevrolet, struck a row of mailboxes at the curve near the Stone House, and knocked about six of them at least 40 feet in the brush. The car then hit the concrete wall in front of the resident of A. E. Taylor, then spun around and backed over the sidewalk on the other side of the road. The right front wheel of the car was completely knocked off and the fender was badly smashed.

Upon his release from the hospital, Halloway will be charged with reckless driving, according to State Trooper R. R. Karickhoff, who said Halloway has been arrested three times previously for road violations.

A special meeting of the City Council and the Citizen's Committee has been called for next Monday night at 7 by Mayor John C. Freeland, following receipt of a letter from W. H. Grant, architect of Clarksburg, who is preparing the plans and specifications for the new fire hall here.

Mayor Freeland said Grant has advised him blueprints will be ready by September 25 and the first copy of specifications by September 26. Grant promised that 10 copies of plans, and five copies of the specifications will be in Mayor Freeland's hands by September 29.

Zane Grey Tales Of Old West Are Going On Radio

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD

NEW YORK, Sept. 22—Now the Zane Grey stories of the old west are going on the radio. They start n MBS at 8:30 Tuesday night, an earlier date than originally planned.

Included are to be both published and unpublished stories of adventure on the plains, with Tex Thorne, a mythical pony express rider, as the hero of each.

Appearance of this series means that American forum, formerly at 8:30, will be moving to a half hour later at 9. In doing so it is starting a three-debate series on the cost of living, the opening subject to deal with food.

America's Town meeting of ABC at 8:30 is going to have a debate on women's fashions when it comes on from Dallas, Tex. The question will be put this way: "should we accept the new fashions for women?" the new longer skirts they must be thinking about. Any way the panel will include Constance Bennett of stage and screen.

Booth Tarkington's "Gentle Julia," will be the Studio One drama for CBS at 8:30 when it resumes its hour operation. Anne Burr and Fletcher Markle are the leads . . . Another CBS drama period, Return Engagement at 9:30, will have "The Story of Czechoslovakia."

A couple of finales are listed. One's the Summer replacement, Call the Police, on NBS at 8, and the other is the Falcon of MBS at 7:30, a program that has been running several seasons.

Balanced Budget Expected By Warsaw

WARSAW—(AP)—The Polish government's income the first half of 1947 exceeded by $65,000,000 its expenditures and the nation's financial picture is sound, says Konstanty Dabrowski, minister of finance.

Dabrowski said failure thus far of the International Bank for Reconstruction to act upon Poland's request for a $600,000,000 loan had adversely affected investments based on foreign credits but government-financed investments had not suffered.

Poland expects not only to have a balanced budget at the end of 1947 but a surplus of around 11,000,000,000 zlotys ($110,000,000).

Tobacco And Confusion

Although it is situated in the heart of the nation's second largest city, WLS aims its programs exclusively at farmers, its advertisers are feed and fertilizer manufacturers and it doesn't give a hoot about the city cliff dwellers. However, WLS is also the basis affiliate of the American Broadcasting Company, which does give a hoot about city listeners and which is having a terrible time getting its program into Chicago.

Finding an A.B.C. program in Chicago is a game of "Button, Button, Who's Got the Button?" WLS occupies the air from 5 a. m. until 4 p. m. and then relinquishes its frequency to WENR, another 50,000 watter and also an A.B.C. affiliate, until 6 p. m. Burridge P. Butler, owner of WLS, figures that no one listens to the radio on the farm in those hours anyway WLS is back on the air from 6 to 8 p. m. After 8, since farmers go to bed early, WLS relinquishes its frequency to WENR for the rest of the night.

This means that an A.B.C. program is carried by WLS only when it doesn't conflict with a farm program and, of course, many A.B.C. programs do. In that case it must broadcast over WENR—this gets awfully complicated—if WENR is on the air. If WENR is not on the air, the A.B.C. program is carried on WCFL, the Chicago Federation of Labor station, unless WCFL doesn't want it either. In that case—is any one still with me?—it is transcribed and broadcast later over WENR or it isn't carried at all.

This state of lovely confusion bewilders not only the listeners but even A.B.C. employees. They never quite know where or when an A.B.C. program will be on the air. A.B.C. programs are broadcast at Chicago not only at different times than they are heard everywhere else but even on different days. "Town Meeting of the Air" was once carried transcribed almost a week after its regular broadcast. Since "Town Meeting" stays pretty close to the top of the news, the issues argued on that program were frequently dead before they were aired in Chicago. Sometimes the speakers would be debating passionately on some such question as "Should Congress pass the McGillicuddy bill?" after the bill was already law.

Though Butler is proud of his public services to farmers he has no great interest in non-agricultural public services. Some of A.B.C.'s superb documentaries on public issues were not heard at all in Chicago or else were broadcast by transcription at such a late hour that most listeners had gone to bed.

Butler, a man of strong prejudices, has provided A.B.C. with a number of other interesting headaches He hates tobacco in any form. An immense man of great strength (who bursts into tears at the mention of his mother), Butler flies into catalysmic rages at the sight of cigarette smoke. WLS stenographers are even afraid to smoke in the ladies' room.

Butler's dislike of tobacco almost kept the Paul Whiteman disk jockey show off the air. One of the Whiteman sponsors is Camels and Butler refused to have any such thing advertised on WLS, though he had no objection to any of the other sponsors.

However, all four sponsors flatly refused to permit the show to be cut to three-quarters of an hour or be split up so that the Camel quarter hour could be heard later on WENR, which alternates with WLS on the same frequency. After several frantic conferences in Chicago, this weird impasse was removed by an equally weird device. When the Whiteman show is broadcast in Chicago, the announcer uses the call letters WENR although it is actually broadcast by WLS on WLS time.

In spite of these crotchets, Butler is providing his farm audience superb service. Over the years, his station has informed farmers about the weather, livestock prices, butter and egg markets, new methods of farming, legislation affecting their farms, insecticides, crop rotation, everything. His women editors have kept the farmers' wives up to date on canning methods, dress-making child care and cooking.

In its twenty-three-year existence, it has seen the sort of music it consistently broadcasts first derided as hillbilly and later revered as genuine folk music. "The National Barn Dance," which started on WLS, went on to national renown on the National Broadcasting Company. Zane Grey Tales Of Old West Are Going On Radio

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD

NEW YORK, Sept. 22—Now the Zane Grey stories of the old west are going on the radio. They start n MBS at 8:30 Tuesday night, an earlier date than originally planned.

Included are to be both published and unpublished stories of adventure on the plains, with Tex Thorne, a mythical pony express rider, as the hero of each.

Appearance of this series means that American forum, formerly at 8:30, will be moving to a half hour later at 9. In doing so it is starting a three-debate series on the cost of living, the opening subject to deal with food.

America's Town meeting of ABC at 8:30 is going to have a debate on women's fashions when it comes on from Dallas, Tex. The question will be put this way: "should we accept the new fashions for women?" the new longer skirts they must be thinking about. Any way the panel will include Constance Bennett of stage and screen.

Booth Tarkington's "Gentle Julia," will be the Studio One drama for CBS at 8:30 when it resumes its hour operation. Anne Burr and Fletcher Markle are the leads . . . Another CBS drama period, Return Engagement at 9:30, will have "The Story of Czechoslovakia."

A couple of finales are listed. One's the Summer replacement, Call the Police, on NBS at 8, and the other is the Falcon of MBS at 7:30, a program that has been running several seasons.

Balanced Budget Expected By Warsaw

WARSAW—(AP)—The Polish government's income the first half of 1947 exceeded by $65,000,000 its expenditures and the nation's financial picture is sound, says Konstanty Dabrowski, minister of finance.

Dabrowski said failure thus far of the International Bank for Reconstruction to act upon Poland's request for a $600,000,000 loan had adversely affected investments based on foreign credits but government-financed investments had not suffered.

Poland expects not only to have a balanced budget at the end of 1947 but a surplus of around 11,000,000,000 zlotys ($110,000,000).

RADIO IN REVIEW

By JOHN CROSBY

John Crosby

Tobacco And Confusion

Although it is situated in the heart of the nation's second largest city, WLS aims its programs exclusively at farmers, its advertisers are feed and fertilizer manufacturers and it doesn't give a hoot about the city cliff dwellers. However, WLS is also the basis affiliate of the American Broadcasting Company, which does give a hoot about city listeners and which is having a terrible time getting its program into Chicago.

Finding an A.B.C. program in Chicago is a game of "Button, Button, Who's Got the Button?" WLS occupies the air from 5 a. m. until 4 p. m. and then relinquishes its frequency to WENR, another 50,000 watter and also an A.B.C. affiliate, until 6 p. m. Burridge P. Butler, owner of WLS, figures that no one listens to the radio on the farm in those hours anyway WLS is back on the air from 6 to 8 p. m. After 8, since farmers go to bed early, WLS relinquishes its frequency to WENR for the rest of the night.

This means that an A.B.C. program is carried by WLS only when it doesn't conflict with a farm program and, of course, many A.B.C. programs do. In that case it must broadcast over WENR—this gets awfully complicated—if WENR is on the air. If WENR is not on the air, the A.B.C. program is carried on WCFL, the Chicago Federation of Labor station, unless WCFL doesn't want it either. In that case—is any one still with me?—it is transcribed and broadcast later over WENR or it isn't carried at all.

This state of lovely confusion bewilders not only the listeners but even A.B.C. employees. They never quite know where or when an A.B.C. program will be on the air. A.B.C. programs are broadcast at Chicago not only at different times than they are heard everywhere else but even on different days. "Town Meeting of the Air" was once carried transcribed almost a week after its regular broadcast. Since "Town Meeting" stays pretty close to the top of the news, the issues argued on that program were frequently dead before they were aired in Chicago. Sometimes the speakers would be debating passionately on some such question as "Should Congress pass the McGillicuddy bill?" after the bill was already law.

Though Butler is proud of his public services to farmers he has no great interest in non-agricultural public services. Some of A.B.C.'s superb documentaries on public issues were not heard at all in Chicago or else were broadcast by transcription at such a late hour that most listeners had gone to bed.

Butler, a man of strong prejudices, has provided A.B.C. with a number of other interesting headaches He hates tobacco in any form. An immense man of great strength (who bursts into tears at the mention of his mother), Butler flies into catalysmic rages at the sight of cigarette smoke. WLS stenographers are even afraid to smoke in the ladies' room.

Butler's dislike of tobacco almost kept the Paul Whiteman disk jockey show off the air. One of the Whiteman sponsors is Camels and Butler refused to have any such thing advertised on WLS, though he had no objection to any of the other sponsors.

However, all four sponsors flatly refused to permit the show to be cut to three-quarters of an hour or be split up so that the Camel quarter hour could be heard later on WENR, which alternates with WLS on the same frequency. After several frantic conferences in Chicago, this weird impasse was removed by an equally weird device. When the Whiteman show is broadcast in Chicago, the announcer uses the call letters WENR although it is actually broadcast by WLS on WLS time.

In spite of these crotchets, Butler is providing his farm audience superb service. Over the years, his station has informed farmers about the weather, livestock prices, butter and egg markets, new methods of farming, legislation affecting their farms, insecticides, crop rotation, everything. His women editors have kept the farmers' wives up to date on canning methods, dress-making child care and cooking.

In its twenty-three-year existence, it has seen the sort of music it consistently broadcasts first derided as hillbilly and later revered as genuine folk music. "The National Barn Dance," which started on WLS, went on to national renown on the National Broadcasting Company. Fibber McGee and Molly started their radio career on WLS under their real names Jim and Marian Jordan and, incidentally, so did Harlow Wilcox, who has been with the McGees ever since.

String Of Eight Straight Monday Declines Snapped By Stock Market

NEW YORK, Sept. 22 (AP)—The stock market snapped its string of eight successive Monday declines today but was unable to make any headway.

Some of the pivotal steels, motors and rubbers climbed into the plus column in late dealings. Many railroad stocks, under water much of the day, managed to trim their losses.

Dealings were at a slow pace, with the ticker tape frequently idle, and total transfers were 670,000 shares compared with 750,000 Friday. Of 942 issues registering there were 422 declines and 294 advances.

New 1947 highs were established by Skelly Oil at 87, Anaconda Wire which closed at 61⅝ and Pennsylvania Coal and Coke, finishing at 14⅝. Bethlehem closed up five-eighths at 87½; General Motors was ahead one-fourth at 59 and Goodrich one-half at 55¼. Other gains were registered by Owens-Illinois, Pullman, American Woolen, American Smelting, Philip Morris, International Harvester, Sunray Oil, Oliver Corporation and Westinghouse Electric. Fractionally off were Union Pacific at 136, Southern Railway at 38, Northern Pacific at 20¼, Standard Oil (N.J.), Phillips Petroleum, Texas Company, Douglas Aircraft, Glenn Martin, Kennecott and International Nickel. American Can dropped a point at 83½.

Forward in the Curb were Schiff Compay, Fox (Peter) Brewing, National Pressure Cooker and Niles-Bement-Pond. Behind were Cities Service, Pantepec Oil and Central and South West Corporation. Turnover of 190,000 shares here compared with 170,000 Friday.

The bond market fumbled its way into lower price ground. Turnover contracted to $3,020,000 from Friday's scanty $3,252,000.

United States governments in the over-the-counter market moved narrowly, with the Victory Loan 2½s of December 1967-72 down 1-32 at 102 27-32 bid.

May Postpone Race

NEW YORK, Sept. 22 (AP) — The $100,000 match race between Armed and Assault scheduled for Saturday —already postponed once because of an injury to Assault—became doubtful tonight when it was learned that Trainer Max Hirsch was not satisfied that Assault would be at his peak for the mile and a quarter special.

A final decision as to whether the race will be run or cancelled will be made tomorrow at a conference among Owner Warren Wright and Trainers Ben and Jimmy Jones for Armed; Hirsch and Owner Robert J. Kleberg, Jr., for Assault, and Joseph E. Widener, president of Belmont Park.

Hirsch said that while his horse "did not work badly" in going the mile and an eighth today in 1:52 1-5 and the mile in 1:39 2-5, he did not feel that Assault "ran like I expected he should."

String Of Eight Straight Monday Declines Snapped By Stock Market

NEW YORK, Sept. 22 (AP)—The stock market snapped its string of eight successive Monday declines today but was unable to make any headway.

Some of the pivotal steels, motors and rubbers climbed into the plus column in late dealings. Many railroad stocks, under water much of the day, managed to trim their losses.

Dealings were at a slow pace, with the ticker tape frequently idle, and total transfers were 670,000 shares compared with 750,000 Friday. Of 942 issues registering there were 422 declines and 294 advances.

New 1947 highs were established by Skelly Oil at 87, Anaconda Wire which closed at 61⅝ and Pennsylvania Coal and Coke, finishing at 14⅝. Bethlehem closed up five-eighths at 87½; General Motors was ahead one-fourth at 59 and Goodrich one-half at 55¼. Other gains were registered by Owens-Illinois, Pullman, American Woolen, American Smelting, Philip Morris, International Harvester, Sunray Oil, Oliver Corporation and Westinghouse Electric. Fractionally off were Union Pacific at 136, Southern Railway at 38, Northern Pacific at 20¼, Standard Oil (N.J.), Phillips Petroleum, Texas Company, Douglas Aircraft, Glenn Martin, Kennecott and International Nickel. American Can dropped a point at 83½.

Forward in the Curb were Schiff Compay, Fox (Peter) Brewing, National Pressure Cooker and Niles-Bement-Pond. Behind were Cities Service, Pantepec Oil and Central and South West Corporation. Turnover of 190,000 shares here compared with 170,000 Friday.

The bond market fumbled its way into lower price ground. Turnover contracted to $3,020,000 from Friday's scanty $3,252,000.

United States governments in the over-the-counter market moved narrowly, with the Victory Loan 2½s of December 1967-72 down 1-32 at 102 27-32 bid.

West Fleet Dies Of Swamp Fever

SALEM, N. H., Sept. 22 (AP)—

Rawlings Boy, 6, Badly Hurt When Struck By Car

Two Charges Filed Against Auto Driver

A six-year-old Rawlings boy was in a serious condition in Allegany Hospital last night with injuries suffered when he was struck by an automobile at 4 p. m. after getting off a school bus on Route 220 across from his home.

The child, Marshall Earl Iser, son of Marshall P. Iser, was described as being in a fair condition. He is being treated for a possible fracture of the skull and multiple lacerations and abrasions of the head, face and neck. He will be X-rayed today.

State Trooper Thomas Barton, who is investigating, said the boy was struck by the automobile operated by John O. Maiden, 30, of 6 West Piedmont Street, Keyser, W. Va., an instructor at Potomac State School.

Maiden has been charged with reckless driving and operating with inadequate brakes, and Barton said completion of the investigation pends the outcome of the boy's injuries.

The school bus was headed toward Cresaptown and Maiden was driving toward Cumberland.

The boy, starting to cross the road to his home, was struck by the right front of the car, the trooper said and the right headlight was broken.

Haven A. Miller, 21, Burlington, W. Va., was injured at 6:45 p. m. when the car State Police said he was driving hit a telephone pole at Roberts Place on Route 220.

Miller was taken to Allegany Hospital for observation. He was dazed when admitted to the hospital and was suffering from a possible brain concussion. His condition was good.

State Trooper Harry Bosley, who investigated, said Miller was headed toward Keyser when he rounded a curve, hit the curb, swerved to the center of the highway and then swung back to the right side, hitting the pole which was splintered at the base.

The car stopped about 10 or 12 feet off the highway and was facing in the direction from which it had come.

No charges were filed against Miller, according to Bosley.

CAR HITS POLE—This automobile was badly damaged when it hit a pole (left) at Roberts Place on Route 220 at 6:45 p. m. yesterday. Operated by Haven A. Miller, 21, Burlington, W. Va., according to State Police, the car was headed in the opposite direction before the crash. Police said Miller was rounding a curve, hit a curb, swerved to the center of the road, then back to the side and struck the pole. Miller was admitted to Allegany Hospital for observation and treatment of a possible brain concussion.

Court Here Issues Restraining Order To Halt Ejectment

Couple Wants Clear Title To House

An order was signed in Circuit Court yesterday by Chief Judge William A. Huster restraining Leo D. Miller and his wife Blanche Miller of Corriganville, from proceeding with an ejectment suit against Luther Weltman and his wife Ruth Weltman.

Weltman and his wife, through their attorney Julius E. Schindler, filed a bill of complaint against the Millers, asking that the Court halt the ejectment proceedings and require the Millers to deliver a title to the property in question, a three-room dwelling and two acres of land at Corriganville.

The complaint states the Waltmans entered into a verbal agreement with the Millers on March 9, 1946, to purchase the property for $450 on the basis of $10 per month. Since then payments have been made and a number of improvements have been completed to the property. A bathroom has been installed, the house has been wired and brick siding placed outside.

In addition to spending this money for improvements to the property, Weltman claims they have made payments regularly and have offered to pay off the balance of $270, but the Millers refuse to go through with the transaction.

The Millers have allegedly started ejectment proceedings in Trial Magistrates Court against the Weltmans, and the Court order restrains this move. The defendants are given the right to have the restraint rescinded, following filing of an answer by the defendants.

A bill of complaint was filed by James R. Smith and Otie Smith, against Janet E. Smith, widow, requesting the sale of a property owned jointly by Smith, his wife, and Mrs. Smith. The petitioners want the property sold and divided according to the interests of each. The property in question is located in Barton.

Equity suits were docketed as follows: Zora Doris Blizzard, vs James Willard Blizzard; Mary E. Carder, vs Daniel Edward Carder; and Rose Marie Logsdon, vs William Louis Logsdon.

Two Keyser Girls Are Arrested Here

Two Keyser, W. Va., girls, identified as Maxine Miller and Gladys Grapes, were being held in City Jail last night on disorderly conduct charges which police said resulted from a fight on Front Street.

They will be given a hearing this morning in Police Court. Detective Thomas J. See and Officer John Snyder made the arrests.

Also scheduled for hearings this morning are Nelson W. Reichert, 229 Union Street, and Bruce Paetow, 315 Frederick Street, who police said were arrested on motor vehicle charges. Both men posted bonds of $10 after being charged with careless driving.

Temperature Reading

The temperature got up to only 85 degrees yesterday for the first time in some months that the mercury has not reached summer temperature of 72 degrees. At 9:30 p. m. the mercury had receded to 50 degrees, already seven below the previous overnight low. A reading of close to the freezing point was expected for this morning and continued cool weather was forecast for today.

Jackson School Cafeteria Open For Student Use

100 Pupils Are Served First Day

Approximately 100 students of Jackson Elementary School, Lonaconing, took advantage of the new cafeteria which opened there yesterday, and William P. Cooper, supervisor, said he expects three-fourths of the near-200 student body to be eating lunch in school shortly.

The newest of the school cafeterias, which was opened under difficulty because of lack of space, is a modern kitchen, Cooper explained, and the children are served on metal trays which they carry to the class rooms.

Jackson School is the third to have a cafeteria installed this year and the 31st of Allegany County's 42 public schools to be equipped with a hot lunch program.

Plans are now under way to open cafeterias at two more schools Cooper said, with Ellerslie Elementary scheduled to begin a hot lunch program next Monday.

Since space at the school prevents installation of kitchen equipment the food will be transported from Corriganville Elementary School's cafeteria in metal containers, according to present plans. Indications from parents are that 80 of the 90 students attending the school will make immediate use of the program, Cooper explained.

Bruce High School, Westernport, is also scheduled to be included in the hot lunch program by November 1, but a special program is necessary since space at the school also prevents installation of the standard cafeteria kitchen.

With the opening of Bruce's hot lunch program, Cooper explained, that only two schools with large student bodies will be without hot lunch facilities. He named those as Mt. Savage and Flintstone, and said plans are now being considered to include the two schools in the program.

The Jackson School kitchen was installed in a former cloak room, which was redecorated and students receive their lunches by passing a window and then carrying the trays to their respective classrooms.

In several of the schools the lack of space has presented serious handicaps, but Cooper said efforts are being made constantly to utilize all possible means of giving each student in public schools the benefit of the hot lunch program.

"Loyalty" Check Of Government Employes Begins In Cumberland

Approximately 115 Workers Affected

In accordance with the recent order to make a "loyalty check" of all government employes, not only in Washington but elsewhere throughout the country, some of the approximately 115 government employes in Cumberland are being fingerprinted and are securing forms on personal data to fill out, according to a check made yesterday.

Eighty-eight of the total number of local government employes work for the Postoffice Department, and the deadline for them to submit completed forms containing personal records is February 29, postal officials said.

Over 100 of the government employes in Cumberland work in the Postoffice Building, including three representatives of the Department of Justice, eight employes of the Bureau of Internal Revenue, three conservation workers employed by the Department of Agriculture, and five Social Security employes.

Other government employes in Cumberland inculde the respective staffs of the local Veterans Administration office and the nutrition unit of the United States Public Health Service, located in City Hall.

The government directive excludes military personnel from the "loyalty check."

Postal officials said that law enforcement authorities have equipment to take the fingerprints of government employes in connection with the check.

Garrett Coal Mines Lack Wash Houses

Wash houses are not required by law at Maryland Coal mines and a medical survey conducted in Garrett County by the Bituminous Coal Industry recently showed there were none, at least at the 15 mines checked.

Maryland was found to be the only state out of 22 surveyed by Rear Admiral Joel T. Bone, Medical Corps, United States Navy, where this condition existed. Wash houses are not required in Maryland unless 60 per cent of the employes petition for them.

The survey was released by the Coal Mines Administration through Secretary of the Interior J. A. Krug and is based on data obtained in 105 selected counties in the 22 bituminous coal producing states.

It was found that Maryland produces 2,028,000 tons of coal annually, and that age groups engaged in the mining of coal show 3.4 per cent of the total are between 14 and 19 years of age.

In Garrett County the ratio of employed miners to all employed males over 14 is 19.7 per cent, as compared with 33.9 per cent in Somerset County, Pa., and 7.1 per cent in Bedford County, Pa.

A section dealing with tuberculosis showed that in Maryland more than half the people who contracted the disease in 1940 died while in 1944 one of every two and one-half succumbed.

The average annual mortality rate from tuberculosis in the period from 1939 to 1941 for Maryland was 69.6 although Garrett County showed only 16.7. Garrett County, however, was one of the few of the 105 counties surveyed which has a fulltime health officer.

Report On School Activities Shows $2,739 Profit

Gross Receipts Are $100,247.57

School activities in Allegany County's 42 public schools grossed receipts of $100,247.57 the previous year, but left a margin of only $2,739.32 profit, according to a financial report released yesterday by Dr. Charles L. Kopp, superintendent of schools.

Dr. Kopp said that expenses of operarting school activities amounted to $97,508.25, and pointed out that while same athletic activities show small margins of profit other athletic contests operate at a total loss.

The report, Dr. Kopp explained, must be published under terms of a bill passed at the last session of the state legislature. None of the money used in these activities is obtained from the regular school budget which is revenue levied from tax monies, Dr. Kopp explained.

Biggest item in the report is the $24,413.47 received from football games played by Allegany, Fort Hill and Beall High Schools. Expenditures for the same sport amount to $22,563.26. Uniforms and other expenses are heavy at the three schools.

The biggest money-maker in scholastic sports is basketball which had receipts of $8,488.45 and expenditures of $4,920.80 during the last season. More schools play basketball and expenses are not as heavy as for football.

Soccer, which is played by only a few schools, had receipts of $76.39 and expenditures of $126.20. Track is a total loss as far as receipts are concerned. No money was realized in receipts but expenses amounted to $777.24.

Baseball receipts were $268.06 and expenditures $746.77. Other sports activities realized receipts of $795.85 and expenditures of $2,142.71.

The second biggest source of revenue for the individual schools came from school and class activities such as plays, motion pictures, clubs and concerts presented under sponsorship of high schools

Receipts totalled $30, 955.69 and expenditures $24,107.53.

Largest single event of this group was $4,418 on the Marian Anderson concert last winter which was presented by Carver High School. The famous singer was paid over $3,000 for her appearance and expenses of the concert, including her fee, amounted to $3,920.

School play receipts were $6,427.57 and expenditures $3,515.58. Motion picture receipts were $2,009.25 and expenditures $2,155.47. Clubs had receipts of $3,516.85 and expenditures of $3,179.57. Classes in the various high schools had $8,366.01 receipts and $6,812.28.

Other activities such as festivals, alumni activities and the Anderson concert had receipts of $10,636.01 and expenditures of $8,444.63.

Contributions and library receipts were $6,463.08 and expenditures $7,910.61. Various Parent-Teacher Associations were the contributers to this fund.

Administration and instructional services had receipts of $10,725.35 and expenditures of $16,042.21. This included postage, telephone bills, office supplies and equipment, stockroom and school supplies.

Each school makes a report to the Board of Education and handles its own funds under the overall supervision of the superintendent of schools. Approval for various activities must be obtained from the school superintendent.

In the field of school activities one of the leading money makers is festivals of various types. School publications also realize a profit on their ventures.

Recipe Contest Will Be Held During Times-News 4-Day Cooking School

Opening Session Planned Today

Plans for a recipe contest will be announced at the opening session today at 9:15 a. m. of the Times-News New Symphony of Foods Cooking School, to be held at the Strand Theater.

Miss Edalene Stohr, nationally known home economist who will conduct the four-day program, said last night that the contest will be open to Cumberland area homemakers, and that prizes will be awarded at the closing session.

Another contest, a quiz program on cooking, is planned as one of the audience participation features of the program. Miss Stohr said she will discuss the contests at this morning's session.

Hundreds of homemakers from the tri-state area are expected to attend today's session, during which the prepartion of a "Mexican Luncheon" will be one of the features. This dish is suitable for a family or company dinner and is a "meal in one," Miss Stohr said.

She pointed out that meat conservation will be stressed throughout the program, with all recipes keyed to present-day costs. Economy cuts of meat will be prepared in unusual ways, with stress on proper cooking methods to get the most nutritive value out of each dish.

Each program will last until about 11:30 a. m., and food prepared during the session will be placed on a revolving mirror table for audience inspection.

Miss Stohr will be assisted by Miss Doris Keefe. Both are of the National Live Stock and Meat Board staff.

Each homemaker attending the school may obtain a booklet of recipes for the dishes prepared, and Miss Stohr urged that the booklets be kept throughout the four-day program and brought to each session.

Criminal Trials Open In Garrett Circuit Court

Full Bench To Hear Murder Case Today

The September term of Garrett County Circuit Court opened yesterday at Oakland with a number of prisoners arraigned before Associate Judge George Henderson for pleas and sentencing.

William Ray Butler entered a plea of guilty to a charge of carnal knowledge and was given a suspended sentence of three years.

William Lee Ottinger entered a plea of guilty to a burglary charge and Leasa Olinger charged on the same indictment, entered a plea of not guilty. No sentences was imposed, until after Olinger's trial.

Cleveland Arbogast entered a plea of guilty to a charge of burglary and was sentenced to two years in the Maryland House of Correction. Sentence was suspended subject to his good conduct.

Andrew Baker arraigned on a charge of burglary, entered a plea of guilty of the first count of the indictment only. Sentence was deferred until the other counts are heard.

George Bittinger, charged with larceny and receiving stolen goods, was sentenced to serve 18 months in the Maryland House of Correction. He entered a plea of guilty.

James A. Green entered a plea of guilty to a charge of larceny and receiving stolen goods and was sentenced to three years. Sentence was suspended subject to his good behavior.

Edward Dale Savage and John L. Beitzel were jointly indicted on a charge of larceny and receiving stolen goods. They entered pleas of guilty, and Court suspended three year sentences on condition the defendants pay costs of the case, and reimburse the prosecuting witness for $130 worth of lumber, allegedly taken from him.

Solomon Tasker entered a plea of guilty to a charge of bigamy. He was paroled for three years.

Court attaches said these cases disposed of the bulk of criminal actions for this term, although a few cases will come before the Court and the jury for trial.

Chief among these is the murder trial of James William Hoover, of the Jennings section. Father of four children, the 28 years old Garrett countian is expected to be arraigned before a full bench when Court opens today. Chief Judge William A. Huster, this city, and Associate Judge Joseph D. Mish, Hagerstown, will go to Oakland this morning, to preside with Judge Henderson.

Hoover was indicted September 9 by a Garrett county grand jury in the death of Elzie F. Layman, 40, of Shade Mill, near Frostburg, last July 30 on Route 40. Hoover allegedly drove his truck into Layman and caused his death.

Authorities considered the death an ordinary hit-run case but a tip from William Payton, service station operator near where Layman's body was found on the highway led to the arrest of Hoover.

The accused man admitted deliberately running down Hoover following a dispute in the service station. Payton saw the Hoover truck stop at the scene where Layman's body was found.

Camera Club Plans Special Contest

A special program, including a contest for all members, will feature the monthly meeting of the Cumberland Camera Club to be held tomorrow at 8 p. m. at the Knights of Malta Hall, Prospect Square.

Details of the contest remain secret, but members are asked to bring their cameras, tripods and film. Miss Dorothy Willison, program chairman, will conduct the contest.

An exhibition of prints from the Reading, Pa., Camera Club will be on display, and the regular monthly contest of black and white and color prints entered by local members will be held. Interested high school students are invited to attend the meeting.

The 25 prints judged the finest of the 1946 local entries were exhibited at Reading, Pa., last month, and J. C. Warden and William Price won top honors when that club voted on the best five pictures. The exhibit has now been sent to Monmouth, N. J.

Warden won first, second and third place respectively, with his "Ever So Humble," "Old Grist Mill" and "Hocus Pocus"; while Price won fourth and fifth place with "Once Upon A Time" and "Old Joe," in the Reading vote.

Drivers' Turn Down Beer Dealers' Offer

Seventy-five truck drivers and beer distributors of this area will meet Friday night in a move to reach a wage agreement, according to C. E. Stutzman, business agent of Local 453, Teamsters and Chauffeurs Union, which represents the drivers.

The distributors offered a wage increase of one and one-half cents an hour, Stutzman said, but this proposal was rejected Sunday night by the drivers who are asking a $5 weekly increase.

A walkout looms next Monday unless an agreement is reached, Stutzman said.

The last three of seven trucking companies in Winchester, Va., reached agreement with the Teamsters Local Sunday following a strike which started September 1, according to Stutzman, who said the union won wage increases and better working conditions under the new contract.

Man, 68, Critically Hurt By Automobile

A 68-year-old Oakland man was in critical condition in Memorial Hospital last night from injuries West Virginia State Police said he suffered Sunday night when he walked against an automobile in front of his brother's home half a mile south of the Maryland Line on Route 219 between Silver Lake, W. Va., and Red House.

The injured man, Roy Winters, 68, was still unconscious early this morning. He suffered a fractured skull and fractured jaw. His condition was described as poor.

West Virginia Trooper Thomas Stark at Kingwood said Winters left the home of his brother, Charles, at 7 p. m., to cross the road to his car, looked in both directions and started across, but walked against a northbound automobile.

The officer said he did not have immediately available the name of the driver of the car but a member of Winters' family said it was operated by Curtis Burns, Keyser, W. Va.

Trooper Stark, who was aided in the investigation by Cpl. A. M. Hurst, said no charges were filed against the driver.

Biddington Questioned In Wife's Shooting

Samuel Biddington, 65, accused of shooting his wife in their West Main Street home, at Frostburg, Sunday morning, was still being held in Allegany County Jail last night without charges being preferred.

Officials in the sheriff's office said Biddington, who was arrested yesterday after his wife was taken to Miners Hospital, Frostburg, is still docketed as "held for investigation."

Authorities said Biddington was questioned in the office of the State's Attorney yesterday, and declared he could not recall events which immediately preceded the shooting.

Hospital attaches described the condition of Mrs. Biddington as "good" last night. Police said she suffered a gunshot wound in the left cheek, but explained that her condition is not serious.

Officer George Tipping, Frostburg Police Department, said Biddington admitted shooting his wife, but refused to give further details of the incident.

Biddington was arrested by Officers Tipping, Donald Griffith and Ronald L. Krider.

Schlosser Will Face Manslaughter Charge In School Girl's Death

Harris Refuses To Release News

Ralph Allen Schlosser, 21, Cresaptown, identified as the driver of the car which struck and fatally injured Doris Elaine Rosenberger, Allegany High school student, Saturday night will be given a preliminary hearing on a manslaughter charge Saturday, according to State Police.

Schlosser, authorities said, was questioned yesterday morning and afternoon in the office of the States Attorney in connection with the death of the girl who died in Allegany Hospital 15 minutes after she was struck on Route 220 Saturday at 6:35 p. m. as she attempted to cross the road to her home.

Dr. Benedict Skitarelic, acting deputy county medical examiner, said the girl died as a result of a fractured skull and inter-cranial hemorrhage. She also suffered a fractured left ankle and abrasions on the face and body, he stated.

Despite the fast that Schlosser was questioned twice yesterday in the office of the State's Attorney, Morgan C. Harris last night refused to comment on the case to a News reporter.

Harris who recently stated "I want to be fair" and be "treated fair," told a reporter who contacted him by telephone that he had no statement to make "on this or any other case, now or at any other time. Is that plain?" he demanded.

Although Schlosser was released yesterday without being placed under bond or arraigned on the charge, State Police said he will be given a preliminary hearing on the manslaughter count Saturday.

Miss Rosenberger, who had been visiting at a friend's home across the road from her own, was struck by the right fender of the car and thrown against the right edge of the windshield, investigating officers stated.

Rawlings Boy, 6, Badly Hurt When Struck By Car

Two Charges Filed Against Auto Driver

A six-year-old Rawlings boy was in a serious condition in Allegany Hospital last night with injuries suffered when he was struck by an automobile at 4 p. m. after getting off a school bus on Route 220 across from his home.

The child, Marshall Earl Iser, son of Marshall P. Iser, was described as being in a fair condition. He is being treated for a possible fracture of the skull and multiple lacerations and abrasions of the head, face and neck. He will be X-rayed today.

State Trooper Thomas Barton, who is investigating, said the boy was struck by the automobile operated by John O. Maiden, 30, of 6 West Piedmont Street, Keyser, W. Va., an instructor at Potomac State School.

Maiden has been charged with reckless driving and operating with inadequate brakes, and Barton said completion of the investigation pends the outcome of the boy's injuries.

The school bus was headed toward Cresaptown and Maiden was driving toward Cumberland.

The boy, starting to cross the road to his home, was struck by the right front of the car, the trooper said and the right headlight was broken.

Haven A. Miller, 21, Burlington, W. Va., was injured at 6:45 p. m. when the car State Police said he was driving hit a telephone pole at Roberts Place on Route 220.

Miller was taken to Allegany Hospital for observation. He was dazed when admitted to the hospital and was suffering from a possible brain concussion. His condition was good.

State Trooper Harry Bosley, who investigated, said Miller was headed toward Keyser when he rounded a curve, hit the curb, swerved to the center of the highway and then swung back to the right side, hitting the pole which was splintered at the base.

The car stopped about 10 or 12 feet off the highway and was facing in the direction from which it had come.

No charges were filed against Miller, according to Bosley.

Va., according to State Police, the car was headed in the opposite direction before the crash. Police said Miller was rounding a curve, hit a curb, swerved to the center of the road, then back to the side and struck the pole. Miller was admitted to Allegany Hospital for observation and treatment of a possible brain concussion.

Court Here Issues Restraining Order To Halt Ejectment

Couple Wants Clear Title To House

An order was signed in Circuit Court yesterday by Chief Judge William A. Huster restraining Leo D. Miller and his wife Blanche Miller of Corriganville, from proceeding with an ejectment suit against Luther Weltman and his wife Ruth Weltman.

Weltman and his wife, through their attorney Julius E. Schindler, filed a bill of complaint against the Millers, asking that the Court halt the ejectment proceedings and require the Millers to deliver a title to the property in question, a three-room dwelling and two acres of land at Corriganville.

The complaint states the Weltmans entered into a verbal agreement with the Millers on March 9, 1946, to purchase the property for $450 on the basis of $10 per month. Since then payments have been made and a number of improvements have been completed to the property. A bathroom has been installed, the house has been wired and brick siding placed outside.

In addition to spending this money for improvements to the property, Weltman claims they have made payments regularly and have offered to pay off the balance of $270, but the Millers refuse to go through with the transaction.

The Millers have allegedly started ejectment proceedings in Trial Magistrates Court against the Weltmans, and the Court order restrains this move. The defendants are given the right to have the restraint rescinded, following filing of an answer by the defendants.

A bill of complaint was filed by James R. Smith and Otie Smith, against Janet E. Smith, widow, requesting the sale of a property owned jointly by Smith, his wife, and Mrs. Smith. The petitioners want the property sold and divided according to the interests of each. The property in question is located in Barton.

Equity suits were docketed as follows: Zora Doris Blizzard, vs James Willard Blizzard; Mary E. Carder, vs Daniel Edward Carder; and Rose Marie Logsdon, vs William Louis Logsdon.

The temperature got up to only 85 degrees yesterday for the first time in some months that the mercury has not reached summer temperature of 72 degrees. At 9:30 p. m. the mercury had receded to 50 degrees, already seven below the previous overnight low. A reading of close to the freezing point was expected for this morning and continued cool weather was forecast for today.

Jackson School Cafeteria Open For Student Use

100 Pupils Are Served First Day

Approximately 100 students of Jackson Elementary School, Lonaconing, took advantage of the new cafeteria which opened there yesterday, and William P. Cooper, supervisor, said he expects three-fourths of the near-200 student body to be eating lunch in school shortly.

The newest of the school cafeterias, which was opened under difficulty because of lack of space, is a modern kitchen, Cooper explained, and the children are served on metal trays which they carry to the class rooms.

Jackson School is the third to have a cafeteria installed this year and the 31st of Allegany County's 42 public schools to be equipped with a hot lunch program.

Plans are now under way to open cafeterias at two more schools Cooper said, with Ellerslie Elementary scheduled to begin a hot lunch program next Monday.

Since space at the school prevents installation of kitchen equipment the food will be transported from Corriganville Elementary School's cafeteria in metal containers, according to present plans. Indications from parents are that 80 of the 90 students attending the school will make immediate use of the program, Cooper explained.

Bruce High School, Westernport, is also scheduled to be included in the hot lunch program by November 1, but a special program is necessary since space at the school also prevents installation of the standard cafeteria kitchen.

With the opening of Bruce's hot lunch program, Cooper explained, that only two schools with large student bodies will be without hot lunch facilities. He named those as Mt. Savage and Flintstone, and said plans are now being considered to include the two schools in the program.

The Jackson School kitchen was installed in a former cloak room, which was redecorated and students receive their lunches by passing a window and then carrying the trays to their respective classrooms.

In several of the schools the lack of space has presented serious handicaps, but Cooper said efforts are being made constantly to utilize all possible means of giving each student in public schools the benefit of the hot lunch program.

"Loyalty" Check Of Government Employes Begins In Cumberland

Approximately 115 Workers Affected

In accordance with the recent order to make a "loyalty check" of all government employes, not only in Washington but elsewhere throughout the country, some of the approximately 115 government employes in Cumberland are being fingerprinted and are securing forms on personal data to fill out, according to a check made yesterday.

Eighty-eight of the total number of local government employes work for the Postoffice Department, and the deadline for them to submit completed forms containing personal records is February 29, postal officials said.

Over 100 of the government employes in Cumberland work in the Postoffice Building, including three representatives of the Department of Justice, eight employes of the Bureau of Internal Revenue, three conservation workers employed by the Department of Agriculture, and five Social Security employes.

Other government employes in Cumberland inculde the respective staffs of the local Veterans Administration office and the nutrition unit of the United States Public Health Service, located in City Hall.

The government directive excludes military personnel from the "loyalty check."

Postal officials said that law enforcement authorities have equipment to take the fingerprints of government employes in connection with the check.

Garrett Coal Mines Lack Wash Houses

Wash houses are not required by law at Maryland Coal mines and a medical survey conducted in Garrett County by the Bituminous Coal Industry recently showed there were none, at least at the 15 mines checked.

Maryland was found to be the only state out of 22 surveyed by Rear Admiral Joel T. Bone, Medical Corps, United States Navy, where this condition existed. Wash houses are not required in Maryland unless 60 per cent of the employes petition for them.

The survey was released by the Coal Mines Administration through Secretary of the Interior J. A. Krug and is based on data obtained in 105 selected counties in the 22 bituminous coal producing states.

It was found that Maryland produces 2,028,000 tons of coal annually, and that age groups engaged in the mining of coal show 3.4 per cent of the total are between 14 and 19 years of age.

In Garrett County the ratio of employed miners to all employed males over 14 is 19.7 per cent, as compared with 33.9 per cent in Somerset County, Pa., and 7.1 per cent in Bedford County, Pa.

A section dealing with tuberculosis showed that in Maryland more than half the people who contracted the disease in 1940 died while in 1944 one of every two and one-half succumbed.

The average annual mortality rate from tuberculosis in the period from 1939 to 1941 for Maryland was 69.6 although Garrett County showed only 16.7. Garrett County, however, was one of the few of the 105 counties surveyed which has a fulltime health officer.

Report On School Activities Shows $2,739 Profit

Gross Receipts Are $100,247.57

School activities in Allegany County's 42 public schools grossed receipts of $100,247.57 the previous year, but left a margin of only $2,739.32 profit, according to a financial report released yesterday by Dr. Charles L. Kopp, superintendent of schools.

Dr. Kopp said that expenses of operarting school activities amounted to $97,508.25, and pointed out that while same athletic activities show small margins of profit other athletic contests operate at a total loss.

The report, Dr. Kopp explained, must be published under terms of a bill passed at the last session of the state legislature. None of the money used in these activities is obtained from the regular school budget which is revenue levied from tax monies, Dr. Kopp explained.

Biggest item in the report is the $24,413.47 received from football games played by Allegany, Fort Hill and Beall High Schools. Expenditures for the same sport amount to $22,563.26. Uniforms and other expenses are heavy at the three schools.

The biggest money-maker in scholastic sports is basketball which had receipts of $8,488.45 and expenditures of $4,920.80 during the last season. More schools play basketball and expenses are not as heavy as for football.

Soccer, which is played by only a few schools, had receipts of $76.39 and expenditures of $126.20. Track is a total loss as far as receipts are concerned. No money was realized in receipts but expenses amounted to $777.24.

Baseball receipts were $268.06 and expenditures $746.77. Other sports activities realized receipts of $795.85 and expenditures of $2,142.71.

The second biggest source of revenue for the individual schools came from school and class activities such as plays, motion pictures, clubs and concerts presented under sponsorship of high schools

Receipts totalled $30, 955.69 and expenditures $24,107.53.

Largest single event of this group was $4,418 on the Marian Anderson concert last winter which was presented by Carver High School. The famous singer was paid over $3,000 for her appearance and expenses of the concert, including her fee, amounted to $3,920.

School play receipts were $6,-427.57 and expenditures $3,515.58. Motion picture receipts were $2,-009.25 and expenditures $2,155.47. Clubs had receipts of $3,516.85 and expenditures of $3,179.57. Classes in the various high schools had $8,-366.01 receipts and $6,812.28.

Other activities such as festivals, alumni activities and the Anderson concert had receipts of $10,636.01 and expenditures of $8,444.63.

Contributions and library receipts were $6,463.08 and expenditures $7,-910.61. Various Parent-Teacher Associations were the contributers to this fund.

Administration and instructional services had receipts of $10,725.35 and expenditures of $16,042.21. This included postage, telephone bills, office supplies and equipment, stockroom and school supplies.

Each school makes a report to the Board of Education and handles its own funds under the overall supervision of the superintendent of schools. Approval for various activities must be obtained from the school superintendent.

In the field of school activities one of the leading money makers is festivals of various types. School publications also realize a profit on their ventures.

Recipe Contest Will Be Held During Times-News 4-Day Cooking School

Opening Session Planned Today

Plans for a recipe contest will be announced at the opening session today at 9:15 a. m. of the Times-News New Symphony of Foods Cooking School, to be held at the Strand Theater.

Miss Edalene Stohr, nationally known home economist who will conduct the four-day program, said last night that the contest will be open to Cumberland area homemakers, and that prizes will be awarded at the closing session.

Another contest, a quiz program on cooking, is planned as one of the audience participation features of the program. Miss Stohr said she will discuss the contests at this morning's session.

Hundreds of homemakers from the tri-state area are expected to attend today's session, during which the prepartion of a "Mexican Luncheon" will be one of the features. This dish is suitable for a family or company dinner and is a "meal in one," Miss Stohr said.

She pointed out that meat conservation will be stressed throughout the program, with all recipes keyed to present-day costs. Economy cuts of meat will be prepared in unusual ways, with stress on proper cooking methods to get the most nutritive value out of each dish.

Each program will last until about 11:30 a. m., and food prepared during the session will be placed on a revolving mirror table for audience inspection.

Miss Stohr will be assisted by Miss Doris Keefe. Both are of the National Live Stock and Meat Board staff.

Each homemaker attending the school may obtain a booklet of recipes for the dishes prepared, and Miss Stohr urged that the booklets be kept throughout the four-day program and brought to each session.

Criminal Trials Open In Garrett Circuit Court

Full Bench To Hear Murder Case Today

The September term of Garrett County Circuit Court opened yesterday at Oakland with a number of prisoners arraigned before Associate Judge George Henderson for pleas and sentencing.

William Ray Butler entered a plea of guilty to a charge of carnal knowledge and was given a suspended sentence of three years.

William Lee Ottinger entered a plea of guilty to a burglary charge and Leasa Olinger charged on the same indictment, entered a plea of not guilty. No sentences was imposed, until after Olinger's trial.

Cleveland Arbogast entered a plea of guilty to a charge of burglary and was sentenced to two years in the Maryland House of Correction. Sentence was suspended subject to his good conduct.

Andrew Baker arraigned on a charge of burglary, entered a plea of guilty of the first count of the indictment only. Sentence was deferred until the other counts are heard.

George Bittinger, charged with larceny and receiving stolen goods, was sentenced to serve 18 months in the Maryland House of Correction. He entered a plea of guilty.

James A. Green entered a plea of guilty to a charge of larceny and receiving stolen goods and was sentenced to three years. Sentence was ruspended subject to his good behavior.

Edward Dale Savage and John L. Beitzel were jointly indicted on a charge of larceny and receiving stolen goods. They entered pleas of guilty, and Court suspended three year sentences on condition the defendants pay costs of the case, and reimburse the prosecuting witness for $130 worth of lumber, allegedly taken from him.

Solomon Tasker entered a plea of guilty to a charge of bigamy. He was paroled for three years.

Court attaches said these cases disposed of the bulk of criminal actions for this term, although a few cases will come before the Court and the jury for trial.

Chief among these is the murder trial of James William Hoover, of the Jennings section. Father of four children, the 28 years old Garrett countian is expected to be arraigned before a full bench when Court opens today. Chief Judge William A. Huster, this city, and Associate Judge Joseph D. Mish, Hagerstown, will go to Oakland this morning, to preside with Judge Henderson.

Hoover was indicted September 9 by a Garrett county grand jury in the death of Elzie F. Layman, 40, of Shade Mill, near Frostburg, last July 30 on Route 40. Hoover allegedly drove his truck into Layman and caused his death.

Authorities considered the death an ordinary hit-run case but a tip from William Payton, service station operator near where Layman's body was found on the highway led to the arrest of Hoover.

The accused man admitted deliberately running down Hoover following a dispute in the service station. Payton saw the Hoover truck stop at the scene where Layman's body was found.

Camera Club Plans Special Contest

A special program, including a contest for all members, will feature the monthly meeting of the Cumberland Camera Club to be held tomorrow at 8 p. m. at the Knights of Malta Hall, Prospect Square.

Details of the contest remain secret, but members are asked to bring their cameras, tripods and film. Miss Dorothy Willison, program chairman, will conduct the contest.

An exhibition of prints from the Reading, Pa., Camera Club will be on display, and the regular monthly contest of black and white and color prints entered by local members will be held. Interested high school students are invited to attend the meeting.

The 25 prints judged the finest of the 1946 local entries were exhibited at Reading, Pa., last month, and J. C. Warden and William Price won top honors when that club voted on the best five pictures. The exhibit has now been sent to Monmouth, N. J.

Warden won first, second and third place respectively, with his "Ever So Humble," "Old Grist Mill" and "Hocus Pocus"; while Price won fourth and fifth place with "Once Upon A Time" and "Old Joe," in the Reading vote.

Drivers' Turn Down Beer Dealers' Offer

Seventy-five truck drivers and beer distributors of this area will meet Friday night in a move to reach a wage agreement, according to C. E. Stutzman, business agent of Local 453, Teamsters and Chauffeurs Union, which represents the drivers.

The distributors offered a wage increase of one and one-half cents an hour, Stutzman said, but this proposal was rejected Sunday night by the drivers who are asking a $5 weekly increase.

A walkout looms next Monday unless an agreement is reached, Stutzman said.

The last three of seven trucking companies in Winchester, Va., reached agreement with the Teamsters Local Sunday following a strike which started September 1, according to Stutzman, who said the union won wage increases and better working conditions under the new contract.

Man, 68, Critically Hurt By Automobile

A 68-year-old Oakland man was in critical condition in Memorial Hospital last night from injuries West Virginia State Police said he suffered Sunday night when he walked against an automobile in front of his brother's home half a mile south of the Maryland Line on Route 219 between Silver Lake, W. Va., and Red House.

The injured man, Roy Winters, 68, was still unconscious early this morning. He suffered a fractured skull and fractured jaw. His condition was described as poor.

West Virginia Trooper Thomas Stark at Kingwood said Winters left the home of his brother, Charles, at 7 p. m., to cross the road to his car, looked in both directions and started across, but walked against a northbound automobile.

The officer said he did not have immediately available the name of the driver of the car but a member of Winters' family said it was operated by Curtis Burns, Keyser, W. Va.

Trooper Stark, who was aided in the investigation by Cpl. A. M. Hurst, said no charges were filed against the driver.

Schlosser Will Face Manslaughter Charge In School Girl's Death

Harris Refuses To Release News

Ralph Allen Schlosser, 21, Cresaptown, identified as the driver of the car which struck and fatally injured Doris Elaine Rosenberger, Allegany High school student, Saturday night will be given a preliminary hearing on a manslaughter charge Saturday, according to State Police.

Schlosser, authorities said, was questioned yesterday morning and afternoon in the office of the States Attorney in connection with the death of the girl who died in Allegany Hospital 15 minutes after she was struck on Route 220 Saturday at 6:35 p. m. as she attempted to cross the road to her home.

Dr. Benedict Skitarelic, acting deputy county medical examiner, said the girl died as a result of a fractured skull and inter-cranial hemorrhage. She also suffered a fractured left ankle and abrasions on the face and body, he stated.

Despite the fast that Schlosser was questioned twice yesterday in the office of the State's Attorney, Morgan C. Harris last night refused to comment on the case to a News reporter.

Harris who recently stated "I want to be fair" and be "treated fair," told a reporter who contacted him by telephone that he had no statement to make "on this or any other case, now or at any other time. Is that plain?" he demanded.

Although Schlosser was released yesterday without being placed under bond or arraigned on the charge, State Police said he will be given a preliminary hearing on the manslaughter count Saturday.

Miss Rosenberger, who had been visiting at a friend's home across the road from her own, was struck by the right fender of the car and thrown against the right edge of the windshield, investigating officers stated.
